Bowles Due New Job

Kennedy Shakes Up U.S. Foreign Policy Advisers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is removing Chester Bowles as undersecretary of state in a sweeping shakeup of the administration's foreign policy high command. The changes involve 10 White House and State Department officials.

No one is being dropped.

Bowles, former governor of Connecticut and ambassador to India and a Kennedy adviser during last year's presidential race, has been a controversial figure in the administration since his first weeks in office. The President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were reported to consider him misplaced in the department's No. 2 position as undersecretary.

The shakeup announcement, made Sunday night from the Kennedy headquarters at Hyannis Port, Mass., said that Bowles is to get a high policy-making position on relinquishing his present duties. There was no immediate statement from Bowles.

Officials here understood that he was being offered a combination assignment of roving ambassador and special foreign adviser to Kennedy and Rusk. As undersecretary he has spent considerable time traveling abroad and has been interested, within the State Department, chiefly in promoting policies of assistance to underdeveloped nations in Africa and Asia.

Administration leaders considered him misplaced as undersecretary, officials said, because he was more concerned with the broad lines of policy development in functioning as an idea man than in the day-to-day conduct of foreign relations traditionally handled by the undersecretary. Bowles is 60.

Other changes in the shakeup, which become effectively immediately, are these:

1. George W. Ball, 51, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, to be undersecretary of state. He will continue to concentrate on economic affairs. A Washington lawyer, he is reported to have worked very closely with Rusk in recent months, exercising some of the duties which would normally have gone to Bowles.

2. George C. McGhee, counselor and chairman of policy planning in the State Department, to be undersecretary for political affairs. McGhee thus moves up to become the No. 3 man. He is a close associate of Rusk and known in the State Department as a vigorous administrator. McGhee, 49, is a former ambassador to Turkey.

3. W. Averell Harriman, 70, former governor of New York and member of the Truman administration in former years as well as ambassador to the Soviet Union and Great Britain, to be assistant secretary for the Far East.

Auto Smashes Into Tree

Mrs. Daw, Mrs. Rowen Die, Husbands Hurt In Car Crash

SMASHED WELLSVILLE AUTO. The car in which two Wellsville women were killed and their husbands were injured badly is shown Sunday at the scene of the wreck on Route 251, near Beaver Falls. Mrs. Bessie M. Daw and Mrs. Lyda M. Rowen were killed in the collision. Their husbands, School Supt. S. E. Daw and George H. Rowen, are in "fair" condition at Presbyterian-University Hospital in Pittsburgh. A crowd of curious watched as the auto was pulled away from a tree it struck after a collision with another auto at an intersection.

Hope Fades In Hunt For Rockefeller

Smoke Clue Proves Only Brush Blaze, Search Nears End

MERAUKE, Dutch New Guinea (AP)—Hope for Michael Rockefeller faded again today as wisps of smoke wafting up from the steamy Asmat jungle off which he disappeared eight days ago were identified as burning brush.

The smoke was spotted Sunday by an Australian air force plane, raising hopes at the search headquarters. Dutch officials said an investigation proved to be "a wild goose chase."

Helicopters criss-crossing the jungle wilderness of southwest New Guinea were scheduled to end their search Tuesday night. Michael's father, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and his sister, Mary Strawbridge, were expected to leave for the United States soon after.

The governor flew over the wild country in what appeared to be his last personal effort to find his missing son. He told newsmen: "I saw nothing that would increase or decrease my hopes."

Ground parties will continue to comb the crocodile-infested jungle coast for at least two more weeks.

"We still have one hope," a Dutch district official said. "It's possible Michael might be sick or injured and given aid and shelter by the natives.

"In this eventuality it's also possible that the natives would not tell authorities about his whereabouts until after he recuperated. They might be afraid they would be blamed for his illness."

Dr. Rene S. Wassing, the Dutch anthropologist with Rockefeller when their native catamaran capsized and was swept out to sea, said he was "90 per cent positive" the six-gallon, red gasoline can found south of New Guinea Saturday was one of two Michael used as a buoy when he set out on his 3½-mile swim to shore. Wassing stayed with their overturned raft and was rescued.

The can was picked up about 120 miles from the scene of the capsizing. Dutch officials said it was possible Michael abandoned the cans after reaching shore and they were washed out to sea.

The Dutch commissioner for southern New Guinea, F. R. J. Eibrink Jansen, called a special news conference Sunday to deny that young Rockefeller, in his quest for artifacts, stirred up headhunting among the primitive Asmat tribes.

Dr. Jan Boendermaker, deputy governor of Dutch New Guinea, had said in the Netherlands that Michael had started a revival of the old headhunting practice by offering to buy skulls.

Car Struck By Another At Side Road

Injured Men 'Fair' After Transfer To Pittsburgh Hospital

Two Wellsville women were killed and their husbands were injured Sunday afternoon at 2:30 when their auto was hit broadside by another car at an intersection on Route 251, four miles west of Beaver Falls, and then went off the highway and struck a tree.

The dead are Mrs. Bessie M. Daw, 65, of 1001 Main St., Wellsville, wife of Dr. Seward E. Daw, superintendent of Wellsville schools, and Mrs. Lyda M. Rowen, also 65, of 930 Main St., wife of George H. Rowen, owner of the Rowen Oil Co.

Their husbands are in "fair" condition today at Presbyterian-University Hospital in Pittsburgh, where they were transferred late Sunday afternoon from Providence Hospital in Beaver Falls.

Daw, 71, suffered a possible concussion, a fractured right arm and lacerations of the face and head.

Rowen, 72, suffered a depressed skull fracture, a broken right arm and possible fractured ribs.

The driver of the other auto escaped unhurt, according to the Beaver County Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police near Beaver Falls. He was listed as William Adam Best, 76, of Beaver Falls.

Mrs. Daw died of a compound skull fracture, a broken right arm, a crushed chest and fractures of both legs.

Mrs. Rowen died of a compound fracture of the skull, broken neck and crushed chest.

The dead and injured were removed to the Beaver Falls hospital about 3 p. m. Daw and Rowen were transferred at 4:45 to the hospital in Pittsburgh.

The four Wellsville residents were riding in Daw's 1959 sedan, with the school superintendent at the wheel, the state police reported.

The Beaver Falls motorist halted at a stop sign at a side road intersecting with Route 251, then pulled across the highway and struck the Daw auto in the area of the left rear fender, state police said.

Daw's auto went out of control, crossed the highway and slammed sideways into a tree, the officers said. Daw's car was traveling west toward Ohio at the time of the crash, police said.

Dr. Francis Bush, deputy Beaver County coroner, aided state police in the investigation. Damage to Best's car was estimated at $200.

State police are continuing the accident investigation.

The four had been accustomed to taking drives following services at the First Methodist Church. They usually had dinner at an area restaurant.

The two women were in the rear seat. Witnesses said the car was demolished.

Word of the accident was radioed to Wellsville police by the Pennsylvania authorities. Wellsville police then telephoned Raymond S. Rolley, Board of Education clerk, who in turn called Earl Bake, board president.

They then notified Dr. Daw's sons and daughter and left for Pittsburgh. Also going to Pittsburgh to offer aid, as none of the Daw family resides in Wells-

Man Rescued Before Blaze Levels House

Donald DeNoon Suffers Burns In Shadyside Fire

A 69-year-old Shadyside Ave. man is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital, suffering from smoke inhalation and burns as a result of a $3,000 fire Sunday morning that destroyed his modest six-room home.

Donald DeNoon was led from his blazing house by an unidentified man after he apparently was trapped in a basement level bedroom, firemen reported. Placed in an oxygen tent at the hospital because of the smoke inhalation, he also suffered burns of both arms and the back.

Six East Liverpool firemen responded with two trucks and an emergency car when the alarm was received at 6:25 a. m. from an unidentified Shadyside Ave. resident. Not knowing if the fire was inside the city limits or in adjoining Liverpool Township, Asst. Chief David Anderson asked police to notify the Liverpool Township, West, department in LaCroft.

City firemen found the home a mass of flames when they arrived. They were hampered by

40 Detectives Hunt Mental Patient Who Massacred Family

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Forty detectives have been assigned to track down an escaped mental patient accused of massacring the family of a brother-in-law who helped him come to this country a year ago.

Named in a first-degree murder warrant is Mate (Mike) Ivanov, 38.

"Irrefutable evidence" places the mentally disturbed Ivanov in the home of Peter Gregov at the time of the five slayings Saturday, according to Stuyvesant Pinnell, Nassau County chief of detectives.

The killer methodically stabbed and slashed to death Gregov, 39; Mrs. Gregov, 35, and their three sons, then neatly covered the bodies—Gregov's with a rug, the others with blankets or sheets. The mother's and sons' hands were bound behind their backs.

Gregov was a waiter, holding down two jobs, one in a night club as head waiter, the other in a restaurant.

Gregov came to the United States several years ago from Yugoslavia. In 1956, he helped a brother come here. Last year, he helped another brother, his sister and her husband, Ivanov, immigrate.

Neighbors said Gregov opened his Long Island home to the

Talks Ease Berlin Stand By DeGaulle

French Chief Seen Still In Opposition To West's Strategy

LONDON (AP) — The weekend talks between President Charles de Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan apparently eased—but did not eliminate—the French leader's opposition to Western negotiations on Berlin with the Soviet Union.

No communique was issued, but this was the impression that filtered from the prime minister's closely guarded country estate where the two leaders met. De Gaulle as usual had nothing to say to newsmen when he returned to Paris.

John Russell, the British Foreign Office spokesman, said the talks were "most friendly, pleasant and intimate" but "the pattern is, in any case, not complete—there are still some further moves out in the rounds of the Western leaders."

It was learned that Macmillan and De Gaulle regarded the talks as useful and that there had been a thorough exploration of the Berlin problem and of Britain's application to join the European Common Market.

De Gaulle was expected to reserve his final decision on East-West negotiations until he discusses with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer the West German government's attitude toward a new Western approach to the Soviets.

Adenauer, if he is sufficiently recovered from the grippe, will meet with De Gaulle in Paris Thursday.

Adenauer as well as De Gaulle has been reluctant to approve negotiations on Berlin, but the chancellor's talks with President Kennedy in Washington are believed to have shown that West Germany's policy generally is in line with that of the United States and Britain.

Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's Communist chief of state, showed no yielding in a speech made public Sunday.

When his government signs a separate peace treaty with the Soviet Union, he said, the Western Allies will have to withdraw their garrisons from West Berlin gradually and negotiate with East Germany for access rights to the Red-surrounded city.

Adenauer Still Ill

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is better today but he remains confined to his home with the grippe, his office announced.

West Is Skeptical

Soviet Proposes Nuclear Test Ban

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union proposed today that the United States, Britain and France agree with it now to ban all nuclear tests. First Western reaction was skeptical since the Soviet proposal seemed to call for an uncontrolled moratorium.

The proposal was made on the eve of the resumption of nuclear test ban talks in Geneva by the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States. France, the fourth nuclear power, is not a participant but a Soviet statement said the time has come to invite the French.

The Soviet Union released a proposed four-article draft agreement and in an accompanying statement hinted they may resume tests if France does.

Under the Soviet proposal the four powers would agree to halt tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space. The argument was that each power now has the means of detecting such tests and cheating would be impossible.

The four powers also would undertake not to hold nuclear weapons tests underground while negotiating an agreement on a control system that could detect such blasts.

The proposal was delivered to the press but the embassies immediately involved—the British, American and French—were not called in. Neutral nations, however, were invited to send representatives to the Foreign Office.

The first Western reaction in Moscow was that it was aimed to end atmospheric tests now that the Soviets had completed theirs and would tie up underground tests for an indefinite period until an agreement could be reached on means of detecting them.

That amounted to giving the Soviet Union a virtual veto over the kind of tests the United States is now carrying out. The United States says it will continue underground tests regardless of the resumption of negotiations at Geneva.

The United States and Britain declared in advance of the resumption of talks at Geneva that they will not again agree to a moratorium on tests until a treaty is signed.

The Geneva treaty talks collapsed in September when the Soviet Union abruptly ended a voluntary moratorium by launching a series of atmospheric tests.

In Geneva, informed sources said the proposal is unacceptable to the West.

Western sources at the conference said the Soviet plan appeared to be an unlimited and uncontrolled moratorium on testing such as the United States and Britain have repeatedly rejected.

Violence Hits Algiers, Oran With 16 Dead

87 Hurt In Clashes Between Mobs And Troops In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Lynching, shooting and grenade-throwing by anti-De Gaulle Europeans and Algerians in revenge clashes killed 16 persons and injured 87 in one of the bloodier weekends of the seven-year Algerian war.

French troops and police were caught in the middle as terrorism swept Algiers and the big western port city of Oran.

Waving clubs, a screaming mob of Europeans broke into a jail in Algiers, lynched one Algerian woman and savagely beat another before police reinforcements drove them off. The women had been arrested after a grenade wounded three Europeans in a sidewalk cafe.

In Oran, 220 miles to the west, bands of European youths roamed the streets, attacking any Moslems they encountered in revenge for the killing of Jean Rivas, 22, who was shot in the neck as he walked along a street. Three Algerians were reported killed and six injured in these attacks. Nearly 60 plastic bombs, favorite weapon of right-wing European extremists, exploded in Algiers during the weekend.

Clandestine broadcasts by the right-wing Secret Army Organization, led by fugitive French military officers opposed to President Charles de Gaulle's self-determination policy for Algeria, stirred up the mobs.

Housewife Appointed To Head Beaver Jury

BEAVER — Mrs. Elsie Fisher of Beaver, a housewife, was named by Judge Morgan H. Sohn as foreman of the Beaver County Grand Jury, which convened this morning.

There are 22 on the jury. No Midland area cases are scheduled today except that of Albert Coffey of Rochester and James R. Coffey of New Brighton, who are charged with burglary by Industry Police Chief Guy St. Esprit.

The case of Robert Sentz of Midland, charged with aggravated assault and battery, is scheduled Tuesday.

30 Red Refugees Die

HONG KONG (AP)—More than 30 refugees from Red China lost their lives and 100 others were captured by Red border patrols in attempts to flee the China mainland over the weekend, the local Chinese press reported today.

Animals, Hay Lost As Fire Levels Barn

Fire destroyed a large barn and some livestock on the Sylvester Smith farm on the Clarkston - Sprucevale Rd. about 4 a. m. today. It is about three miles from Calcutta.

The property is the old Conkle farm, where the notorious Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd was shot and killed by law enforcement officers in 1934.

No estimate has been made of the damage although it is expected to be about $5,000. Destroyed in the blaze were two milk cows, a Black Angus calf, several tons of hay, straw and grain and two brood sows. One of the sows had 22 shoats and the other had farrowed last night.

Smith was at work at the Crucible Steel Co. at Midland when the fire started. John Johnston of the Beaver Kettle Farms spotted the blaze about 4 a. m. and went to the scene. He awakened the family with the aid of a neighbor and then notified the Calcutta volunteer fire department.

The firemen responded with a tanker truck and a pumper, remaining on standby to protect the

Statehouse Rites Planned For Senator Bridges, 63

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A funeral service at the New Hampshire state house at noon Wednesday is planned for Sen. Styles Bridges, 63, senior Republican member of the Senate, who died Sunday.

Bridges' death was not likely to change the present partisan lineup in the Senate but a liberal-conservative struggle to choose a successor in the Senate Republican leadership appeared possible when Congress reconvenes in January.

President Kennedy led the tributes to the senator, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, ranking member of the powerful Appropriations Committee and second ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee.

Many political observers in traditionally Republican New Hampshire believed Republican Gov. Wesley Powell, a graduate of Bridges' staff, would be appointed to succeed him, although some other reports mentioned Bridges' widow.

The appointee will hold the seat only until the 1962 election, when the voters will choose a senator to complete the balance of Bridges' term, which expires in 1966.

Powell can not appoint himself. He would have to resign as governor and be appointed by his successor, the president of the state Senate, Samuel Green, a Manchester Republican.

Bridges' office said the senator "died peacefully in his sleep at 5 a.m. in his Concord, N.H., home by complications arising from a severe coronary attack suffered Sept. 20."

Praise, Criticism

Kennedy Gets Postcard Viewpoints From People

WASHINGTON (AP) — The people are telling President Kennedy what's on their minds—and also telling him off a bit—in stacks of oversize blue postcards piling up at the White House.

They praise him warmly or criticize him on his administration harshly. They talk about socialism, communism, nuclear tests, a balanced budget, fallout shelters, Caroline, racial and religious intolerance.

More than anything else, they are strongly for or strongly against medical care for the aged financed through the Social Security System.

These blue cards are special ones, already addressed to Kennedy at the White House and even carrying the salutation "Dear Mr. President."

They were on hand for anyone who wanted to pick them up at the series of regional conferences just staged in 12 cities under government auspices. Cabinet members and squads of other top-rank administration officials made the circuit, delivering speeches, taking part in panels, answering questions.

The objective, the administration said, was to tell the people about the record of Congress and the administration and to obtain their views.

A survey of the first 200 cards contained contributions from eight cities: Chicago, St. Louis, Nashville, Denver, Detroit, Cleveland, New York and Philadelphia.

The one topic that stands out in the first communications is

French Chief Seen Still In Opposition To West's Strategy

LONDON (AP) — The weekend talks between President Charles de Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan apparently eased—but did not eliminate—the French leader's opposition to Western negotiations on Berlin with the Soviet Union.

No communique was issued, but this was the impression that filtered from the prime minister's closely guarded country estate where the two leaders met. De Gaulle as usual had nothing to say to newsmen when he returned to Paris.

John Russell, the British Foreign Office spokesman, said the talks were "most friendly, pleasant and intimate" but "the pattern is, in any case, not complete—there are still some further moves out in the rounds of the Western leaders."

It was learned that Macmillan and De Gaulle regarded the talks as useful and that there had been a thorough exploration of the Berlin problem and of Britain's application to join the European Common Market.

De Gaulle was expected to reserve his final decision on East-West negotiations until he discusses with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer the West German government's attitude toward a new Western approach to the Soviets.

Adenauer, if he is sufficiently recovered from the grippe, will meet with De Gaulle in Paris Thursday.

Adenauer as well as De Gaulle has been reluctant to approve negotiations on Berlin, but the chancellor's talks with President Kennedy in Washington are believed to have shown that West Germany's policy generally is in line with that of the United States and Britain.

Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's Communist chief of state, showed no yielding in a speech made public Sunday.

When his government signs a separate peace treaty with the Soviet Union, he said, the Western Allies will have to withdraw their garrisons from West Berlin gradually and negotiate with East Germany for access rights to the Red-surrounded city.

Adenauer Still Ill

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is better today but he remains confined to his home with the grippe, his office announced.

West Is Skeptical

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union proposed today that the United States, Britain and France agree with it now to ban all nuclear tests. First Western reaction was skeptical since the Soviet proposal seemed to call for an uncontrolled moratorium.

The proposal was made on the eve of the resumption of nuclear test ban talks in Geneva by the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States. France, the fourth nuclear power, is not a participant but a Soviet statement said the time has come to invite the French.

The Soviet Union released a proposed four-article draft agreement and in an accompanying statement hinted they may resume tests if France does.

Under the Soviet proposal the four powers would agree to halt tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space. The argument was that each power now has the means of detecting such tests and cheating would be impossible.

The four powers also would undertake not to hold nuclear weapons tests underground while negotiating an agreement on a control system that could detect such blasts.

The proposal was delivered to the press but the embassies immediately involved—the British, American and French—were not called in. Neutral nations, however, were invited to send representatives to the Foreign Office.

The first Western reaction in Moscow was that it was aimed to end atmospheric tests now that the Soviets had completed theirs and would tie up underground tests for an indefinite period until an agreement could be reached on means of detecting them.

That amounted to giving the Soviet Union a virtual veto over the kind of tests the United States is now carrying out. The United States says it will continue underground tests regardless of the resumption of negotiations at Geneva.

The United States and Britain declared in advance of the resumption of talks at Geneva that they will not again agree to a moratorium on tests until a treaty is signed.

The Geneva treaty talks collapsed in September when the Soviet Union abruptly ended a voluntary moratorium by launching a series of atmospheric tests.

In Geneva, informed sources said the proposal is unacceptable to the West.

Western sources at the conference said the Soviet plan appeared to be an unlimited and uncontrolled moratorium on testing such as the United States and Britain have repeatedly rejected.

Praise, Criticism

Kennedy Gets Postcard Viewpoints From People

WASHINGTON (AP) — The people are telling President Kennedy what's on their minds—and also telling him off a bit—in stacks of oversize blue postcards piling up at the White House.

They praise him warmly or criticize him on his administration harshly. They talk about socialism, communism, nuclear tests, a balanced budget, fallout shelters, Caroline, racial and religious intolerance.

More than anything else, they are strongly for or strongly against medical care for the aged financed through the Social Security System.

These blue cards are special ones, already addressed to Kennedy at the White House and even carrying the salutation "Dear Mr. President."

They were on hand for anyone who wanted to pick them up at the series of regional conferences just staged in 12 cities under government auspices. Cabinet members and squads of other top-rank administration officials made the circuit, delivering speeches, taking part in panels, answering questions.

The objective, the administration said, was to tell the people about the record of Congress and the administration and to obtain their views.

A survey of the first 200 cards contained contributions from eight cities: Chicago, St. Louis, Nashville, Denver, Detroit, Cleveland, New York and Philadelphia.

The one topic that stands out in the first communications is

87 Hurt In Clashes Between Mobs And Troops In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Lynching, shooting and grenade-throwing by anti-De Gaulle Europeans and Algerians in revenge clashes killed 16 persons and injured 87 in one of the bloodier weekends of the seven-year Algerian war.

French troops and police were caught in the middle as terrorism swept Algiers and the big western port city of Oran.

Waving clubs, a screaming mob of Europeans broke into a jail in Algiers, lynched one Algerian woman and savagely beat another before police reinforcements drove them off. The women had been arrested after a grenade wounded three Europeans in a sidewalk cafe.

In Oran, 220 miles to the west, bands of European youths roamed the streets, attacking any Moslems they encountered in revenge for the killing of Jean Rivas, 22, who was shot in the neck as he walked along a street. Three Algerians were reported killed and six injured in these attacks. Nearly 60 plastic bombs, favorite weapon of right-wing European extremists, exploded in Algiers during the weekend.

Clandestine broadcasts by the right-wing Secret Army Organization, led by fugitive French military officers opposed to President Charles de Gaulle's self-determination policy for Algeria, stirred up the mobs.

Housewife Appointed To Head Beaver Jury

BEAVER — Mrs. Elsie Fisher of Beaver, a housewife, was named by Judge Morgan H. Sohn as foreman of the Beaver County Grand Jury, which convened this morning.

There are 22 on the jury. No Midland area cases are scheduled today except that of Albert Coffey of Rochester and James R. Coffey of New Brighton, who are charged with burglary by Industry Police Chief Guy St. Esprit.

The case of Robert Sentz of Midland, charged with aggravated assault and battery, is scheduled Tuesday.

30 Red Refugees Die

Young Driver Loses Permit After Mishap

A 20-year-old Wellsville motorist had his license suspended for 30 days and was fined $50 and costs today in Municipal Court on a reckless driving charge filed by the State Highway Patrol after his car rammed a rock slide just outside the city limits on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. early Saturday morning.

The suspension and fine were handed David E. Bayer of R. D. 1 by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who told the youth he was lucky he wasn't killed or charged with drunken driving.

Judge Chertoff told the youth to make arrangements to pay for a city - owned red flasher unit damaged by his auto.

State Highway Patrolman J. J. Wattleworth, who cited Bayer, said the youth had been drinking and "was almost drunk enough to charge."

The patrolman said the rock slide had virtually blocked the southbound lane about a tenth of a mile south of the city limits. City Patrolmen S. E. Hayes and K. J. Montgomery had placed cones and a red flasher unit about 100 yards from the slide, and were directing traffic with flashlights until a highway crew could clear the road.

Driving at a high rate of speed, Bayer disregarded the officers and the signal and his car struck the rocks, police said. He tried to start the car in an attempt to flee before officers could reach his auto, the state patrolman said.

A hearing for Linda Mitchell, 19, of Marshallton, Iowa, was continued until 9 a. m. Tuesday when she pleaded innocent to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Her bond of $107.50 was continued.

Miss Mitchell was arrested early Saturday morning after her car struck a parked car on Harvey Ave. and then continued, finally halting in the yard of a home.

Judge Chertoff continued the case to permit Patrolman S. E. Hayes, who filed the charge, to appear.

Homer C Wells of Adena R. D. 2. a truck driver, forfeited a $27 bond on a charge of crashing a traffic light at W. 8th and Lisbon Sts. early Friday.

A hearing for Hugh W. Patterson, 38, of 631 Dresden Ave. on a 19-month-old charge of reckless driving was continued until 9 a. m. Dec. 11. Patterson was released on his own recognizance. He appeared voluntarily this morning to answer the charge filed by Patrolman Paul Carter after his car struck a blinker standard at St. Clair Ave. and Walnut St. on April 6, 1960. He had pleaded not guilty when arraigned the following day.

Dress Size Vs. Weight Analyzed

The dress size controversy goes on. In September a reducer reported that in the early spring she weighed 157 pounds, and found her old size 14½ dresses impossibly tight. Her height is 5 feet 4, age 39. In three months time she reduced 25 pounds and could then get into her size 13 dresses.

Ida Jean Kain

A perplexed dieter who still wears size 22½ writes in protest: "I'd like to see anyone weighing 157 pounds wear a size 14½! I think some women who could once get into a size 14½ just shut their eyes while buying a size 22½. I have lost about 19 pounds since March and I still wear size 22½. When I wore 14½ I weighed 116 pounds. I now weigh 150 pounds. Please explain. Thanks!"

—:—

AS YOU KNOW, there is a weight range within which you can wear a certain size dress. The average number of pounds between sizes depends on stature.

In small sizes there is a 10-pound difference; medium 12 to 14; and in large sizes there are 16 or more pounds between sizes. The manufacturers dress size is within 2 to 4 pounds of the top weight limit.

Now for the facts on size 14½. Average weight for size 14½ is 130 pounds, with these body measurements: Bust 37, waist 29½; abdominal extension 36½; hips 38 average; 36 slender and 40 for full hips.

So, how could our model wear size 14½ at her former weight of 157 pounds? Note, the 14½ size dresses were "impossibly tight." In short, she probably couldn't get into them. It's true that one's clothes stretch to accommodate added poundage, but when the seams part, on an already let-out size...that's it.

Even so, dress size versus weight is a baffling subject, so let's seek another explanation. Could it be that some manufacturers put a smaller size on the label than the measurements of the dress actual warrant? It could be!

Despite the fact that standard body measurements are available for all sizes, it is conceivable that some manufacturers alter the "interval" or measurement differences between the sizes. For example: In half - sizes the normal interval is two inches from one size to the next.

If the measurement difference is reduced, say to 1½ inches, this tends to allow a heavier woman to wear a smaller size designation than is considered standard. This smaller size label tends to flatter the woman...and makes her happy to buy the dress. On the subject of sizes, women are highly sensitive.

ONE OTHER factor needs examining: The crucial measurements are the waist and the abdominal extension.

Since dresses are usually fitted at the waist, the woman whose waist is smaller than average for her weight, can almost always get into a smaller size than her weight would otherwise warrant.

Well, that's about the size of it.

Weekend Car Mishaps Hurt Girl, 2 Adults

A 10-year-old girl was hurt when struck by an auto and a Midland man and his passenger were injured when their car went out of control and struck guardrails on Dresden Ave., police reported.

Ruth Elaine Craven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craven, 1069 Dresden Ave., escaped with minor injuries Sunday at 12:25 p. m. when she was bumped by an auto as she ran across the street near her home, officers said

The girl was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the left wrist, both knees and cheeks.

The child was bumped by a 1960 station wagon driven by Vernon L. Hileman, 43, of Canonsburg, Pa., who was driving north on Dresden about 25 to 30 miles an hour, officers said.

The girl's father told police Ruth was one of three youngsters who had just alighted from a car driven by his father, Arch Craven. Karen Craven ran across Dresden Ave. and was missed narrowly by the Hileman auto, he said. Then Ruth followed and was hit by the left front fender of the vehicle, despite the driver's efforts to halt.

Hileman told police he saw three girls standing in front of a parked car as he drove north on Dresden. The first girl ran across the street, then shouted to the two on the other side, he related. When the second girl ran into the street, he was unable to halt in time to avoid striking her, he said.

A collision at 4:15 a. m. Sunday on Dresden Ave. at W. 9th St. injured Ralph Mihlbauer, 51, of 62-F, Midland Heights, and his passenger, Mrs. Arizona Carnes, 53, of Green Ln., police said.

Mrs. Carnes was admitted to the hospital with multiple facial lacerations, a cerebral concussion and contusions to the right knee. She is in "fair" condition today.

Mihlbauer was treated for a small laceration of the lower lip, contusions of the right hand and abrasions and contusions of the chest.

Mihlbauer told police he was driving south on Dresden about 20 miles an hour when his steering gear locked, causing the auto to slam into the guardrails. The entire front of the auto was damaged. Police described it as a total loss.

A collision at W. 3rd and Jefferson Sts. Saturday at 5:01 p. m. damaged a 1957 two-door sedan driven by Jack S. Watson, 28, of Lisbon R. D. 3 and a 1960 two-door sedan operated by Robert Cunningham, 38, of Columbus, officers said.

The cars met at right angles at the intersection — Watson going north on Jefferson and Cunningham driving west on W. 3rd. Each said he did not see the other in time to avoid a crash, police said

U.N. Troops Control Kindu, Massacre Site

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The United Nations today announced its Ethiopian troops have taken control of the mutinous town of Kindu, where Congolese troops slaughtered 13 Italian U.N. airmen.

No details of the takeover were announced except that the European population—estimated at 81—is well and safe.

Since the massacre two weeks ago, U.N. forces had been confined to the airport, with only occasional reconnaissance forays into the town controlled by the Congolese troops.

Highway Toll Reaches 449 Over Holiday

By The Associated Press

Traffic	449
Fires	40
Miscellaneous	102
Total	591

Traffic deaths across the nation during the long weekend held close to the usual toll for a Thanksgiving holiday period.

Fatalities during the 102-hour period that ended at midnight numbered 449. That compared with 442 in 1960, 445 in 1959 and 454 in 1958.

During the period that began at 6 p.m.—local time—Wednesday 40 died in fires and 102 in accidents of other kinds for an over-all total of 591.

The National Safety Council did not estimate a traffic death toll for the Thanksgiving holiday period. However, it said deaths on the highway for a non-holiday weekend at this time of year would total 450.

An Associated Press survey for the 102-hour period from 6 p.m. Wednesday Nov. 8 to midnight Sunday Nov 12 showed 462 traffic fatalities. 37 killed in fires and 106 deaths in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all total of 605.

Weekend Car Mishaps Hurt Girl, 2 Adults

A 10-year-old girl was hurt when struck by an auto and a Midland man and his passenger were injured when their car went out of control and struck guardrails on Dresden Ave., police reported.

Ruth Elaine Craven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craven, 1069 Dresden Ave., escaped with minor injuries Sunday at 12:25 p. m. when she was bumped by an auto as she ran across the street near her home, officers said

The girl was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the left wrist, both knees and cheeks.

The child was bumped by a 1960 station wagon driven by Vernon L. Hileman, 43, of Canonsburg, Pa., who was driving north on Dresden about 25 to 30 miles an hour, officers said.

The girl's father told police Ruth was one of three youngsters who had just alighted from a car driven by his father, Arch Craven. Karen Craven ran across Dresden Ave. and was missed narrowly by the Hileman auto, he said. Then Ruth followed and was hit by the left front fender of the vehicle, despite the driver's efforts to halt.

Hileman told police he saw three girls standing in front of a parked car as he drove north on Dresden. The first girl ran across the street, then shouted to the two on the other side, he related. When the second girl ran into the street, he was unable to halt in time to avoid striking her, he said.

A collision at 4:15 a. m. Sunday on Dresden Ave. at W. 9th St. injured Ralph Mihlbauer, 51, of 62-F, Midland Heights, and his passenger, Mrs. Arizona Carnes, 53, of Green Ln., police said.

Mrs. Carnes was admitted to the hospital with multiple facial lacerations, a cerebral concussion and contusions to the right knee. She is in "fair" condition today.

Mihlbauer was treated for a small laceration of the lower lip, contusions of the right hand and abrasions and contusions of the chest.

Mihlbauer told police he was driving south on Dresden about 20 miles an hour when his steering gear locked, causing the auto to slam into the guardrails. The entire front of the auto was damaged. Police described it as a total loss.

A collision at W. 3rd and Jefferson Sts. Saturday at 5:01 p. m. damaged a 1957 two-door sedan driven by Jack S. Watson, 28, of Lisbon R. D. 3 and a 1960 two-door sedan operated by Robert Cunningham, 38, of Columbus, officers said.

The cars met at right angles at the intersection — Watson going north on Jefferson and Cunningham driving west on W. 3rd. Each said he did not see the other in time to avoid a crash, police said

U.N. Troops Control Kindu, Massacre Site

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The United Nations today announced its Ethiopian troops have taken control of the mutinous town of Kindu, where Congolese troops slaughtered 13 Italian U.N. airmen.

No details of the takeover were announced except that the European population—estimated at 81—is well and safe.

Since the massacre two weeks ago, U.N. forces had been confined to the airport, with only occasional reconnaissance forays into the town controlled by the Congolese troops.

Highway Toll Reaches 449 Over Holiday

By The Associated Press

Traffic	449
Fires	40
Miscellaneous	102
Total	591

Traffic deaths across the nation during the long weekend held close to the usual toll for a Thanksgiving holiday period.

Fatalities during the 102-hour period that ended at midnight numbered 449. That compared with 442 in 1960, 445 in 1959 and 454 in 1958.

During the period that began at 6 p.m.—local time—Wednesday 40 died in fires and 102 in accidents of other kinds for an over-all total of 591.

The National Safety Council did not estimate a traffic death toll for the Thanksgiving holiday period. However, it said deaths on the highway for a non-holiday weekend at this time of year would total 450.

An Associated Press survey for the 102-hour period from 6 p.m. Wednesday Nov. 8 to midnight Sunday Nov 12 showed 462 traffic fatalities. 37 killed in fires and 106 deaths in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all total of 605.

A Little Secrecy Might Help

The Defense Department is finishing work on a pamphlet about civil defense and will put the thing into nationwide circulation during December.

In the light of a promise that 60 million copies of the pamphlet will be printed — that's one for every three of us — this should be the "best seller" of the century.

Advance reports indicate the text will bear down on community-type shelters, though it is not expected to explain how these shelters might be financed. This stress, if it does nothing else, will ease bitterness created by the ridiculous issue over whether or not to kill the neighbors if they try to muscle into family shelters.

But no one expects that switching emphasis from family shelters to community shelters will ease confusion. Community shelters in urban areas for the security of people who work during the day would be meaningless if the people were home in the suburbs at night or during holidays. It's obvious that the ideal time for nuclear attack would be after dark. An enemy capable of making the attack would give no thought to the convenience of the attack's intended victims.

One more thing has become obvious. The United States is making a collective fool of itself by proclaiming its confusion over civil defense to the world.

Last July President Kennedy said the time to protect U.S. families against the radioactive fallout of a nuclear war was "now." This November the members of U.S. families are still wondering what their young president had in mind last July. He has given no hint.

But his word had a clearly visible effect. Confusion replaced apathy as the national mood. The Soviet Union's 100-megaton bomb punctuated the confusion with a "shot heard 'round the world."

The federal government's 1959 publication, "The Fallout Shelter," is being examined for clues to security. Various spokesmen of various degrees of incompetency are telling us that half of us might live long enough to see the genetic confusion that would grow out of too much radiation absorbed by ancestors of the yet unborn generations.

If a federal pamphlet could clear up the people's confusion it would be worth what it costs, which will be considerable. But it's unlikely anything could clear up the people's confusion now; it has been allowed to drag on too long.

An interesting sidelight is the inability of U.S. observers in Russia to find evidence of civil defense there. The reason seems to be that Russian civil defense is concentrated on preparations for national safety, not the safety of individuals. Only indispensables would be worried about; all others would be considered expendable. Russia's civil defense problems are secret. They are not discussed.

It is significant in this connection that government officials are preoccupied with saving themselves in this country, though they have made no progress in plans for saving taxpayers. Perhaps a plan for saving the rest of us will be the surprise package in the forthcoming pamphlet.

With 60 million of the things available, they alone should provide some protection against fallout.

Time For Care

For the second time within a week death has struck home in tragic fashion as two more district residents have lost their lives in a traffic accident.

What has happened cannot be undone. But what has happened can serve as a warning to others in the hectic holiday period that lies ahead.

The burden on the individual motorist will become ever greater from now through Jan. 1 as thousands more cars take to the highways.

If you find it necessary to travel during this time, exercise extreme care. See that you are prepared physically and that your car is sound mechanically.

The accidents of the last few days have been horrifying. With extra caution, it may be possible to keep similar tragedies out of the headlines of the future.

Safest Bet In Diplomacy

Russian diplomacy is a safe bet. It runs true to form.

There is a rule about training animals that it's wise to take advantage of the weakness of the animal.

Dogs will knock themselves out for morsels of food. Horses become more tractable if a lump of sugar is in prospect. Seals have a weakness for fish.

In the inner circles of diplomacy, which is a kind of animal training in itself, there is a similar rule. For generations the British "bumbled through," doing everything the hard way but doing it consistently. Italians thrive on grace and elegance. Asiatics love intrigue. Frenchmen like to carry on diplomacy in an atmosphere of sophistication and genteel dialogue.

And Russians?

Their diplomacy never varies. They can be counted on to do the same thing under the same circumstances.

When they feel pressure they react by picking on a helpless country like Finland.

When they dare, they ram their hand into the cookie jar and try to steal cookies.

When they encounter force, they retreat.

When they encounter weakness, they bully.

They love peace, they say, but they do not love it consistently. What they love consistently is a chance to kick somebody in the slats, and they can be counted on to do this every chance they get.

Though reputed to possess a fixed credo and an international discipline, the Communists who rule Russia can be counted on to come apart at the seams regularly. They can be relied on to change their party line as often as they change their underwear. They can be depended on to fall into quarrels and schisms. They are sure to quarrel with non-Russian Communists.

All these things are known. They have been known a long time. The Russians always have behaved the same way. Getting along with them in diplomacy should be as cut and dried as getting along with any nation whose characteristics make its actions predictable.

Yet the United States always acts as if it had been taken by surprise whenever Russia makes a move. It reacts; it does not take command. If it did take Command, Russia would react.

The United States is the next safest bet in diplomacy, in other words. It waits to see what Russia will do first.

Cross On The Hill

The giant cross on Radio Heights has attracted considerable attention and has been the subject of much favorable comment.

It reflects the solemn aspect of Christmas and is a fitting part of the pre-holiday season.

Violence That Begets Violence

Hopes are high that the Dominican Republic may now be free of the kind of high-handed rule practiced by the Trujillos.

But high hopes in situations like this one are rarely sustained by events. There is no way to sustain them. The hopes run contrary to the nature of the people involved.

When Fidel Castro liberated Cuba from the Battistans hopes were high that terror would stop. Today, Castro's terror is as bad as Battista's terror used to be. Tomorrow, the terror of Castro's successor will be as bad as his is today.

Violence in Latin America breeds violence. No matter how well-intentioned a new government is at the beginning, the only way it can maintain itself against the terrorists who will try to overthrow it is to offset their terror with terror of its own.

In the United States, where political terror is all but unknown, the same formula holds good in the exercise of power. Would-be governments criticize governments in power for the very policies the would-be governments will maintain if they come to power.

Critics of spending become spenders. Critics of indecision show even more indecision than their predecessors. And not infrequently those who have been charging corruption against a government in power become even more corrupt when they assume power. It is hopeful that the Dominican Republic with the Trujillos absent could settle down for a long interval of peace, quiet, good order and political dignity. It is realistic to expect that the new government soon will be using violence to offset the violence it will encounter on the part of its opponents.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Mortimer Topblower was a little late getting around to the Metropolitan Museum to see the $2.3 million painting, "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer," but has come through with his opinion. "I never checked on the principal characters and don't know too much about either one. But they must of been big leaguers to get into a painting worth $2.3 million long after their death, even with Rembrandt's assistance," he said.

"I am no art critic, but I thought Rembrandt made one mistake. It's easy to see that Aristotle is contemplating the bust, but Rembrandt fails to convey what Artistotle thinks of it. To me Aristotle seems to be giving Homer's bust a casual once-over like he was asking himself whether to leave it on the table in the living room or put it up in the attic.

"Aristotle has a yes-and-no expression. Homer looks like he was contemplating Aristotle, too, and doesn't look too pleased with him. Nevertheless, it is a treat these days, to see a painting by an artist who never turned out a painting that seemed to be a study of a leaky paintpot contemplating a junkpile in purple and green after a collision with an omelet that had been stepped on by an elephant. I could tell at once that Rembrandt had talent and never painted with the wrong end of a brush in a spell of complete dizziness.

"Even if I never knew Aristotle and figured Homer was the Roger Maris of his times, I got a definite idea of what the painting was about instead of being shown two empty beer cans, a bunch of bananas and some spaghetti strings labeled "Mona Lisa Contemplating An Etching of Lizzie Borden At Twilight.'

This Rembrandt was good. I say that without wanting to give the impression I don't prefer my bogus Currier & Ives Central Park Ice pond and don't get a bigger kick out of Grandma Moses contemplating the New England landscape. All in all I wasn't disappointed. It ain't every day a man can drop in and see $2.3 million."

Two Wrongs Don't Make A Right

Ohio Political Races Still Unclear

By Duane E. Croft

Last week's announcements by Republican Auditor James A. Rhodes and Democratic Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy that they will seek their parties' nominations for governor didn't clear the air of much speculation about next year's state political races.

Both had been making speeches and shaking hands all over Ohio for months and were considered the most likely candidates to be the first to toss their hats into the ring.

Highest interest at this point focuses on their potential opposition.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle cannot be counted out of the Democratic primary as long as the "draft" movement continues to urge him to rescind his decision not to run for re-election.

But he has acknowledged there may be no such thing as a genuine draft movement that succeeds and continues to say his decision not to run was final.

Mr. McElroy apparently is taking the governor at his word, since the attorney general had indicated earlier he would go for re-election to his present office if Gov. DiSalle did likewise.

Lt. Gov. John Donahey of Alliance has all but taken himself off the list of possible gubernatorial contenders on the Democratic side by saying he would run for the top office only as an incumbent.

THAT MEANS he would enter the governor's race only if Gov. DiSalle resigns before the Feb. 7 filing deadline. Despite continued speculation that he has his eye on a Washington job, the governor never has given any grounds for believing he would quit his Columbus office that far ahead of the end of his term (at the end of 1962), if at all.

Mr. Donahey says he is more likely to go for re-election as lieutenant governor or for the auditor's office being vacated by Mr. Rhodes. The lieutenant governor's father, Vic Donahey, served as auditor more than 40 years ago before taking on the governor's chores in the 1920s.

Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys is considered a possibility for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination contest. He long has been rumored to be Gov. DiSalle's personal choice, but the latter steadfastly refuses to give a public nod to anyone.

Cleveland Mayor Anthony Celebreze's name also comes up in any conversation on next year's possibilities. When he was running for his fifth term, which he won Nov. 7, he promised he would stick to the job. But a Cleveland "draft" movement to put him in the governor's race would surprise no one.

ON THE REPUBLICAN side, some party elements undisposed to jump on the Rhodes bandwagon, notably among Young Republican groups, have been urging State Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Cincinnati to get into the fray.

Mr. Taft, son of the late "Mr. Republican," has said he prefers the legislative branch of government and includes two such posts —congressman-at-large and U.S. senator — among the jobs he is considering asking for.

But he also says, without elaboration, that there are some "special circumstances" in the gubernatorial situation which might influence him. He expects to make a decision soon — perhaps before next weekend.

With Mr McElroy and Mr. Rhodes bowing out of their present offices, there should be a rush to fill the vacuums.

The lure of the attorney generalship already has beckoned a bunch of candidates on both sides of the political fence. Republicans who have announced for it include William Saxbe, who lost the office to Mr. McElroy in 1958; State Sen. Kline Roberts of Columbus, and John Lloyd of Cincinnati, former president of Ohio Young Republicans.

State Sen. Kenneth Berry of Coshocton and Summit County Prosecutor John S. Ballard have been reported eyeing the job, too, but Mr. Berry says he'll think mighty hard before deciding not to finish out his four-year term in the legislature.

DEMOCRATS WHO have taken out petitions include Judge Harold Richert of Mahoning County Common Pleas Court and Robert E. Sweeney of Bay Village, son of the late U.S. Rep. Martin L. Sweeney.

Danny D. Johnson, New Philadelphia attorney who served two then lost out last year to Mr. Berry, is rumored to be thinkyears in the Ohio Senate and ing about a bid for the nomination for attorney general.

Potential candidates for state auditor have been scarce, but Mr. Rhodes' announcement may bring some out into the open.

State Sen. John W. Brown, R-Medina, was said to be yearning for the nomination several months ago, but he has announced he will try again for his old job as lieutenant governor.

He has at least one opponent in the Republican primary—State Sen. Charles W. Whalen Jr., who is more than halfway through a methodical campaign to visit Republican leaders and office holders in every one of Ohio's 88 counties.

With the municipal elections and legislative session out of the way and the news-short Christmas holidays coming up, announcements of political gambles will be increasingly frequent in the next few weeks.

Bowles' Vague Roles

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Ever since last summer Chester Bowles, No. 2 in the State Department, has looked like a man who had been put on probation but was going to lose his job anyway.

President Kennedy seemed unable to make up his mind about his undersecretary of state. It was hardly a good or happy situation for a State Department man who had to deal with foreign governments. Bowles seemed to want to cling to the job.

Now Kennedy has bounced him from the undersecretary's job, offered him another.

Sunday, in the first big shakeup of his administration Kennedy shifted around a group of White House and State Department officials, including Bowles.

All the changes were specific except the one affecting Bowles who had been an adviser to Kennedy in the 1960 presidential campaign, head of the Office of Price Administration during the war, an ambassador to India, and governor of Connecticut.

In Bowles' case Kennedy was just as vague as he had been before. The announcement made from Kennedy's headquarters at Hyannis Port said simply that Bowles would get a "high policy-making position."

Perhaps this means he'll be offered a job as roving ambassador. If so, it's the kind of job rumored in store for him last summer when it became clear, but perhaps not to Bowles, that his days as undersecretary were numbered.

Two things are odd about this case: the way Kennedy handled the man who was next in command to Secretary Dean Rusk at the State Department; and the way Bowles took for months what amounted to a public embarrassment.

In the first place it has never been made clear—certainly not officially clear—why Kennedy was dissatisfied with Bowles.

Last summer for several days there were news stories predicting Bowles was going to be yanked and made a roving ambassador because he didn't get along well in the State Department and was not a good administrator.

This didn't make much sense in view of the high administrative jobs Bowles had handled: as boss of OPA during the war and, after it, of the Office of Price Stabilization, and as governor of his state.

This writer has been told by a source who ought to know that Bowles did get along well at State. It's an educated guess that Bowles and Kennedy didn't get along well.

The stories predicting Bowles' downfall indicated the information critical of his performance at State came from White House people close to Kennedy.

But the anti-Bowles outburst was followed by a story—clearly pointing to its unnamed informants as men around Bowles—which said bluntly he'd get out of the Kennedy administration if he was removed as undersecretary.

The same day the pro-Bowles story appeared, Kennedy lunched with him and the White House denied Bowles was leaving.

This inspired liberal Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Pennsylvania Democrat and supporter of liberal Bowles, to announce on the Senate floor the conflict involving Bowles was "all over." It didn't seem over to a lot of people in Washington.

Then Kennedy added to the uncertainty by saying at a news conference he had never asked Bowles for his resignation, had complete confidence in him, and always expected him to serve out the life of his administration.

But—Kennedy didn't say Bowles would not be removed as undersecretary. He said, instead, that as of then he thought Bowles should stay as undersecretary, that he had no plans to ask him to take another assignment, but that he would ask Bowles if he thought he would fit in better somewhere else.

That wasn't the same as saying he was going to remain undersecretary. Then it became a matter of waiting to see what happened to Bowles for by that time —because of Kennedy's vagueness—it was apparent that Bowles was on the chute.

Some 200,000 new residences have gone up in West Berlin since the end of World War II. Every usable scrap of rubble from Allied bombings went into the rebuilding. The rest, piled in huge mounds, was planted with flowers and grass to provide hilly park scenery.

A Union Feud

By Victor Riesel

Urgent Nuclear Projects Suffer As Result

There are a lot of men out Las Vegas way who go in for slot machine unionism. They put their dues into the maw and expect to hit the jack pot each time. If they don't, they get churlish and picket — even if this slows us down in the race with the Soviets for outer space and in the grim competition for deadlier — and therefore more deterrent—weapons.

Victor Riesel

This is exactly what happened the other day at Mercury, Nev., —for the second time in six months — at the mystery maze of man-made mines, hydrogen tank "farms," weird tunnels, and neo-space engines which may someday take astronauts to Mars and beyond.

On Nov. 20th, some 2,000 construction workers hit the bricks there, tying up something called the Space Nuclear Propulsion Office experimental grounds as well as a super secret joint Atomic Energy Commission — Air Force project.

THEY STRUCK not for money but because a couple of local unions were pouting at each other. And this is what was caught up in the middle of the inter-union fight:

There are three urgent projects at Mercury, though the pickets showed no sense of urgency despite the rate at which national United States space and weapons men were pulling their hair out over the delays.

One is Project Rover, a joint AEC and NASA effort for which Congress has increased appropriations three times. Here scientists are trying to develop a nuclear engine which will drive a space ship millions of miles. Few projects have the high priority of "Rover."

A second experiment at Mercury is the effort to develop a low flying missile. This is Project Pluto. Object is to invent a flying bomb which can get in under the enemy's radar screen. The Pentagon is very keen on this.

A third activity at Mercury is the Weapons Testing Program. This is designed to match underground what the Soviets have done recently when they began poisoning the air in their above ground explosions.

To do this, we dig deep pits. In some we explode the stuff. In some we put instruments to measure detonations in an effort to develop techniques to catch the Russians in stealthy underground tests during a no - test pact. In some we test underground water flow.

IN ALL these deep pits the construction calls for casements, or holding the hole in place with big pipes. These pipes are put in by rigs. Since one piece of pipe is not long enough, another is welded to the first, and then another and another etc. The rigs are handled by the Operating Engineers. In the past they have also been welding the pipes together.

But now the Pipefitters Union complained. It wanted the work for its people. The pipefitters at Mercury took its complaint to a local council made up of the leaders of the local laborers union, the carpenters and the electricians.

They said fine, you get it. And then they all trooped over to the contracting employer, the Reynolds Electrical and Engineering Co., Inc. — whose executives were then told to take the welding work from the operating engineers.

THE FIRM said no. Under the national rules of something called The National Joint Board for the Settlement of Jurisidictional Disputes in Washington, D.C., the employer must continue to give the work to the union which began handling it.

There can be a change only if this board — made up of the national union chiefs and the national employers association—approves. Or the national leaders of the unions involved can authorize the shift.

So the old slot machine unionism was played. The local pipefitters picketed. Some 2,000 workers observed the lines. Only the scientists, the Operating Engineers, the culinary workers and the teamsters went through.

The base could not operate its vital weapons and experimenting facilities, although the cooks saw to it that the brain men were fed and the teamsters manned the fire stations.

THE MEN who picketed and slowed up the race for space were members of the same union which stalled the operations last June and July for 19 days. At that time they struck for more money — a nickel-an-hour more for vacations AFTER they had won an $18-a-week increase.

Their basic hourly rate was $195 for a 40-hour-week. But they did hit the bricks for the extra nickel.

So it matters not what happens in national labor circles in Washington. How do you get the local men to feel a sense of urgency? How do you get them to understand that they and their skills are needed every minute to beef up the strength we need to keep that wall in Berlin from moving ever closer?

What do you do about this slot machine unionism? We all can't hit the jack pot all the time.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO—James Webber was appointed chairman of the annual Christmas relief committee of the Elks Lodge.

Miss Marjorie Lindell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Lindell of Minerva St., played the leading feminine role in the play "Robin Hood" at Glenville (W. Va.) State College.

A three-act comedy, "The Tight Wad", was presented by the Junior Class of East Liverpool High School, with Orville Liebschner and Florence Bayley in the leading roles.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Miss Thelma Allison was elected president of the Sylvia Shay Society of the Orchard Grove Ave. Methodist Church.

Miss Louise Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Rose of Price St. and a junior majoring in music at Ohio University, was selected as a vocalist for the first in a series of concerts by the university symphony orchestra.

TEN YEARS AGO — Mrs. J. A. Monasky was elected deputy commissioner of East Liverpool Area Girl Scout Council.

East Liverpool High School received a $137 tape recorder as a gift of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools.

Ronald L. Edwards, son of Charles N. Edwards of Mulberry St., was promoted to staff sergeant at the 8th Air Force base at Ft. Worth, Tex.

Odd Facts

Canada's Northwest Territories covers a third the area of the United States. Yet the region has only 23,000 inhabitants. Lone trading posts in the Territories receive supplies once a year by means of "cat swings," treks made by tractors pulling sleds.

Indian calumets, or ceremonial pipes, were respected symbols used only on special occasions. One end was usually decorated with the head of a bird. Colored feathers were added for special meanings — red for war, green for peace or safe conduct.

Birds do not usually begin incubating their eggs until the full complement has been laid. Otherwise the resulting young would be of diffferent ages and sizes, and the larger ones would get all the food.

The dodo bird, which is found in so many crossword puzzles, became extinct in about 1680. This bird was closely related to the pigeon, but was very awkward. Its name comes from the Portuguese, meaning silly or foolish.

Albania, a center of controversy in the Communist bloc, has a population of 1,581,000 living in an area a little larger than Maryland. According to legend, Albanians are descended from an eagle. Hence the Albanian flag shows a two-headed eagle on a solid red field.

In the light of a promise that 60 million copies of the pamphlet will be printed — that's one for every three of us — this should be the "best seller" of the century.

Advance reports indicate the text will bear down on community-type shelters, though it is not expected to explain how these shelters might be financed. This stress, if it does nothing else, will ease bitterness created by the ridiculous issue over whether or not to kill the neighbors if they try to muscle into family shelters.

But no one expects that switching emphasis from family shelters to community shelters will ease confusion. Community shelters in urban areas for the security of people who work during the day would be meaningless if the people were home in the suburbs at night or during holidays. It's obvious that the ideal time for nuclear attack would be after dark. An enemy capable of making the attack would give no thought to the convenience of the attack's intended victims.

One more thing has become obvious. The United States is making a collective fool of itself by proclaiming its confusion over civil defense to the world.

Last July President Kennedy said the time to protect U.S. families against the radioactive fallout of a nuclear war was "now." This November the members of U.S. families are still wondering what their young president had in mind last July. He has given no hint.

But his word had a clearly visible effect. Confusion replaced apathy as the national mood. The Soviet Union's 100-megaton bomb punctuated the confusion with a "shot heard 'round the world."

The federal government's 1959 publication, "The Fallout Shelter," is being examined for clues to security. Various spokesmen of various degrees of incompetency are telling us that half of us might live long enough to see the genetic confusion that would grow out of too much radiation absorbed by ancestors of the yet unborn generations.

If a federal pamphlet could clear up the people's confusion it would be worth what it costs, which will be considerable. But it's unlikely anything could clear up the people's confusion now; it has been allowed to drag on too long.

An interesting sidelight is the inability of U.S. observers in Russia to find evidence of civil defense there. The reason seems to be that Russian civil defense is concentrated on preparations for national safety, not the safety of individuals. Only indispensables would be worried about; all others would be considered expendable. Russia's civil defense problems are secret. They are not discussed.

It is significant in this connection that government officials are preoccupied with saving themselves in this country, though they have made no progress in plans for saving taxpayers. Perhaps a plan for saving the rest of us will be the surprise package in the forthcoming pamphlet.

With 60 million of the things available, they alone should provide some protection against fallout.

Time For Care

For the second time within a week death has struck home in tragic fashion as two more district residents have lost their lives in a traffic accident.

What has happened cannot be undone. But what has happened can serve as a warning to others in the hectic holiday period that lies ahead.

The burden on the individual motorist will become ever greater from now through Jan. 1 as thousands more cars take to the highways.

If you find it necessary to travel during this time, exercise extreme care. See that you are prepared physically and that your car is sound mechanically.

The accidents of the last few days have been horrifying. With extra caution, it may be possible to keep similar tragedies out of the headlines of the future.

Safest Bet In Diplomacy

Russian diplomacy is a safe bet. It runs true to form.

There is a rule about training animals that it's wise to take advantage of the weakness of the animal.

Dogs will knock themselves out for morsels of food. Horses become more tractable if a lump of sugar is in prospect. Seals have a weakness for fish.

In the inner circles of diplomacy, which is a kind of animal training in itself, there is a similar rule. For generations the British "bumbled through," doing everything the hard way but doing it consistently. Italians thrive on grace and elegance. Asiatics love intrigue. Frenchmen like to carry on diplomacy in an atmosphere of sophistication and genteel dialogue.

And Russians?

Their diplomacy never varies. They can be counted on to do the same thing under the same circumstances.

When they feel pressure they react by picking on a helpless country like Finland.

When they dare, they ram their hand into the cookie jar and try to steal cookies.

When they encounter force, they retreat.

When they encounter weakness, they bully.

They love peace, they say, but they do not love it consistently. What they love consistently is a chance to kick somebody in the slats, and they can be counted on to do this every chance they get.

Though reputed to possess a fixed credo and an international discipline, the Communists who rule Russia can be counted on to come apart at the seams regularly. They can be relied on to change their party line as often as they change their underwear. They can be depended on to fall into quarrels and schisms. They are sure to quarrel with non-Russian Communists.

All these things are known. They have been known a long time. The Russians always have behaved the same way. Getting along with them in diplomacy should be as cut and dried as getting along with any nation whose characteristics make its actions predictable.

Yet the United States always acts as if it had been taken by surprise whenever Russia makes a move. It reacts; it does not take command. If it did take Command, Russia would react.

The United States is the next safest bet in diplomacy, in other words. It waits to see what Russia will do first.

Cross On The Hill

The giant cross on Radio Heights has attracted considerable attention and has been the subject of much favorable comment.

It reflects the solemn aspect of Christmas and is a fitting part of the pre-holiday season.

Violence That Begets Violence

Hopes are high that the Dominican Republic may now be free of the kind of high-handed rule practiced by the Trujillos.

But high hopes in situations like this one are rarely sustained by events. There is no way to sustain them. The hopes run contrary to the nature of the people involved.

When Fidel Castro liberated Cuba from the Battistans hopes were high that terror would stop. Today, Castro's terror is as bad as Battista's terror used to be. Tomorrow, the terror of Castro's successor will be as bad as his is today.

Violence in Latin America breeds violence. No matter how well-intentioned a new government is at the beginning, the only way it can maintain itself against the terrorists who will try to overthrow it is to offset their terror with terror of its own.

In the United States, where political terror is all but unknown, the same formula holds good in the exercise of power. Would-be governments criticize governments in power for the very policies the would-be governments will maintain if they come to power.

Critics of spending become spenders. Critics of indecision show even more indecision than their predecessors. And not infrequently those who have been charging corruption against a government in power become even more corrupt when they assume power. It is hopeful that the Dominican Republic with the Trujillos absent could settle down for a long interval of peace, quiet, good order and political dignity. It is realistic to expect that the new government soon will be using violence to offset the violence it will encounter on the part of its opponents.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Mortimer Topblower was a little late getting around to the Metropolitan Museum to see the $2.3 million painting, "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer," but has come through with his opinion. "I never checked on the principal characters and don't know too much about either one. But they must of been big leaguers to get into a painting worth $2.3 million long after their death, even with Rembrandt's assistance," he said.

"I am no art critic, but I thought Rembrandt made one mistake. It's easy to see that Aristotle is contemplating the bust, but Rembrandt fails to convey what Artistotle thinks of it. To me Aristotle seems to be giving Homer's bust a casual once-over like he was asking himself whether to leave it on the table in the living room or put it up in the attic.

"Aristotle has a yes-and-no expression. Homer looks like he was contemplating Aristotle, too, and doesn't look too pleased with him. Nevertheless, it is a treat these days, to see a painting by an artist who never turned out a painting that seemed to be a study of a leaky paintpot contemplating a junkpile in purple and green after a collision with an omelet that had been stepped on by an elephant. I could tell at once that Rembrandt had talent and never painted with the wrong end of a brush in a spell of complete dizziness.

"Even if I never knew Aristotle and figured Homer was the Roger Maris of his times, I got a definite idea of what the painting was about instead of being shown two empty beer cans, a bunch of bananas and some spaghetti strings labeled "Mona Lisa Contemplating An Etching of Lizzie Borden At Twilight.'

This Rembrandt was good. I say that without wanting to give the impression I don't prefer my bogus Currier & Ives Central Park Ice pond and don't get a bigger kick out of Grandma Moses contemplating the New England landscape. All in all I wasn't disappointed. It ain't every day a man can drop in and see $2.3 million."

Two Wrongs Don't Make A Right

By Duane E. Croft

Last week's announcements by Republican Auditor James A. Rhodes and Democratic Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy that they will seek their parties' nominations for governor didn't clear the air of much speculation about next year's state political races.

Both had been making speeches and shaking hands all over Ohio for months and were considered the most likely candidates to be the first to toss their hats into the ring.

Highest interest at this point focuses on their potential opposition.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle cannot be counted out of the Democratic primary as long as the "draft" movement continues to urge him to rescind his decision not to run for re-election.

But he has acknowledged there may be no such thing as a genuine draft movement that succeeds and continues to say his decision not to run was final.

Mr. McElroy apparently is taking the governor at his word, since the attorney general had indicated earlier he would go for re-election to his present office if Gov. DiSalle did likewise.

Lt. Gov. John Donahey of Alliance has all but taken himself off the list of possible gubernatorial contenders on the Democratic side by saying he would run for the top office only as an incumbent.

THAT MEANS he would enter the governor's race only if Gov. DiSalle resigns before the Feb. 7 filing deadline. Despite continued speculation that he has his eye on a Washington job, the governor never has given any grounds for believing he would quit his Columbus office that far ahead of the end of his term (at the end of 1962), if at all.

Mr. Donahey says he is more likely to go for re-election as lieutenant governor or for the auditor's office being vacated by Mr. Rhodes. The lieutenant governor's father, Vic Donahey, served as auditor more than 40 years ago before taking on the governor's chores in the 1920s.

Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys is considered a possibility for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination contest. He long has been rumored to be Gov. DiSalle's personal choice, but the latter steadfastly refuses to give a public nod to anyone.

Cleveland Mayor Anthony Celebreze's name also comes up in any conversation on next year's possibilities. When he was running for his fifth term, which he won Nov. 7, he promised he would stick to the job. But a Cleveland "draft" movement to put him in the governor's race would surprise no one.

ON THE REPUBLICAN side, some party elements undisposed to jump on the Rhodes bandwagon, notably among Young Republican groups, have been urging State Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Cincinnati to get into the fray.

Mr. Taft, son of the late "Mr. Republican," has said he prefers the legislative branch of government and includes two such posts —congressman-at-large and U.S. senator — among the jobs he is considering asking for.

But he also says, without elaboration, that there are some "special circumstances" in the gubernatorial situation which might influence him. He expects to make a decision soon — perhaps before next weekend.

With Mr. McElroy and Mr. Rhodes bowing out of their present offices, there should be a rush to fill the vacuums.

The lure of the attorney generalship already has beckoned a bunch of candidates on both sides of the political fence. Republicans who have announced for it include William Saxbe, who lost the office to Mr. McElroy in 1958; State Sen. Kline Roberts of Columbus, and John Lloyd of Cincinnati, former president of Ohio Young Republicans.

State Sen. Kenneth Berry of Coshocton and Summit County Prosecutor John S. Ballard have been reported eyeing the job, too, but Mr. Berry says he'll think mighty hard before deciding not to finish out his four-year term in the legislature.

DEMOCRATS WHO have taken out petitions include Judge Harold Richert of Mahoning County Common Pleas Court and Robert E. Sweeney of Bay Village, son of the late U.S. Rep. Martin L. Sweeney.

Danny D. Johnson, New Philadelphia attorney who served two years in the Ohio Senate and then lost out last year to Mr. Berry, is rumored to be thinking about a bid for the nomination for attorney general.

Potential candidates for state auditor have been scarce, but Mr. Rhodes' announcement may bring some out into the open.

State Sen. John W. Brown, R-Medina, was said to be yearning for the nomination several months ago, but he has announced he will try again for his old job as lieutenant governor.

He has at least one opponent in the Republican primary—State Sen. Charles W. Whalen Jr., who is more than halfway through a methodical campaign to visit Republican leaders and office holders in every one of Ohio's 88 counties.

With the municipal elections and legislative session out of the way and the news-short Christmas holidays coming up, announcements of political gambles will be increasingly frequent in the next few weeks.

Bowles' Vague Roles

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Ever since last summer Chester Bowles, No. 2 in the State Department, has looked like a man who had been put on probation but was going to lose his job anyway.

President Kennedy seemed unable to make up his mind about his undersecretary of state. It was hardly a good or happy situation for a State Department man who had to deal with foreign governments. Bowles seemed to want to cling to the job.

Now Kennedy has bounced him from the undersecretary's job, offered him another.

Sunday, in the first big shakeup of his administration Kennedy shifted around a group of White House and State Department officials, including Bowles.

All the changes were specific except the one affecting Bowles who had been an adviser to Kennedy in the 1960 presidential campaign, head of the Office of Price Administration during the war, an ambassador to India, and governor of Connecticut.

In Bowles' case Kennedy was just as vague as he had been before. The announcement made from Kennedy's headquarters at Hyannis Port said simply that Bowles would get a "high policy-making position."

Perhaps this means he'll be offered a job as roving ambassador. If so, it's the kind of job rumored in store for him last summer when it became clear, but perhaps not to Bowles, that his days as undersecretary were numbered.

Two things are odd about this case: the way Kennedy handled the man who was next in command to Secretary Dean Rusk at the State Department; and the way Bowles took for months what amounted to a public embarrassment.

In the first place it has never been made clear—certainly not officially clear—why Kennedy was dissatisfied with Bowles.

Last summer for several days there were news stories predicting Bowles was going to be yanked and made a roving ambassador because he didn't get along well in the State Department and was not a good administrator.

This didn't make much sense in view of the high administrative jobs Bowles had handled: as boss of OPA during the war and, after it, of the Office of Price Stabilization, and as governor of his state.

This writer has been told by a source who ought to know that Bowles did get along well at State. It's an educated guess that Bowles and Kennedy didn't get along well.

The stories predicting Bowles' downfall indicated the information critical of his performance at State came from White House people close to Kennedy.

But the anti-Bowles outburst was followed by a story—clearly pointing to its unnamed informants as men around Bowles—which said bluntly he'd get out of the Kennedy administration if he was removed as undersecretary.

The same day the pro-Bowles story appeared, Kennedy lunched with him and the White House denied Bowles was leaving.

This inspired liberal Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Pennsylvania Democrat and supporter of liberal Bowles, to announce on the Senate floor the conflict involving Bowles was "all over." It didn't seem over to a lot of people in Washington.

Then Kennedy added to the uncertainty by saying at a news conference he had never asked Bowles for his resignation, had complete confidence in him, and always expected him to serve out the life of his administration.

But—Kennedy didn't say Bowles would not be removed as undersecretary. He said, instead, that as of then he thought Bowles should stay as undersecretary, that he had no plans to ask him to take another assignment, but that he would ask Bowles if he thought he would fit in better somewhere else.

That wasn't the same as saying he was going to remain undersecretary. Then it became a matter of waiting to see what happened to Bowles for by that time —because of Kennedy's vagueness—it was apparent that Bowles was on the chute.

Some 200,000 new residences have gone up in West Berlin since the end of World War II. Every usable scrap of rubble from Allied bombings went into the rebuilding. The rest, piled in huge mounds, was planted with flowers and grass to provide hilly park scenery.

A Union Feud

By Victor Riesel

Urgent Nuclear Projects Suffer As Result

There are a lot of men out Las Vegas way who go in for slot machine unionism. They put their dues into the maw and expect to hit the jack pot each time. If they don't, they get churlish and picket — even if this slows us down in the race with the Soviets for outer space and in the grim competition for deadlier — and therefore more deterrent—weapons.

Victor Riesel

This is exactly what happened the other day at Mercury, Nev., —for the second time in six months — at the mystery maze of man-made mines, hydrogen tank "farms," weird tunnels, and neo-space engines which may someday take astronauts to Mars and beyond.

On Nov. 20th, some 2,000 construction workers hit the bricks there, tying up something called the Space Nuclear Propulsion Office experimental grounds as well as a super secret joint Atomic Energy Commission — Air Force project.

THEY STRUCK not for money but because a couple of local unions were pouting at each other. And this is what was caught up in the middle of the inter-union fight:

There are three urgent projects at Mercury, though the pickets showed no sense of urgency despite the rate at which national United States space and weapons men were pulling their hair out over the delays.

One is Project Rover, a joint AEC and NASA effort for which Congress has increased appropriations three times. Here scientists are trying to develop a nuclear engine which will drive a space ship millions of miles. Few projects have the high priority of "Rover."

A second experiment at Mercury is the effort to develop a low flying missile. This is Project Pluto. Object is to invent a flying bomb which can get in under the enemy's radar screen. The Pentagon is very keen on this.

A third activity at Mercury is the Weapons Testing Program. This is designed to match underground what the Soviets have done recently when they began poisoning the air in their above ground explosions.

To do this, we dig deep pits. In some we explode the stuff. In some we put instruments to measure detonations in an effort to develop techniques to catch the Russians in stealthy underground tests during a no - test pact. In some we test underground water flow.

IN ALL these deep pits the construction calls for casements, or holding the hole in place with big pipes. These pipes are put in by rigs. Since one piece of pipe is not long enough, another is welded to the first, and then another and another etc. The rigs are handled by the Operating Engineers. In the past they have also been welding the pipes together.

But now the Pipefitters Union complained. It wanted the work for its people. The pipefitters at Mercury took its complaint to a local council made up of the leaders of the local laborers union, the carpenters and the electricians.

They said fine, you get it. And then they all trooped over to the contracting employer, the Reynolds Electrical and Engineering Co., Inc. — whose executives were then told to take the welding work from the operating engineers.

THE FIRM said no. Under the national rules of something called The National Joint Board for the Settlement of Jurisidictional Disputes in Washington, D.C., the employer must continue to give the work to the union which began handling it.

There can be a change only if this board — made up of the national union chiefs and the national employers association—approves. Or the national leaders of the unions involved can authorize the shift.

So the old slot machine unionism was played. The local pipefitters picketed. Some 2,000 workers observed the lines. Only the scientists, the Operating Engineers, the culinary workers and the teamsters went through.

The base could not operate its vital weapons and experimenting facilities, although the cooks saw to it that the brain men were fed and the teamsters manned the fire stations.

THE MEN who picketed and slowed up the race for space were members of the same union which stalled the operations last June and July for 19 days. At that time they struck for more money — a nickel-an-hour more for vacations AFTER they had won an $18-a-week increase.

Their basic hourly rate was $195 for a 40-hour-week. But they did hit the bricks for the extra nickel.

So it matters not what happens in national labor circles in Washington. How do you get the local men to feel a sense of urgency? How do you get them to understand that they and their skills are needed every minute to beef up the strength we need to keep that wall in Berlin from moving ever closer?

What do you do about this slot machine unionism? We all can't hit the jack pot all the time.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO—James Webber was appointed chairman of the annual Christmas relief committee of the Elks Lodge.

Miss Marjorie Lindell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Lindell of Minerva St., played the leading feminine role in the play "Robin Hood" at Glenville (W. Va.) State College.

A three-act comedy, "The Tight Wad", was presented by the Junior Class of East Liverpool High School, with Orville Liebschner and Florence Bayley in the leading roles.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Miss Thelma Allison was elected president of the Sylvia Shay Society of the Orchard Grove Ave. Methodist Church.

Miss Louise Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Rose of Price St. and a junior majoring in music at Ohio University, was selected as a vocalist for the first in a series of concerts by the university symphony orchestra.

TEN YEARS AGO — Mrs. J. A. Monasky was elected deputy commissioner of East Liverpool Area Girl Scout Council.

East Liverpool High School received a $137 tape recorder as a gift of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools.

Odd Facts

Canada's Northwest Territories covers a third the area of the United States. Yet the region has only 23,000 inhabitants. Lone trading posts in the Territories receive supplies once a year by means of "cat swings," treks made by tractors pulling sleds.

Indian calumets, or ceremonial pipes, were respected symbols used only on special occasions. One end was usually decorated with the head of a bird. Colored feathers were added for special meanings — red for war, green for peace or safe conduct.

Birds do not usually begin incubating their eggs until the full complement has been laid. Otherwise the resulting young would be of diffferent ages and sizes, and the larger ones would get all the food.

The dodo bird, which is found in so many crossword puzzles, became extinct in about 1680. This bird was closely related to the pigeon, but was very awkward. Its name comes from the Portuguese, meaning silly or foolish.

Albania, a center of controversy in the Communist bloc, has a population of 1,581,000 living in an area a little larger than Maryland. According to legend, Albanians are descended from an eagle. Hence the Albanian flag shows a two-headed eagle on a solid red field.

Cold Moves Toward East

By The Associated Press

Cold air from Canada, fanned by brisk northerly winds, swept into the north central region today, ending a spell of unseasonably mild weather.

The cold belt covered areas from the Northern Rockies, Northern and Central Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley. The cold front stretched from the lower Great Lakes into Northern Texas.

Snow fell in the colder air in sections of the Dakotas and Western Nebraska and Lake Superior. Temperatures edged near zero in Eastern North Dakota. It was 10 below in Anchorage, Alaska. Light rain sprinkled areas from the Southern Great Lakes into the middle Mississippi Valley.

In contrast to the cold weather, southerly winds from the Gulf Coast states warmed areas northeastward into interior sections of New England. Skies were generally clear across the southern tier of states from Florida and Georgia westward to Southern California.

Skies were cloudy and there was light rain in areas from the Ohio Valley eastward into the central Appalachians.

In the West, more rain fell in Washington and Western Oregon and snow continued in sections of Montana and Idaho. Some 40 inches of snow was reported in Graves Creek, 30 miles southwest of Missoula, Mont.

Ivanovs and they lived there for several weeks.

Domestic difficulties developed in the Ivanov family and Gregov asked his sister to take her troubles to Domestic Relations Court, she said. That led to Ivanov's committal on June 12 to the Central Islip State Hospital. He escaped Nov. 15.

Mrs. Ivanov said he was carrying a kitchen knife under his belt when he came to her residence in Brooklyn Saturday morning.

Police said the Gregov family feared Ivanov because of Gregov's role in the committal.

Pinnell said there was no sign of forced entry and, except for the covers removed from the beds to place on the bodies, no disorder.

Ivanov had been "depressed, upset and threatening suicide" at the time of his admission, said Dr. C. J. C. Kennedy of the hospital staff, but was "a quiet patient, a well-behaved patient."

low water pressure in the nearest hydrant, which was 900 feet away, Asst. Chief Anderson said.

The Liverpool West department responded with all three of its trucks and 15 men, including a tanker vehicle loaded with water. When it became apparent that lack of a plentiful supply of water was hampering the fight, Asst. Chief Homer Cronin of the Liverpool west department notified the Glenmoor volunteers. Twleve Glenmoor firemen responded with two pieces of equipment, including a tanker.

East Liverpool firemen laid 900 feet of two-and-a-half-inch hose to the hydranf and then pumped the water through 250 feet of inch-and-a-half hose to put it on the blazing house.

The cause of the fire has not been determined, firemen said. The home was heated by a coal stove. Both the home and the contents are a total loss, firemen said.

A passerby apparently noted the blaze and went to a nearby home, asking the family to telephone city firemen.

Firemen said DeNoon apparently was trapped in the basement section of the house, which contained a bedroom and a kitchen. There were four or five other rooms on the upper level of the home, firemen said.

City firemen were called to Minerva St. and Chester Ave. at 6:14 p. m. Sunday on an auto fire, but Melvin Taggart, 416 College St., had used his own extinguisher to put out the blaze.

Firemen said an oil seal on the transmission broke, spraying oil onto the hot exhaust system.

The department also was called to Washington St. and Diamond Alley at 7:50 p. m. to check on a fuse box of Christmas street lighting, which was shorting out. They notified an electrician.

This move puts into the State Department a White House official who has had considerable interest in foreign policy development during the Kennedy administration.

5. Frederick G. Dutton, 38, presently Kennedy's assistant for Cabinet affairs, to be assistant secretary of state for congressional relations. Administration officials said this move is expected to strengthen administration efforts to win congressional support for foreign policy proposals at the the next session.

6. Richard M. Goodwin, now deputy special counsel to Kennedy, to be deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. Goodwin, 30, has been very active in inter-American affairs under the Kennedy administration.

7. Walter P. McConaugh, 58, presently assistant secretary for the Far East, is to be given an ambassadorial post when Harriman takes over his job. He is a former ambassador to Burma and Formosa.

8. Brooks Hays, former Democratic representative from Arkansas who is relinquishing the job of assistant secretary for congressional relations, goes to the White House as a special assistant to the President. Hays is 63.

9. Timothy J. Reardon Jr., 46, presently an administrative assistant to the President, becomes a special assistant to handle Cabinet affairs as Dutton shifts to the State Department.

Cold Moves Toward East

By The Associated Press

Cold air from Canada, fanned by brisk northerly winds, swept into the north central region today, ending a spell of unseasonably mild weather.

The cold belt covered areas from the Northern Rockies, Northern and Central Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley. The cold front stretched from the lower Great Lakes into Northern Texas.

Snow fell in the colder air in sections of the Dakotas and Western Nebraska and Lake Superior. Temperatures edged near zero in Eastern North Dakota. It was 10 below in Anchorage, Alaska. Light rain sprinkled areas from the Southern Great Lakes into the middle Mississippi Valley.

In contrast to the cold weather, southerly winds from the Gulf Coast states warmed areas northeastward into interior sections of New England. Skies were generally clear across the southern tier of states from Florida and Georgia westward to Southern California.

Skies were cloudy and there was light rain in areas from the Ohio Valley eastward into the central Appalachians.

Crash Damages Cars

NEW CUMBERLAND — Cars operated by Ruth Gardner, 33, of Weirton R. D. 1 and Rita Shreeve, 27, of New Cumberland R. D. 1 were involved in a minor mishap Sunday at 2:30 p. m. on Wiley Ridge Rd. near here. There was minor damage, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported. Neither driver was injured.

Ivanovs and they lived there for several weeks.

Domestic difficulties developed in the Ivanov family and Gregov asked his sister to take her troubles to Domestic Relations Court, she said. That led to Ivanov's committal on June 12 to the Central Islip State Hospital. He escaped Nov. 15.

Mrs. Ivanov said he was carrying a kitchen knife under his belt when he came to her residence in Brooklyn Saturday morning.

Police said the Gregov family feared Ivanov because of Gregov's role in the committal.

Pinnell said there was no sign of forced entry and, except for the covers removed from the beds to place on the bodies, no disorder.

Ivanov had been "depressed, upset and threatening suicide" at the time of his admission, said Dr. C. J. C. Kennedy of the hospital staff, but was "a quiet patient, a well-behaved patient."

low water pressure in the nearest hydrant, which was 900 feet away, Asst. Chief Anderson said.

The Liverpool West department responded with all three of its trucks and 15 men, including a tanker vehicle loaded with water. When it became apparent that lack of a plentiful supply of water was hampering the fight, Asst. Chief Homer Cronin of the Liverpool west department notified the Glenmoor volunteers. Twleve Glenmoor firemen responded with two pieces of equipment, including a tanker.

East Liverpool firemen laid 900 feet of two-and-a-half-inch hose to the hydrant and then pumped the water through 250 feet of inch-and-a-half hose to put it on the blazing house.

The cause of the fire has not been determined, firemen said. The home was heated by a coal stove. Both the home and the contents are a total loss, firemen said.

A passerby apparently noted the blaze and went to a nearby home, asking the family to telephone city firemen.

Firemen said DeNoon apparently was trapped in the basement section of the house, which contained a bedroom and a kitchen. There were four or five other rooms on the upper level of the home, firemen said.

City firemen were called to Minerva St. and Chester Ave. at 6:14 p. m. Sunday on an auto fire, but Melvin Taggart, 416 College St., had used his own extinguisher to put out the blaze.

Firemen said an oil seal on the transmission broke, spraying oil onto the hot exhaust system.

The department also was called to Washington St. and Diamond Alley at 7:50 p. m. to check on a fuse box of Christmas street lighting, which was shorting out. They notified an electrician.

A "de facto government" is one actually functioning as the result of a revolution or a rebellion, but which is not yet permanently established or recognized.

4. Walt W. Rostow, 55, former professor of economics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and now a deputy special assistant to Kennedy for national security affairs, to be State Department counselor and chairman of the policy planning council, succeeding McGhee. This move puts into the State Department a White House official who has had considerable interest in foreign policy development during the Kennedy administration.

5. Frederick G. Dutton, 38, presently Kennedy's assistant for Cabinet affairs, to be assistant secretary of state for congressional relations. Administration officials said this move is expected to strengthen administration efforts to win congressional support for foreign policy proposals at the the next session.

6. Richard M. Goodwin, now deputy special counsel to Kennedy, to be deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. Goodwin, 30, has been very active in inter-American affairs under the Kennedy administration.

7. Walter P. McConaugh, 58, presently assistant secretary for the Far East, is to be given an ambassadorial post when Harriman takes over his job. He is a former ambassador to Burma and Formosa.

8. Brooks Hays, former Democratic representative from Arkansas who is relinquishing the job of assistant secretary for congressional relations, goes to the White House as a special assistant to the President. Hays is 63.

9. Timothy J. Reardon Jr., 46, presently an administrative assistant to the President, becomes a special assistant to handle Cabinet affairs as Dutton shifts to the State Department.

Long Illness Takes Widow

Mrs. Henrietta Worcester Shay, 520 E. 5th St., widow of Dr. O. D. Shay, died Sunday at 7:45 a. m. at City Hospital following a long illness.

She was born here, a daughter of the late Samuel Worcester and Charlotte Herrick Worcester. She was a member of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church.

She is survived by a son, Atty. Donald D. Shay of East Liverpool, former city solicitor, and granddaughter. Her husband, a physician, died Jan. 9, 1929.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Dawson Funeral Home by the Rev. M. Rudolph Miller. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Crucible Research Worker Taken At 63

Dr. Peter Payson, 63, of Pittsburgh, assistant director of research for Crucible Steel Co. of America, died Sunday at Montefiore Hospital in Pittsburgh.

Dr. Payson joined Crucible in 1923, a year after he received a degree in metallurgical engineering from Columbia University. In 1955, he was named manager of the central research laboratory and assistant director of research.

He leaves his widow, a daughter, a step - daughter, a brother and one grandchild.

Services will be held Tuesday at 11:30 a. m. at the H. Samson Funeral Home, 537 N. Neville St., Oakland.

Mrs. Thomas Moore

Mrs. Catherine C. Moore, 1612 Chester Ave., Wellsville, widow of Thomas J. Moore, died Saturday at 3:30 p. m. at the Valley Manor Nursing Home in New Philadelphia, where she had been a patient since Sept. 9. She was 75.

She was born in Wellsville Sept. 9, 1886, a daughter of the late Frederick Stoffel and Ann Rose Hollar Stoffel. She lived in Wellsville all her life.

She is survived by two sons, Paul E. Moore of Taylor, Mich., and Lewis E. Moore of Flint, Mich.; a brother, Richard G. Stoffel of Springfield, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Haugh Funeral Home in Wellsville by the Rev. Robert Andrews, pastor of the First Christian Church of Wellsville. Burial will be in Springhill Cemetery in Wellsville.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Homer Rose

Homer Lee Rose, 60, of Clark St. in Liverpool Township was found dead today at his home, apparently of natural causes.

According to city police, who conducted a preliminary investigation, and the sheriff's office, Mr. Rose was found dead about 7:30 a. m. by a companion, Albert Donahue, who notified a brother, Holly Dale Rose, also of Clark St.

Police were notified by Jessie Ream, also of Clark St., and Lt. W. E. McDaniel and Patrolman K. H. Mooney investigated. The officers said Mr. Rose had been dead several hours.

They summoned an ambulance and notified Dr. R. C. Costello, deputy county coroner.

Besides his brother, Mr. Rose is survived by a sister in Salineville.

The body was taken to the Dawson Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete.

George Linger

Services for George V. Linger of Linger Dr., Chester, will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Chester Arner Chapel by the Rev. Robert Thomas, pastor of the Chester Church of the Nazarene.

Burial will be in Locust Hill Cemetery, near Chester.

Mr. Linger died Saturday morning at his home after a long illness. He was born Nov. 4, 1886, in Roane County, W. Va.

Friends may call at the chapel any time.

Infant Andric

LISBON — Services were held at 10 a. m. today at the Eells-Leggett Funeral Home for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Andric of Elkton, which died Saturday at 5:55 p. m. at Salem City Hospital, about four hours after birth.

The Rev. Vern Griffin of the Assembly of God Church was in charge. Burial was in Kimble Cemetery, near Elkton.

In addition to the parents, the child leaves three sisters, two brothers and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Susie Monroe of Chester.

Dinner Set Wednesday

Dr. Bohning Will Talk To Ohio State Alumni

Dr. Richard H. Bohning, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Ohio State University, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Southern Columbiana County Alumni Club of Ohio State Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Country Club.

A member of the university faculty since 1946, Dr. Bohning rose from instructor to assistant professor in 1950 and to associate professor in 1955. He was advanced to professor in 1961.

During World War II, he served as a Navy officer on duty in Pacific.

A native of Rhode Island, Dr. Bohning received a bachelor of science degree from Rhode Island State College in 1940 and his master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees from Ohio State in 1941 and 1948, respectively.

He served as editor of the Ohio Journal of Science from 1953 to 1956 and in 1957 was awarded a National Science Foundation faculty fellowship to study the teaching of general botany at 16 leading universities in the United States.

Since 1957, he has been co-ordinator of the on-campus activities of the Agricultural Education and Research program in India, established under a co-operative agreement between Ohio State University and the International Co-operation Administration.

At present, he is supervising an intensive 10-week training program for 32 Peace Corps applicants at the university. Forty staff members from five colleges within the university are training the applicants for service in the Punjab State of India.

DR. R. H. BOHNING
Aids Peace Corps Training.

Dr. Bohning will describe the various courses given on the campus as well as the additional training that will be given in India before the Peace Corps personnel starts a two-year service contract.

Reservations for the dinner may be arranged by contacting Mrs. N. Philip Polichene of S. Shady Lane Dr. or by calling FU 5-2461.

Dr. R. Jay Kinsey is program chairman. Lawrence F. Sixt is president of the alumni club.

ville, were the Rev. Arden Beck, minister of the First Methodist Church, Atty. Delmar T. O'Hara and William Menough, Wellsville High School principal.

Bake said they were not allowed to visit Dr. Daw last night as he was on the critical list but said he received word this morning that his condition had improved and he was listed as "fair."

A meeting of the Daw Junior High School PTA scheduled for tonight has been cancelled because of the accident. Daw was to have been the speaker, according to Mrs. Betty Havelock, PTA president.

The bodies of the two women were removed to the MacLean Funeral Home at Wellsville.

Arrangements are incomplete.

Hamlin Selected In League Draft

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Washington Senators selected Ken Hamlin, 25, shortstop of the Toronto Club of the International League, to open the annual major league draft of minor league baseball players today.

Hamlin, who originally had been drafted by the Los Angeles club of the American League for $75,000 in the special draft in 1960, cost the Senators $25,000. He played with Los Angeles last year as well as with Toronto. A fine defensive player, Hamlin batted .207 in 42 games at Los Angeles and .264 in 97 at Toronto.

In all, 20 teams participated in the draft, including the two new National League clubs, Houston and the New York Mets.

Mishaps Hurt 10 In District

Nine of the 10 persons treated at City Hospital over the weekend were injured in falls. Seven were hurt Sunday and three Saturday.

Yesterday's list included Olga Strazzaboschi, 43, of 600 Ohio Ave., Midland, who suffered a fractured left wrist in a fall at home.

Jane Winland, 19, of Park Blvd. sprained her left wrist in a fall down stairs at home.

In a fall against steps at home, Richard Ambler, 3, son of Richard Ambler of Newell, suffered a laceration of the forehead.

Mrs. Freda Phillips, 53, of 415 Gaston Pl. suffered a possible fracture of the right foot in a tumble from a stepladder.

Mrs. Cathy Moore, 30, of New Cumberland R. D. 2 suffered a possible fracture of the right ankle when she fell while getting out of a car.

Mrs. Evelyn Noah, 503 Jefferson St., Newell, received a possible fracture of the right foot in a fall from a ladder.

Jeffrey Moore, son of Fred Moore, 318 Wells Ave., Newell, cut his forehead when he fell against a table.

Those hurt Saturday included Joseph Alford, 9, son of Kenneth Alford of Wyoming Ave., who cut his right hand when he fell on broken glass; Charles Rump, 16-month-old son of Richard Rump of Hookstown R. D. 1, who suffered a scalp laceration in a fall from a chair, and Donald Mack, 9, son of Paul Mack, 698 Spring Grove Ave., who suffered contusions of the jaw when struck by a door.

Slayer Gets Prison Term

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charles Mulcahy, 45, a paper company executive, pleaded guilty today of manslaughter in the fatal stabbing June 13 of his night club singer wife, Dorothy, 41. He was sentenced to 1-20 years in prison.

He also pleaded guilty to a charge of stabbing with intent to kill John Waggoner, 34, a La-Crosse, Wis., businessman, and received a concurrent 1-20 year term on that charge.

The Mulcahys had been separated since last March.

Mulcahy had been charged with second-degree murder.

As the pleas of guilty were entered, Asst. Prosecuter Harry C. Schoettmer read a two-page statement made by Mulcahy in which he admitted the stabbings. He previously had denied them.

Mulcahy's statement said he previously denied the stabbings because he was "depressed and demoralized" and was concerned about the future of his three children—two sons age 16 and 11 and a daughter 17.

Mrs. Mulcahy was stabbed to death in a downtown parking garage shortly after completing her first night's work in a hotel cafe.

Waggoner said he never had met the woman before and was with her only to help her carry her tape recording outfit to her automobile. He was stabbed as he went to her assistance.

The Mulcahys moved here more than two years ago from Green Gay, Wis.

medical care for the aged. On a numerical count, the number of cards expressing opinions on this issue runs about 5 to 4 against such care under the Social Security financing plan the administration recommends.

But the figures don't give a complete picture.

Nearly half the total cards received are from St. Louis. And more than half of the St. Louis cards are from doctors.

All told, St. Louis had checked in with 87 cards, 49 from physicians. All 49 were typed, all looked as if the typing was done on the same machine. Five were from individual doctors and 44 were in pairs—each pair of cards identically worded but each signed by a different doctor.

From all cities, 52 cards opposed the medical care program, 44 approved it.

While the doctors lined up against the medical care program, a number of nurses told Kennedy they are for it.

Some of the doctors called the plan socialized medicine.

But a Philadelphia woman told Kennedy: "I am hoping that you will help pass the bill on socialized medicine."

The people take sides, too, on whether the regional conferences were good or bad. More seem to like the idea than to dislike it, on the basis of the first 200 cards that came in. They ran about 3 to 1 in favor of the conferences.

Several cards commented favorably on the way the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, had handled himself at conferences.

The firemen still were on the scene at 9:30 a. m. The Liverpool Township East department was called to remain on standby at the Calcutta station.

Deputy Sheriff Herman Cy Wellman said he spotted the blaze while in a cruiser on Pancake Hill. He said the transmission on the tanker truck broke as the truck was returning to the station late this morning.

The family reported the loss was partially insured.

The firemen returned to the station at 10:30 a. m. They said the clutch plate on the tanker was ripped out when a loose bolt fell down through the transmission.

Firemen said 600 bales of hay, 600 bales of straw and about 500 bushels of corn were stored in the barn. The cause has not been determined. Twenty men responded to the alarm.

hospital Aug. 18 with severe pulmonary congestion and on Sept. 20 at Concord suffered what his physician called a moderately severe heart attack. He was discharged from the hospital Nov. 3.

He was born and reared on a small farm in West Pembroke, Maine.

In the Senate, Bridges generally was regarded as an articulate spokesman for the conservative point of view, though he regarded himself as a "middle-of-the roader."

Bridges was one of the triumvirate of party leaders in the Senate along with Sens. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the GOP floor leader, and Leverett Saltonstall, Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of Republican senators.

Washington speculated that liberals among the GOP senators may try to fill Bridges' place as policy committee chairman from among their own ranks.

In 1959 at the opening of the 86th Congress, the liberals made a similar move, but their candidate for floor leader, Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, lost to Dirksen 20-14. Bridges was a leader in the Dirksen camp.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont could be the liberals' choice for the policy committee if a contest develops. Aiken now outranks GOP senators in seniority except for Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin.

U.S. Population Due To Reach 185 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's population reaches 185 million this week—an increase of five million since last year's census.

The exact moment won't be known but the event will be celebrated at a ceremony in the Commerce Department lobby at about 3 p.m. EST Thursday.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove a piece of paper that has become stuck to the polished surface of a table top?

A. Olive oil will usualy do a quick and easy job of this.

Q. How can I clean playing cards?

A. All that plastic cards need is a wiping over with a damp cloth. To clean the paper variety of cards, wipe them carefully with a bit of cotton moistened with spirits of camphor, then dry with another piece of dry cotton.

Q. How can I freshen black felt hats and derbies that have become dull-looking or rain-spattered?

A. By holding them over the spout of a steaming teakettle and then buffing with a soft brush or piece of felt to bring up the nap.

Homer Rose

Homer Lee Rose, 60, of Clark St. in Liverpool Township was found dead today at his home, apparently of natural causes.

According to city police, who conducted a preliminary investigation, and the sheriff's office, Mr. Rose was found dead about 7:30 a. m. by a companion, Albert Donahue, who notified a brother, Holly Dale Rose, also of Clark St.

Police were notified by Jessie Ream, also of Clark St., and Lt. W. E. McDaniel and Patrolman K. H. Mooney investigated. The officers said Mr. Rose had been dead several hours.

They summoned an ambulance and notified Dr. R. C. Costello, deputy county coroner.

Besides his brother, Mr. Rose is survived by a sister in Salineville.

The body was taken to the Dawson Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete.

George Linger

Services for George V. Linger of Linger Dr., Chester, will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Chester Arner Chapel by the Rev. Robert Thomas, pastor of the Chester Church of the Nazarene.

Burial will be in Locust Hill Cemetery, near Chester.

Mr. Linger died Saturday morning at his home after a long illness. He was born Nov. 4, 1886, in Roane County, W. Va.

Friends may call at the chapel any time.

Infant Andric

LISBON — Services were held at 10 a. m. today at the Eells-Leggett Funeral Home for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Andric of Elkton, which died Saturday at 5:55 p. m. at Salem City Hospital, about four hours after birth.

The Rev. Vern Griffin of the Assembly of God Church was in charge. Burial was in Kimble Cemetery, near Elkton.

In addition to the parents, the child leaves three sisters, two brothers and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Susie Monroe of Chester.

Dinner Set Wednesday

Dr. Bohning Will Talk To Ohio State Alumni

Dr. Richard H. Bohning, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Ohio State University, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Southern Columbiana County Alumni Club of Ohio State Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Country Club.

A member of the university faculty since 1946, Dr. Bohning rose from instructor to assistant professor in 1950 and to associate professor in 1955. He was advanced to professor in 1961.

During World War II, he served as a Navy officer on duty in Pacific.

A native of Rhode Island, Dr. Bohning received a bachelor of science degree from Rhode Island State College in 1940 and his master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees from Ohio State in 1941 and 1948, respectively.

He served as editor of the Ohio Journal of Science from 1953 to 1956 and in 1957 was awarded a National Science Foundation faculty fellowship to study the teaching of general botany at 16 leading universities in the United States.

Since 1957, he has been co-ordinator of the on-campus activities of the Agricultural Education and Research program in India, established under a co-operative agreement between Ohio State University and the International Co-operation Administration.

At present, he is supervising an intensive 10-week training program for 32 Peace Corps applicants at the university. Forty staff members from five colleges within the university are training the applicants for service in the Punjab State of India.

DR. R. H. BOHNING
Aids Peace Corps Training.

Dr. Bohning will describe the various courses given on the campus as well as the additional training that will be given in India before the Peace Corps personnel starts a two-year service contract.

Reservations for the dinner may be arranged by contacting Mrs. N. Philip Polichene of S. Shady Lane Dr. or by calling FU 5-2461.

Dr. R. Jay Kinsey is program chairman. Lawrence F. Sixt is president of the alumni club.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove a piece of paper that has become stuck to the polished surface of a table top?

A. Olive oil will usualy do a quick and easy job of this.

Q. How can I clean playing cards?

A. All that plastic cards need is a wiping over with a damp cloth. To clean the paper variety of cards, wipe them carefully with a bit of cotton moistened with spirits of camphor, then dry with another piece of dry cotton.

Q. How can I freshen black felt hats and derbies that have become dull-looking or rain-spattered?

A. By holding them over the spout of a steaming teakettle and then buffing with a soft brush or piece of felt to bring up the nap.

ville, were the Rev. Arden Beck, minister of the First Methodist Church, Atty. Delmar T. O'Hara and William Menough, Wellsville High School principal.

Bake said they were not allowed to visit Dr. Daw last night as he was on the critical list but said he received word this morning that his condition had improved and he was listed as "fair."

A meeting of the Daw Junior High School PTA scheduled for tonight has been cancelled because of the accident. Daw was to have been the speaker, according to Mrs. Betty Havelock, PTA president.

The bodies of the two women were removed to the MacLean Funeral Home at Wellsville.

Arrangements are incomplete.

Hamlin Selected In League Draft

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Washington Senators selected Ken Hamlin, 25, shortstop of the Toronto Club of the International League, to open the annual major league draft of minor league baseball players today.

Hamlin, who originally had been drafted by the Los Angeles club of the American League for $75,000 in the special draft in 1960, cost the Senators $25,000. He played with Los Angeles last year as well as with Toronto. A fine defensive player, Hamlin batted .207 in 42 games at Los Angeles and .264 in 97 at Toronto.

In all, 20 teams participated in the draft, including the two new National League clubs, Houston and the New York Mets.

Mishaps Hurt 10 In District

Nine of the 10 persons treated at City Hospital over the weekend were injured in falls. Seven were hurt Sunday and three Saturday

Yesterday's list included Olga Strazzaboschi, 43, of 600 Ohio Ave., Midland, who suffered a fractured left wrist in a fall at home.

Jane Winland, 19, of Park Blvd. sprained her left wrist in a fall down stairs at home.

In a fall against steps at home, Richard Ambler, 3, son of Richard Ambler of Newell, suffered a laceration of the forehead.

Mrs. Freda Phillips, 53, of 415 Gaston Pl. suffered a possible fracture of the right foot in a tumble from a stepladder.

Mrs. Cathy Moore, 30, of New Cumberland R. D. 2 suffered a possible fracture of the right ankle when she fell while getting out of a car.

Mrs. Evelyn Noah, 503 Jefferson St., Newell, received a possible fracture of the right foot in a fall from a ladder.

Jeffrey Moore, son of Fred Moore, 318 Wells Ave., Newell, cut his forehead when he fell against a table.

D. 1, who suffered a scalp laceration in a fall from a chair, and Donald Mack, 9, son of Paul Mack, 698 Spring Grove Ave., who suffered contusions of the jaw when struck by a door.

Slayer Gets Prison Term

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charles Mulcahy, 45, a paper company executive, pleaded guilty today of manslaughter in the fatal stabbing June 13 of his night club singer wife, Dorothy, 41. He was sentenced to 1-20 years in prison.

He also pleaded guilty to a charge of stabbing with intent to kill John Waggoner, 34, a LaCrosse, Wis., businessman, and received a concurrent 1-20 year term on that charge.

The Mulcahys had been separated since last March.

Mulcahy had been charged with second-degree murder.

As the pleas of guilty were entered, Asst. Prosecutor Harry C. Schoettmer read a two-page statement made by Mulcahy in which he admitted the stabbings. He previously had denied them.

Mulcahy's statement said he previously denied the stabbings because he was "depressed and demoralized" and was concerned about the future of his three children—two sons age 16 and 11 and a daughter 17.

Mrs. Mulcahy was stabbed to death in a downtown parking garage shortly after completing her first night's work in a hotel cafe.

Waggoner said he never had met the woman before and was with her only to help her carry her tape recording outfit to her automobile. He was stabbed as he went to her assistance.

The Mulcahys moved here more than two years ago from Green Gay, Wis.

medical care for the aged. On a numerical count, the number of cards expressing opinions on this issue runs about 5 to 4 against such care under the Social Security financing plan the administration recommends.

But the figures don't give a complete picture.

Nearly half the total cards received are from St. Louis. And more than half of the St. Louis cards are from doctors.

All told, St. Louis had checked in with 87 cards, 49 from physicians. All 49 were typed, all looked as if the typing was done on the same machine. Five were from individual doctors and 44 were in pairs—each pair of cards identically worded but each signed by a different doctor.

From all cities, 52 cards opposed the medical care program, 44 approved it.

While the doctors lined up against the medical care program, a number of nurses told Kennedy they are for it.

Some of the doctors called the plan socilaized medicine.

But a Philadelphia woman told Kennedy: "I am hoping that you will help pass the bill on socialized medicine."

The people take sides, too, on whether the regional conferences were good or bad. More seem to like the idea than to dislike it, on the basis of the first 200 cards that came in. They ran about 3 to 1 in favor of the conferences.

Several cards commented favorably on the way the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, had handled himself at conferences.

nearby house and other buildings.

The firemen still were on the scene at 9:30 a. m. The Liverpool Township East department was called to remain on standby at the Calcutta station.

Deputy Sheriff Herman Cy Wellman said he spotted the blaze while in a cruiser on Pancake Hill. He said the transmission on the tanker truck broke as the truck was returning to the station late this morning.

The family reported the loss was partially insured.

The firemen returned to the station at 10:30 a. m. They said the clutch plate on the tanker was ripped out when a loose bolt fell down through the transmission.

Firemen said 600 bales of hay, 600 bales of straw and about 500 bushels of corn were stored in the barn. The cause has not been determined. Twenty men responded to the alarm.

hospital Aug. 18 with severe pulmonary congestion and on Sept. 20 at Concord suffered what his physician called a moderately severe heart attack. He was discharged from the hospital Nov. 3.

He was born and reared on a small farm in West Pembroke, Maine.

In the Senate, Bridges generally was regarded as an articulate spokesman for the conservative point of view, though he regarded himself as a "middle-of-the roader."

Bridges was one of the triumvirate of party leaders in the Senate along with Sens. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the GOP floor leader, and Leverett Saltonstall, Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of Republican senators.

Washington speculated that liberals among the GOP senators may try to fill Bridges' place as policy committee chairman from among their own ranks.

In 1959 at the opening of the 86th Congress, the liberals made a similar move, but their candidate for floor leader, Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, lost to Dirksen 20-14. Bridges was a leader in the Dirksen camp.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont could be the liberals' choice for the policy committee if a contest develops. Aiken now outranks GOP senators in seniority except for Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin.

Farm Agent's Report

Stock Of Nuts, Dry Fruit Seen Ample For Holiday

There will be an ample supply of nuts, dried fruit and other food specialities for the year-end holiday season, according to Richard Skinner, marketing agent with the Agricultural Extension Service in Canfield.

Total production of tree nuts is a record crop this year and more than one-third greater than average. Each of the four major nuts —almonds, pecans, filberts and walnuts — is in larger supply. You will probably find more nuts on your grocers shelves this year at lower prices.

The pecan crop, produced in 11 states stretching across the Southern part of the United States, is expected to be a record this year — 22 per cent above last year and 50 per cent above average. The almond crop shows the largest increase. It is estimated to be a third larger than last year and 61 per cent above average. Both filbert and walnut production is larger than in past years.

Eighty per cent of our dried fruit consumption is in the form of raisins and prunes. The raisin crop is 19 per cent above last year. The world supply is also larger this year which will probably mean a drop in exports. Raisin prices should be lower. The supply of dried prunes is about the same as last year, however the market appears strong and prices may be slightly higher.

The date supply is about the same while the pack of dried figs in California was smaller than expected. As a result, fig prices for this season may be fairly high. Production of dried apricots, peaches and pears was smaller this year when compared with last year.

Other holiday foods which are in good supply and will be featured during the next few weeks include cranberries, apples, citrus fruits, turkeys and hams.

The cranberry crop is a good one — 11 per cent below last year but 15 per cent above average. In addition there is an abundance of processed berries. If your family likes cranberries at other times during the year you will find that prices are lowest during November and December and a savings may be had by buying a larger quantity. They may be frozen in cellophane packages kept for one year.

With modern methods of handling and storing, you will find apples of just as good a quality as those we enjoyed during the peak of the local harvesting season. The Red Delicious is considered an excellent apple for use and salads and the ruby red color makes them ideal for fruit bowls. If you want apples for sauce and pies you will find Stayman, Romes and Golden Delicious are better for such uses. All are considered good eating apples.

More citrus fruit is in prospect for 1961-62 than in 1960-61. Harvest and market movements of the new crops in Florida are reaching volume several weeks earlier than last fall. Dry, warm weather has hastened the fruit maturing. Consequently the fruit tends to be smaller than usual, but is also unusually sweet for this time of year. Prices have been lower than last year's season opening ones. Tangerines will be shorter but tangelos will be about 60 per cent greater than last year.

On the meat counters we will continue to find turkeys at record low prices for holiday menus. Hams probably will be featured occasionally from now until the end of the year. The large crop of potatoes with the very attractive price tags will help make the budget go further.

Junior Red Cross Campaign Launched In Area's Schools

Today marks the opening of the week-long Junior Red Cross enrollment drive for public and parochial elementary and Junior High schools in East Liverpool, Calcutta and Salineville, it was announced by Mrs. F. D. Irwin, local Junior chairman.

High School students have participated as part of the yearly Charities Drive conducted recently in the schools.

"Through Junior Red Cross, students can take part in a variety of worthwhile activities in the East Liverpool Chapter as well as promote goodwill among young people in this country and abroad," Mrs. Irwin said.

During the past year, 303,084 gift boxes were sent by National Red Cross to needy children overseas, with 130 of the boxes packed by local Junior Red Cross members in their classrooms. The boxes are stocked with toys, crayons, pencils, tablets, soap, toothpaste, toothbrushes and friendly greetings from the local young people, Mrs. Irwin said.

A group of Westgate Junior High girls sent an album containing photographs, drawings of community life, letters and student essays to a school in Athens, Greece, and, in return, received an album from the Greek students depicting their life and activities.

The Red Cross High School program enables members to enroll in first aid, home nursing and water safety courses offered by the local chapter. They also may serve as volunteers in motor corps, canteen service, staff aides, arts and skills, nurses aides and as certified water safety aides.

The local project of the program is to provide first aid supplies to all schools.

Mrs. Irwin emphasized that students may bring their contributions to school throughout this week.

City Youth Fined $25 After 'Indecent Act'

An 18-year-old city youth was fined $25 and costs today in Municipal Court after pleading guilty to committing an indecent act early this morning.

Paul Melvin Standley, 306 Vine St., drew the fine and lecture from Judge Samuel M. Chertofff who told him: "If you're going to be a man, act like a man."

Standley was arrested on E. 3rd St. at 2:28 a. m. today by Lt. W. E. McDaniel, who said Standley was standing on the rear seat of a car with the lower part of his body exposed and made a suggestive motion with his hand. Stanley told Judge Chertoff he had been drinking but the judge commented: "That's no excuse."

Congo Soldiers Clash With Katanga Forces

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—National Congolese troops and Katanga forces skirmished over the weekend near Kapanga on the south Kasai border, the Elisabethville radio said today.

Reliable military sources here said only a few troops were involved in the clash when Congo soldiers raided across the border for food and other supplies.

President Moise Tshombe told a cheering crowd of 5,000 Africans and a handful of whites Sunday that Katanga must gird for war. He threatened a scorched-earth program to destroy Katanga's rich copper and cobalt mines if any attempt is made by the United Nations or central Congo government to end the province's self-proclaimed independence.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday my wife and I hurriedly dressed for church. When we got to the door I took a quick look and said, "Good grief, Margaret, you forgot your skirt!" She replied in anger, "You idiot, this is my new outfit!"

I couldn't believe it. The dress hit her above the knees. I could have sworn it was the top of a tunic or something.

Margaret is a fairly attractive woman but she has put on some weight in the 22 years we've been married. Also, she's a little bow-legged. These short skirts don't do a thing for her.

When I expressed myself she blew up. She claims the smart dressers follow style trends set by fashion designers and that those who refuse look like country bumpkins. Are the women flipping their lids or am I crazy? I think these short skirts are hideous.—PLAIN ME.

Dear You: Any woman who has eyes and a full-length mirror knows better than the fashion designers how her legs look. Fillies who are richly endowed with well-shaped gams can afford to hike the hemline a little. But the average matron who is slightly knock-kneed, pigeon - toed or bowlegged is foolish to go in for extreme styles.

Deafening Silence

Dear Ann: Our son married a trashy foreigner he met when he went to another city to work. Rodney is sixth-generation American and a Princeton graduate, so you can see how this hurt us.

The wedding was so old-country that I was happy it was 2,000 miles away so none of our friends could see it. The bride's parents look and talk as though they came over on the last boat.

Now Rodney and his wife live only 100 miles from us and we never hear from them. They've been married two years and we've been invited to their home for dinner only once. Months go by and I don't even get a phone call.

How can a boy treat his parents this way? Can this girl have alienated him so completely? — DISCARDED FOLKS.

Dear Folks: Your lack of enthusiasm for your daughter-in-law undoubtedly has something to do with the deafening silence. If you have such a low opinion of the girl she must know it — and so does your son. She did not alienate him, my dear; your attitude did it.

Victorian Aunt

Dear Ann: My husband and I are both 24. We've been married two years and are very happy. His aunt who raised him never cared for me and she is awfully domineering.

I'm expecting a baby in a few months and my condition is obvious. My husband's aunt phoned him this evening to say she caught a glimpse of me in the market today and I looked "disgraceful." She offered to do all my shopping until after the baby is born so I can "stay out of sight — at home — where I belong."

I was so hurt I cried. My husband says he doesn't know about such things, so I'm writing to you, in the hope that you can explain. Please try.—M.S.

Dear M. S.: Expectant mothers no longer hide in the attic until the stork rescues them. Your husband's aunt is living in another century.

Tell him you intend to do your own shopping and remain as active as possible until the baby is born. You'll feel better physically and your mental outlook will be more cheerful.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Friend Says Mast Caused Boat Deaths

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eleven-year-old Terry Jo Duperrault, sole survivor of the sunken ketch Bluebelle, has left the hospital and returned to her native Green Bay, Wis.

Mercy Hospital said Terry was released at 5:30 p.m. Sunday and left by plane soon afterward. She was accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Ralph Scheer, with whom she will live.

Terry Jo was orphaned by a Nov. 12 sea tragedy near the Bahamas.

Meanwhile, a friend of Julian Harvey, skipper of the Bluebelle, said Harvey told him that the sight of blood on deck had caused him to panic and jump overboard before committing suicide.

James C. Boozer said Sunday that Harvey pledged him to secrecy, then related that a mast snapped, knocking overboard Harvey's wife, Mary, 34, and Dr. Arthur Duperrault, 49, Green Bay, Wis., optometrist who chartered the 60-foot sailing ketch.

"I lost my nerve when I saw the blood and guts on the deck, and I jumped overboard," Boozer quoted Harvey as saying. Two days later—and less than 24 hours after the little girl survivor of the Bluebelle was rescued—Harvey killed himself.

Boozer said that after consulting with his pastor, he went to the Coast Guard with the story Harvey told him.

It did not jibe with statements the Coast Guard got separately from Harvey and Terry Jo.

Harvey told the Coast Guard a squall dismasted the Bluebelle, knocking holes in her hull, and a fire broke out. He said all the passengers jumped overboard to escape the flames and he escaped in a dinghy.

Terry Jo said the masts "leaned" but did not fall; she saw no fire and smelled no smoke, and Harvey left her alone in darkness on the ketch after telling her the Bluebelle was sinking.

She said she saw her mother, Jean, 38, and brother, Brian, 14, lying motionless on a bloody deck when she came topside after hearing Brian screaming and a lot of stamping. She launched a raft and was picked up more than 80 hours later.

Wife Shoots Husband, Then Takes Own Life

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Wayne W. Harris, 54, of nearby Shade was reported in satisfactory condition today at University Hospital, Columbus, with a bullet wound in the back. Authorities say his estranged wife inflicted the wound just before she killed herself.

Dead is Mrs. Helen Harris, 38, who shot herself in the head Sunday, a month after filing for divorce, according to Sheriff Harold Shields.

A little less than seven per cent of the world's population is accounted for by the United States.

'Holiday House' Christmas Bazaar To Be Wednesday

The "Holiday House" Christmas bazaar and dinner sponsored by the WSCS Wednesday in the social rooms of the First Methodist Church will be open to the public.

Mrs. Albert Reese, general chairman, said the event will be open from 1 to 9 o'clock. Reservations are necessary for the dinner, which will be served from 5 to 7 by Mrs. Victoria Willis, chairman, and the church activities committee. Mrs. H. Judson English is ticket chairman for the dinner.

Several new ideas have been introduced for the bazaar, the annual project of the WSCS, with proceeds going to church and mission work. Decorations in the church gymnasium, where some seven booths will be set up, will follow a "holiday house" theme. Girls of the Youth Fellowship will stage a fashion show during the dinner hours. They will model Christmas aprons and other hand-sewn articles made by the church Sewing Guild. Mrs. Francis Lang is chairman of this booth.

Members of the Deborah and Susannah Wesley Circle, with Mrs. Raymond Goodman and Mrs. Robert Risinger, co-chairmen, will supply the Christmas decorations booth.

Mrs. Albert McLain is chairman of the homemade candies booth sponsored by the Dorcas Circle. Home-baked goods will be sold at the Martha Circle booth with Mrs. Charles R. Waggoner and Miss Ann Allison co-chairmen.

A sale of "white elephants" will be featured in the booth staffed by the Gertrude Kirby Circle with Mrs. Andrew Myers Jr. chairman.

Mrs. Reese, Mrs. Robert Wotring and Mrs. Ethel Wambaugh, the general bazaar committee, will have charge of a booth displaying "Gifts from India." These gift suggestions will include art objects, hand-printed fabrics, polished brass, jewelry and other items, all produced in the small villages of India. Through the cooperative efforts of the Indian Guild and church organizations, these people are aided in becoming self-sustaining.

The Youth Fellowship will conduct a fish pond and other activity for the younger set.

The decorating committee, which includes one member from each circle, the Sewing Guild and Youth Group, will meet at the church Tuesday night at 7 o'clock to set up the bazaar.

Hospital Discharges 3 Of 4 Hurt In Crash

Three of four city residents injured seriously in an auto crash Oct. 29 in East Brady, Pa., have been released from Butler County Memorial Hospital in Butler

Thomas and Eva Clark of Calcutta and Leroy Clark, rear 684 Lincoln Ave., are recuperating at home with injuries received when their auto plunged over a 30-foot embankment and crashed into a barrier of railroad ties at the bottom of a steep hill.

Mrs. Bernice Clark, 46, wife of Leroy Clark, remains in "fair" condition in the hospital.

The Calcutta couple was released from the hospital Thursday, while Leroy Clark returned home Sunday. The brothers and their wives were returning from a brief vacation when the brakes of their auto failed on the steep grade.

DeWitt Clinton, governor of New York and father of the Erie Canal, was instrumental in founding the state's first savings bank in 1819.

The privilege of "Trial By Jury" in the Bill of Rights also is the title of a well-known Gilbert and Sullivan operetta.

Court Opens Hearing For City Assault Case

A lengthy hearing was under way today in Municipal Court for Robert O. (Bud) Mattern of Campground Rd., accused of assaulting James Rayl of Carolina Ave., Maplewood, with a hammer and tire iron on Nov. 20.

The charge against Mattern was filed by Rayl and Mrs. Edward L. Rayl.

Mattern is represented by Atty. John B. McDonald while City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper is the prosecutor.

New Bridge Recalls Ferry's Role In District

By GLENN WAIGHT

Plying its placid trade in the shadows of an atomic energy plant and fitted out with modern Diesel engines and shortwave radio, the Shippingport Ferry — among the last of the public ferries on the upper Ohio River — may be approaching the end of a long career.

Bidding which is due soon on a new toll free highway bridge at Shippingport would launch construction that means the ferry — a travel mode left over from pioneer days — would halt service when the new span is finished

IN OPERATION since before the Civil War 100 years ago, the ferry is run by Robert Christy and Jack Morrow, both of Shippingport, a quiet little riverside hamlet which, because of the nearby atomic power plant of the Duquesne Light Co., has become synonomous with nuclear power production throughout the world

Christy, 49, is president of the ferry, and Morrow, 35, is secretary of the firm, which received its first Pennsylvania grant in 1871 but which operated prior to that.

It was founded by William Cook when he was 18 years old and was operated later by Claude Cook, from whom Christy's father, C. S. Christy, and his uncle, A. J. Morrow, purchased it in 1919.

THE FERRY was known as Cook's Ferry for many years and the site on the north side of the river is still called that.

It is the last public ferry between Pittsburgh and Short Creek near Tiltonsville and has for many years continued a steady trade across the river while ferries at Georgetown, East Liverpool, Wellsville, New Cumberland, Industry and Vanport went out of business.

Morrow and Christy, who are cousins, operate two separate tugs and ferry barges — the larger "Manchester" ferry built at Vanceburg, Ky., in 1939 and reconditioned in 1958, and the "Sarah M.", built by the Treadwell Construction Co. at Midland in 1941 and rebuilt in 1960.

The 70-foot long "Manchester," in use most of the time, is powered by the tug "Chrismor," a Diesel-motored boat constructed at Wheeling in 1956. The smaller ferry is powered by the "Nancy," a gasoline-motored boat built in 1954 at Shippingport by Charles Thayer of Pittsburgh.

The ferry operates from 6 a. m. to 8 p.m. daily, making some 70 roundtrips in an avreage day and transporting about 400 vehicles across the 1,300-foot-wide river, a journey which averages about three minutes.

THE TRAFFIC flow is seasonal, according to Morrow, who is also on the Southside Jointure School Board. In the fall there is an increase due to construction work and other activities, while traffic drops off in the winter.

The ferry operates in clear weather and foul and has no particular problems at the site. The river is as deep as 29 feet a third of the way from the south shore, kept channeled by sand dredges.

Shortwave radio contact with towboats and dams is maintained in foggy weather and the Coast Guard inspects equipment annually to check on safety conditions.

Smith's Ferry, which ended operations in 1950, was one of the oldest ferries in this area, serving the pioneer track which ran from Washington, Pa., through to Lisbon and Lake Erie, and which made Georgetown one of the more active communities in the early days.

It was founded by Thomas Smith, who came from Maryland in 1790 to become one of the first settlers at Georgetown. The ferry is mentioned in a court petition as early as 1799.

Sometime before 1817 the ferry was taken over by Ben Dawson of Georgetown when that village was described by a traveler "as a half-dozen log houses, one-fourth of which were taverns." The ferry was subsequently bought by Jesse Smith, a son of Thomas, and operated afterward by his sons, Jesse and Thomas Smith.

Joseph Brooks of Georgetown, now employed at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., was the last operator of the ferry. E. P. Alexander and the late George Trimble also operated it in recent years.

A FERRY was part of the early river scene in East Liverpool, linking Fawcettstown with the Virginia shore. William Smith, one of the town's pioneer settlers and a grandson of Thomas Fawcett, founder, wrote of purchasing a log house in the east end of the village near Union St. in 1826 to catch the ferry traffic.

Others in the town, which had a populatoin of 100, wanted to make Market St. the business center and bought an old ferry flat which began crossings at the foot of Market. It was operated by John (King) Smith, onetime justice of the peace. This latter venture failed in a few months, however.

Throughout the 19th century the ferries maintained travel across the Ohio in the face of floods and low water, snags, fires, loose barges, irate passengers, ice gorges and haughty pilots of steamboats. The various boats changed hands periodically, burned, sank and were replaced.

The steam ferry "John Darling" was operating here during the Civil War under Capt. Reason Gardner. By 1878 it was the ferry "Cordelia", with Capt. Tom Potts, which was hauling horses and wagons, sheep, cattle and freight besides passengers.

West Virginians banded together that year to protest the ferry rates in effect since the war, claiming the charges should be reduced to "peacetime" levels. East Liverpool Council in 1879 set the rates at 5 cents a person, 40 cents for a score of sheep and 25 cents for a wagon and two horses.

THE "CORDELIA" burned to the hull in December 1879 off the Chester shore with a loss of $1,400. The owners, Neville and Pusey, ordered a new ferry, the "Chester," an 81-foot craft, 18 feet wide whose steam engine was built by the Stevenson Co. of Wellsville. The Phillip Geise Co. of Wellsville had constructed a number of ferries in the 1840's and 1850's for use on the Ohio and Mississippi.

Among perennial river hazards on the then un-dammed Ohio were low water of the fall and summer and ice jams in the winter. Occasionally a ferry would be placed on skids to cross the shallow stream and mud flats.

By mid-January 1881 the "Chester" was imbedded in shore ice near the Broadway landing and ferry travel was halted pending a thaw.

In 1887 the "Chester" was sold to Thomas Swaney for use at the New Cumberland ferry crossing and Capt. Jason Neville brought up from Wheeling a new 92½-foot sternwheeler, the "Ollie Neville", which was 26 feet wide, weighed 70½ tons and had two steam engines.

The "Ollie Neville" was operated by Neville and Elwood Pusey, son of William Pusey of the West Virginia side who had taken it over after Capt. Reason Gardner.

But the ferry had only 10 more years of existence, being doomed by construction of the Chester Bridge. Its regular traverse of the river from the Broadway wharf to the foot of Ferry Rd., south of 1st St. in Chester, ended soon after the bridge opened Dec. 31, 1896.

THE FERRY at Shippingport is the only public ferry currently operating on the Ohio from Pittsburgh to the 81.2-mile point south where Short Creek, W. Va., and Warrenton, Ohio, are linked.

According to river veterans at Lock 10, Steubenville, other ferries operating downriver below Wheeling are at Moundsville, Clarington, New Martinsville and Sistersville.

The New Martinsville ferry, faces extinction following opening of a new bridge there.

Morrow, whose home is situated with Christy's along the river just above the ferry landing, looks across the stream to where the new $4.5 million span is planned and says he doesn't know what he will do when the ferry closes, perhaps within two years.

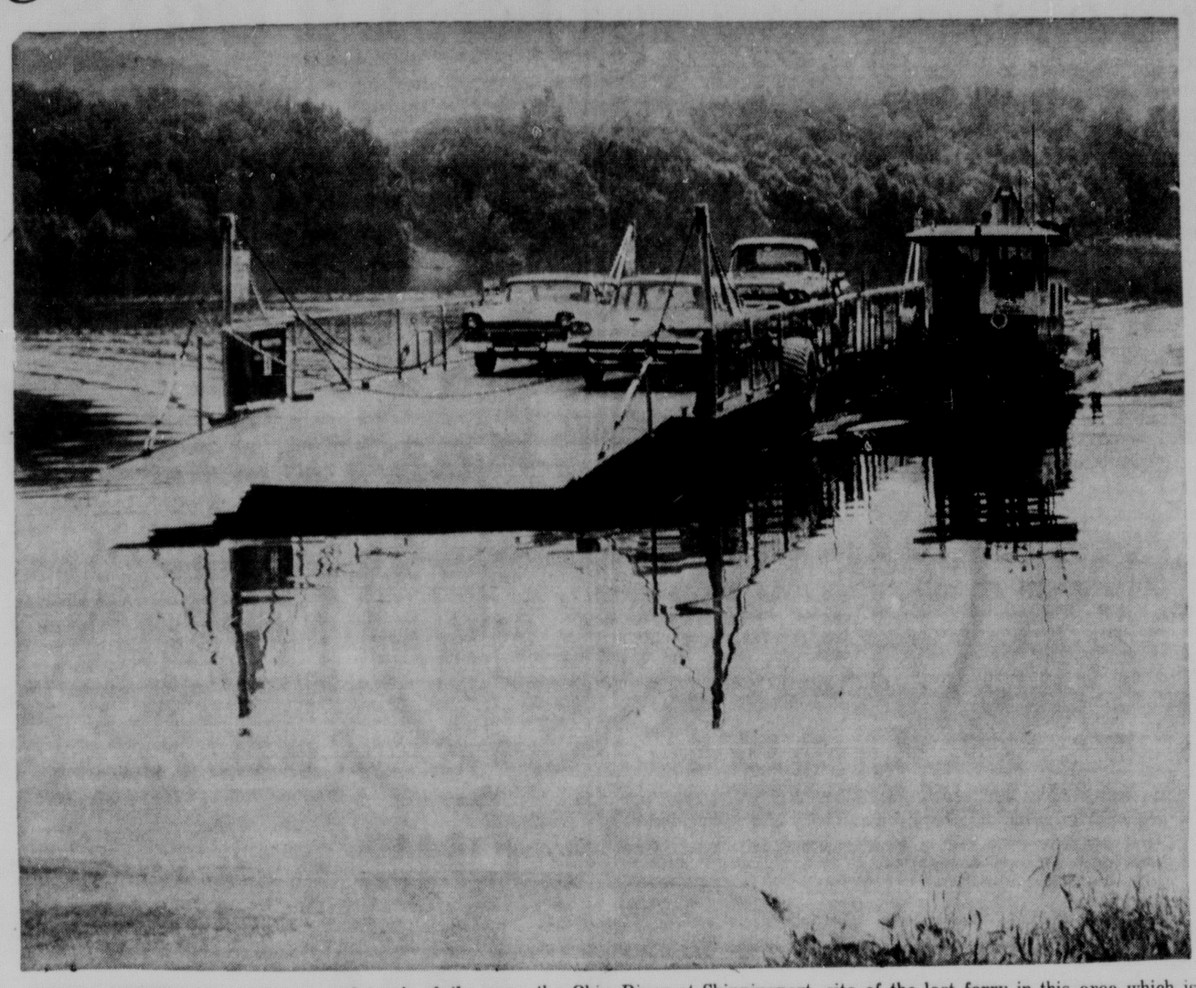

"I have no plans," he says. "We know a ferry service is outmoded in this day and age, but it still serves an important purpose." Both Christy and Morrow doubt there is sufficient traffic to warrant construction of spans at Vanport and Shippingport.

Although the proposed Shippingport bridge was originally planned as a toll span when the issue first passed the Pennsylvania legislature a number of years ago, it will be a free bridge according to present plans.

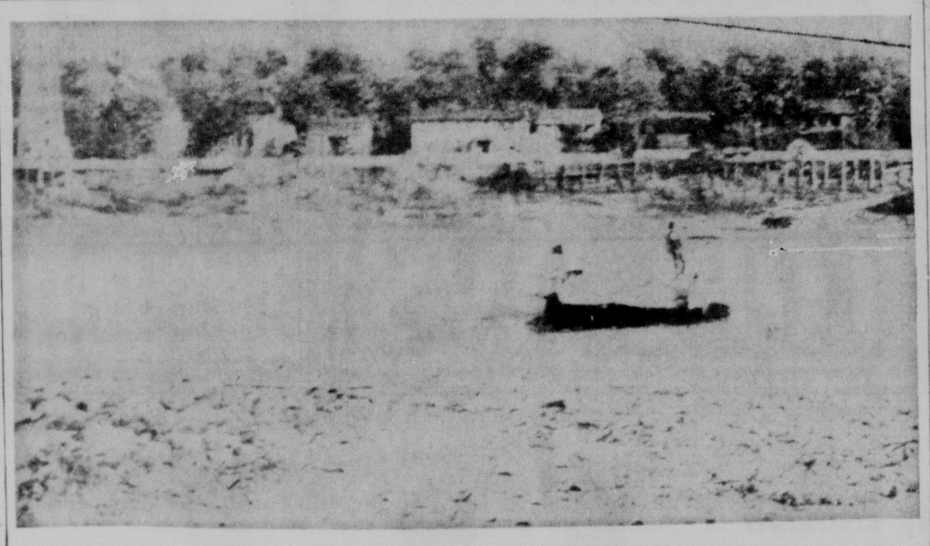

Morrow and Christy also feel that Shippingport itself, a small village founded over a century and a half ago, will not have any great immediate benefit from a bridge other than a more rapid access to the far shore.

They believe the area gradually will develop, with more homes and businesses, but see no overnight blossoming.

However, at work in the continued economic growth on both sides of the valley and in the complex processes of legislating and highway planning are forces which have numbered the days on the river tor the Shippingport ferry—the last of its kind in this area.

FRISKY FERRY. Some 400 cars and trucks daily cross the Ohio River at Shippingport, site of the last ferry in this area which is scheduled to be replaced in two years by a $4.5 million bridge. Diesel tugs, short-wave radio and concrete landings are modern accessories for a pioneer travel method.

EARLIER DAYS. Muddy approaches to the landings and a shallow Ohio River marked the Shippingport crossing around the turn of the century when the ferry was drawn by cable. Chief traffic then was buggies and wagons loaded with farm produce. The river was so low when this picture was taken the ferry had to be hand-pulled by ropes from the shore.

Ford Co. Faces Antitrust Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department filed a civil antitrust suit today against the Ford Motor Co. over its acquisition of Electric Autolite Co.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

A department spokesman said the suit asks the court to order Ford divest itself of two manufacturing plants, sales facilities and the "Autolite" trade name it acquired last spring from the Electric Autolite Co. of Toledo, Ohio.

The government charged that Ford's acquisition could substantially decrease competition in the spark plug business and in other automobile parts.

The slamming of an oven door will cause a cake to fall because the tiny air cells in the cake are broken, causing the cake to collapse.

Citizens of York, Pa., collected clothes and shoes for Washington's freezing, barefoot men camped at Valley Forge.

New Bridge Recalls Ferry's Role In District

By GLENN WAIGHT

Plying its placid trade in the shadows of an atomic energy plant and fitted out with modern Diesel engines and shortwave radio, the Shippingport Ferry — among the last of the public ferries on the upper Ohio River — may be approaching the end of a long career.

Bidding which is due soon on a new toll free highway bridge at Shippingport would launch construction that means the ferry — a travel mode left over from pioneer days — would halt service when the new span is finished

IN OPERATION since before the Civil War 100 years ago, the ferry is run by Robert Christy and Jack Morrow, both of Shippingport, a quiet little riverside hamlet which, because of the nearby atomic power plant of the Duquesne Light Co., has become synonomous with nuclear power production throughout the world

Christy, 49, is president of the ferry, and Morrow, 35, is secretary of the firm, which received its first Pennsylvania grant in 1871 but which operated prior to that.

It was founded by William Cook when he was 18 years old and was operated later by Claude Cook, from whom Christy's father, C. S. Christy, and his uncle, A. J. Morrow, purchased it in 1919.

THE FERRY was known as Cook's Ferry for many years and the site on the north side of the river is still called that.

It is the last public ferry between Pittsburgh and Short Creek near Tiltonsville and has for many years continued a steady trade across the river while ferries at Georgetown, East Liverpool, Wellsville, New Cumberland, Industry and Vanport went out of business.

Morrow and Christy, who are cousins, operate two separate tugs and ferry barges — the larger "Manchester" ferry built at Vanceburg, Ky., in 1939 and reconditioned in 1958, and the "Sarah M.", built by the Treadwell Construction Co. at Midland in 1941 and rebuilt in 1960.

The 70-foot long "Manchester," in use most of the time, is powered by the tug "Chrismor," a Diesel-motored boat constructed at Wheeling in 1956. The smaller ferry is powered by the "Nancy," a gasoline-motored boat built in 1954 at Shippingport by Charles Thayer of Pittsburgh.

The ferry operates from 6 a. m. to 8 p.m. daily, making some 70 roundtrips in an avreage day and transporting about 400 vehicles across the 1,300-foot-wide river, a journey which averages about three minutes.

THE TRAFFIC flow is seasonal, according to Morrow, who is also on the Southside Jointure School Board. In the fall there is an increase due to construction work and other activities, while traffic drops off in the winter.

The ferry operates in clear weather and foul and has no particular problems at the site. The river is as deep as 29 feet a third of the way from the south shore, kept channeled by sand dredges.

Shortwave radio contact with towboats and dams is maintained in foggy weather and the Coast Guard inspects equipment annually to check on safety conditions.

Smith's Ferry, which ended operations in 1950, was one of the oldest ferries in this area, serving the pioneer track which ran from Washington, Pa., through to Lisbon and Lake Erie, and which made Georgetown one of the more active communities in the early days.

It was founded by Thomas Smith, who came from Maryland in 1790 to become one of the first settlers at Georgetown. The ferry is mentioned in a court petition as early as 1799.

Sometime before 1817 the ferry was taken over by Ben Dawson of Georgetown when that village was described by a traveler "as a half-dozen log houses, one-fourth of which were taverns." The ferry was subsequently bought by Jesse Smith, a son of Thomas, and operated afterward by his sons, Jesse and Thomas Smith.

Joseph Brooks of Georgetown, now employed at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., was the last operator of the ferry. E. P. Alexander and the late George Trimble also operated it in recent years.

A FERRY was part of the early river scene in East Liverpool, linking Fawcettstown with the Virginia shore. William Smith, one of the town's pioneer settlers and a grandson of Thomas Fawcett, founder, wrote of purchasing a log house in the east end of the village near Union St. in 1826 to catch the ferry traffic.

Others in the town, which had a populatoin of 100, wanted to make Market St. the business center and bought an old ferry flat which began crossings at the foot of Market. It was operated by John (King) Smith, onetime justice of the peace. This latter venture failed in a few months, however.

Throughout the 19th century the ferries maintained travel across the Ohio in the face of floods and low water, snags, fires, loose barges, irate passengers, ice gorges and haughty pilots of steamboats. The various boats changed hands periodically, burned, sank and were replaced.

The steam ferry "John Darling" was operating here during the Civil War under Capt. Reason Gardner. By 1878 it was the ferry "Cordelia", with Capt. Tom Potts, which was hauling horses and wagons, sheep, cattle and freight besides passengers.

West Virginians banded together that year to protest the ferry rates in effect since the war, claiming the charges should be reduced to "peacetime" levels. East Liverpool Council in 1879 set the rates at 5 cents a person, 40 cents for a score of sheep and 25 cents for a wagon and two horses.

THE "CORDELIA" burned to the hull in December 1879 off the Chester shore with a loss of $1,400. The owners, Neville and Pusey, ordered a new ferry, the "Chester," an 81-foot craft, 18 feet wide whose steam engine was built by the Stevenson Co. of Wellsville. The Phillip Geise Co. of Wellsville had constructed a number of ferries in the 1840's and 1850's for use on the Ohio and Mississippi.

Among perennial river hazards on the then un-dammed Ohio were low water of the fall and summer and ice jams in the winter. Occasionally a ferry would be placed on skids to cross the shallow stream and mud flats.

By mid-January 1881 the "Chester" was imbedded in shore ice near the Broadway landing and ferry travel was halted pending a thaw.

In 1887 the "Chester" was sold to Thomas Swaney for use at the New Cumberland ferry crossing and Capt. Jason Neville brought up from Wheeling a new 92½-foot sternwheeler, the "Ollie Neville", which was 26 feet wide, weighed 70½ tons and had two steam engines.

The "Ollie Neville" was operated by Neville and Elwood Pusey, son of William Pusey of the West Virginia side who had taken it over after Capt. Reason Gardner.

But the ferry had only 10 more years of existence, being doomed by construction of the Chester Bridge. Its regular traverse of the river from the Broadway wharf to the foot of Ferry Rd., south of 1st St. in Chester, ended soon after the bridge opened Dec. 31, 1896.

THE FERRY at Shippingport is the only public ferry currently operating on the Ohio from Pittsburgh to the 81.2-mile point south where Short Creek, W. Va., and Warrenton, Ohio, are linked.

According to river veterans at Lock 10, Steubenville, other ferries operating downriver below Wheeling are at Moundsville, Clarington, New Martinsville and Sistersville.

The New Martinsville ferry, faces extinction following opening of a new bridge there.

Morrow, whose home is situated with Christy's along the river just above the ferry landing, looks across the stream to where the new $4.5 million span is planned and says he doesn't know what he will do when the ferry closes, perhaps within two years.

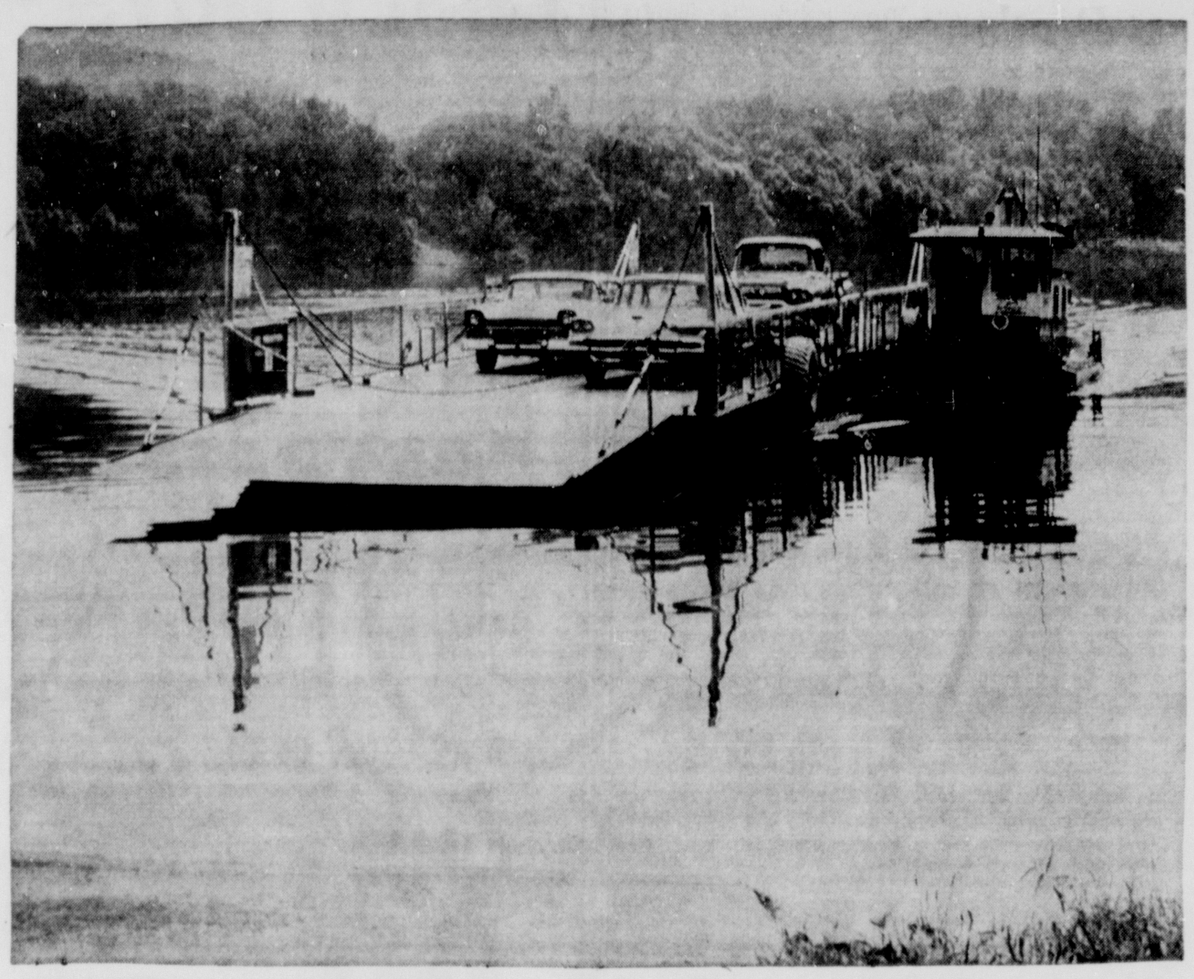

"I have no plans," he says. "We know a ferry service is outmoded in this day and age, but it still serves an important purpose." Both Christy and Morrow doubt there is sufficient traffic to warrant construction of spans at Vanport and Shippingport.

Although the proposed Shippingport bridge was originally planned as a toll span when the issue first passed the Pennsylvania legislature a number of years ago, it will be a free bridge according to present plans.

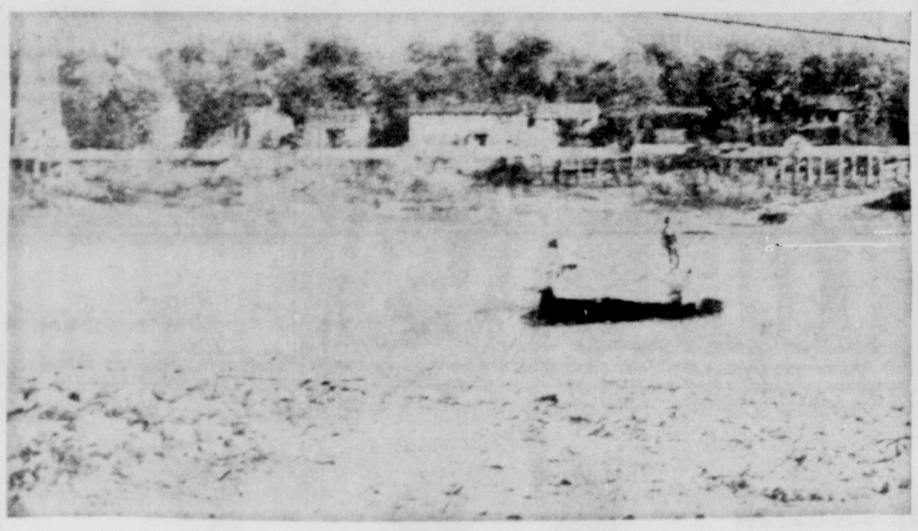

Morrow and Christy also feel that Shippingport itself, a small village founded over a century and a half ago, will not have any great immediate benefit from a bridge other than a more rapid access to the far shore.

They believe the area gradually will develop, with more homes and businesses, but see no overnight blossoming.

However, at work in the continued economic growth on both sides of the valley and in the complex processes of legislating and highway planning are forces which have numbered the days on the river tor the Shippingport ferry—the last of its kind in this area.

Segregation Charged In Cincinnati Suburb

CINCINNATI (AP)—Officials of the National Association For the Advancement of Colored People here have accused the Lockland school board of "purposeful desire" to maintain segregation in the suburb's schools.

NAACP officials say about 90 Negro pupils are segregated in Lockland Wayne School while East Lockland is overcrowded with white students only. School officials said residents of Lockland have the right to choose to which school they send their children.

According to latest accident statistics, the greatest number of fatal automobile accidents occur on Saturday.

A Room Within A Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Oh, to have a den, now that winter is here.

Dad isn't the only member of the family with such anti-social ideas. Mom and offspring have the same thoughts.

There are ways to achieve privacy if you want it, even in a small home.

Children's rooms could have screened - in areas that are off limits to others who share the room.

Mom might have a small corner of the kitchen organized for relaxation. Some people convert a pantry to an away-from-it-all abode.

THERE ARE many ways to achieve privacy when you want it without corralling additional space, says Ving Smith, member of the American Institute of Interior Designers.

"A small area of a room may be utilized for the purpose, and a contemporary arrangement can be offset by good planning if the area staked off is part of a traditional setting," he explains.

Smith has designed rooms-within - rooms to illustrate his point. The niche you select depends on the size of the room. You can screen in a tiny area if space is limited or you can make a temporary arrangement that looks permanent.

Smith did just that in an area of about 5 feet by 6 feet. One section was the room's narrow windows (he added shades), one section was the wall and two sections were window shades that ran down to the floor.

The shades were suspended from a valance at the ceiling, and brought up and down on nylon cords. Small screw eyes were attached to the bottom of the shades at each side. The nylon cord ran from the valance through the screw eyes to screw eyes on the floor.

Or use a 2-by-2 frame on the floor, Smith advises. Uprights were 2 by 2s.

THE MATERIALS may be found in any hardware store says Smith. "The nylon cord is really clothesline and it and the screw eyes are inexpensive."

Smith used tontine shades constructed of heavy canvas impregnated and coated with vinyl, one side white, the other turquoise.

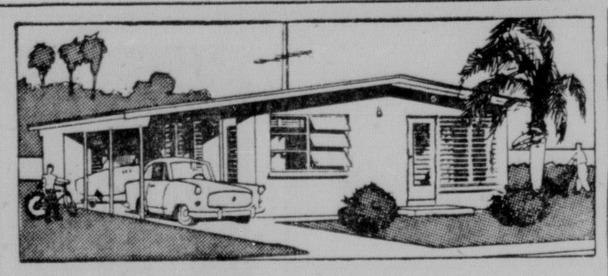

Three shades were used at the windows with the middle shade dramatically raised to pointpoint a panel of stained glass windows below it. All the shades were cut to the size required.

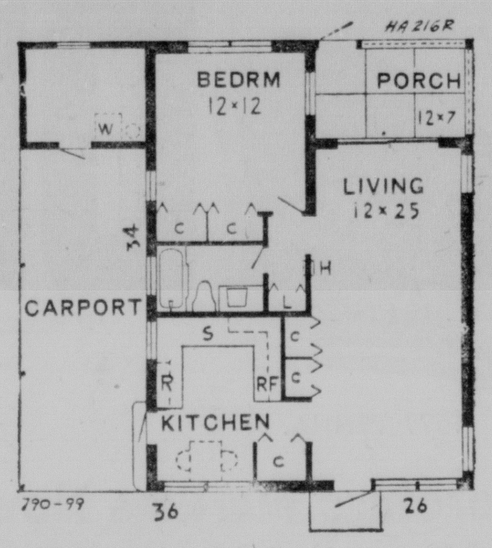

"The colored glass windows help warm a contemporary area so it doesn't seem too stark or modern." Smith points out. "The old windows can be found in used-furniture shops."

He used an interesting washable wall fabric on the one wall against which a small table and chair were placed. A small Victorian clock was set on the table to enhance the traditional scene even more.

When planning a private retreat that is to be part of dual-purpose living, consider the needs of the individual Smith designed a private retreat for a mother or mother-in-law.

He turned a bedroom into a bed-sitting room by putting the bed on a platform and enclosing it in an arrangement of accordion pleated leather panels. The bed may be closed off completely when not in use so that the room becomes a sitting room.

RETIREMENT HOME. This slab-on-grade masonry home is economical for a retired couple. It has 790 square feet of floor space in four rooms, plus a screened-in porch, utility room and carport. Dimensions are 36 by 34 feet. Plan is HA216R and architect is Jan Reiner, P. O. Box 11567, St. Petersburg 33, Fla.

Deputies Press Hunt For Missing Kent Boy

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Portage County deputies said they would continue to search today for an 11-year-old boy who has been missing since Sunday morning.

Some 30 special and regular sheriff's deputies searched in vain for three and a half hour Sunday night for Dale Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cook.

A beautifully shelled sea mollusk known as conch (pronounced conk) abounds in the waters of the Bahamas and is an occasional producer of valuable pearls. One adorns a crown among the crown jewels of Sweden and another was purchased by a London jeweler for $10,000.

Westgate, Wellsville Schools Get Awards

Westgate Junior High School and Wellsville High School will receive honor awards in the 1962 all-Ohio school safety poster contest, for which winners were announced Friday at Columbus.

The third annual contest, which attracted more than 1,000 entries, was sponsored jointly by the Ohio Industrial Commission, its Division of Safety and Hygiene and the Ohio Department of Education.

It was open to all students in Grades 7 through 12 and judged on safety idea and presentation. The nine top winning posters will be distributed to all schools for monthly display beginning in January.

Both Kitchen And Bath Use Gloss Enamel

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The walls and ceilings in most rooms in a house usually are painted with a flat paint.

Whether it is a flat latex or a flat alkyd, or any other flat paint, the choice is made because there is none of the glare associated with a gloss finish.

There are two rooms, however, where a gloss or semi-gloss enamel still holds sway — the kitchen and the bathroom.

These coatings have a greater resistance to steam and water than the flat paints, even though new formulas have made the flat finishes more resistant to water than at any time in the past.

It is fairly well agreed that a gloss enamel will withstand more scrubbings than even the most scientifically advanced flat paints.

In selecting an enamel for the kitchen or bathroom, color is decidedly important.

The housewife has to take into consideration more than her personal likes, due to the particular functions of these two rooms. In the kitchen, for instance, a cool color should be selected.

Even a kitchen with air conditioning needs colors to counteract the warmth generated during the cooking chores. The selection should be made from the light and cheerful blues and greens, the pale yellows and the muted pinks.

The first place most of us look at ourselves in the morning is the bathroom mirror.

And the way we look is affected by the kind of light reflected from the walls. The peaches, pinks, roses and soft corals give a warm glow to the complexion and make us think we feel good, even though we didn't think so when we arose. Be especially wary of the yellow-green colors, which can make us appear ghastly.

Before painting the kitchen and bathroom, extra care must be taken in preparing the surfaces, since the walls and ceilings to these rooms are apt to be soiled quite a bit.

The surfaces must be absolutely free of oil, grease, dried soap and dirt before painting. Ordinary household cleaners are excellent for this purpose. They not only remove the foreign materials, but tend to reduce whatever gloss remains from the previous paint job.

It is a fundamental of painting that new paint will not adhere properly to a shiny surface.

If you are using a light colored enamel over a much darker hue, you should apply enamel undercoater. This is especially true if you are using yellow or pink, which have a low hiding power.

Apartment Dwellers Urged To Get Facts About Heating

NEW YORK — With apartment construction rising to a record level, 1961 has seen nearly a quarter million American families moving into new apartments.

Having a wider selection of modern buildings than ever before, apartment shoppers can take advantage of this selection to make sure that the heating system in the building of their choice provides for their full comfort, and protects their pocketbook, too.

Traditonally it was the home owner — living in a one - family or two - family house — who had to be concerned with heating systems, but apartment dwellers have just as much at stake in how their apartment "home" is heated

The National Better Heating-Cooling Council recommends that apartment shoppers make sure that the building they select has hydronic heating — either steam or forced circulation hot water heating.

This type of system, used in the majority of apartments, is rated high by experts for its cleanliness quiet operation and steady, even heating, the council points out.

It says that hydronic systems not only offer superior comfort, but their proven durability and the fact that they are designed to use whatever fuel is most economical in the local area, means low operating cost.

If the building selected has, instead, a system with high operating cost, this cost will be passed on to the occupant — whether heat is included in a single overall monthly charge or is actually metered to each apartment

Many of today's finest apartments offer not only hydronic heating, but also hydronic air conditioning for summer comfort. With year-around hydronics, the same kind of system that uses hot water or steam to provide modern winter comfort, circulates chilled water for quiet, economical summer cooling.

Judge Russell Taken, Newspaper Publisher

MILLERSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Hoy L. Russell, Holmes County judge and publisher of the weekly Holmes County Farmer Hub, died unexpectedly at his home near here Sunday night. He was 67.

He had recently begun his 12th year as probate juvenile judge. He had published the Farmer Hub, the only newspaper in the county, for the past 10 years.

A native of Mount Vernon, Judge Russell started his journalistic career as a reporter on the Mount Vernon News and later worked for the Coshocton Tribune.

About 20 years ago he left newspaper work and entered what is now Cleveland - Marshall Law School, from which he was graduated.

125,000 View Annual Cleveland Yule Event

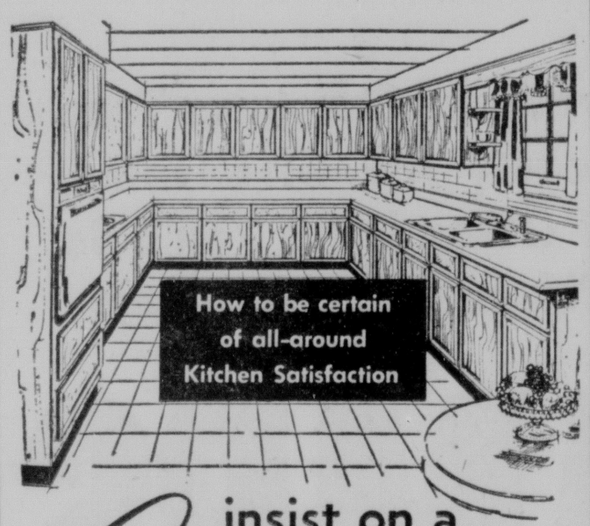

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police Traffic Commissioner James P. Halloran estimated a crowd of 125,000 was downtown Sunday for the 28th annual Christmas parade.

Included in the parade were 11 bands, 40 giants balloons, Boy Scouts, drill teams, antique cars, Great Danes and floats. Santa Claus was there, too, in the person of John S. Nagy, recreation commissioner.

Ohio 5-Day Forecast

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average five to seven degrees below normal. Normal high 41-43, normal low 28-30. Cold through mid-week, followed by slow warming trend, cold again end of week. Precipitation will average around one-tenth of an inch in scattered showers or snow flurries through Monday night and in scattered showers late Friday and early Saturday.

Segregation Charged In Cincinnati Suburb

CINCINNATI (AP)—Officials of the National Association For the Advancement of Colored People here have accused the Lockland school board of "purposeful desire" to maintain segregation in the suburb's schools.

NAACP officials say about 90 Negro pupils are segregated in Lockland Wayne School while East Lockland is overcrowded with white students only. School officials said residents of Lockland have the right to choose to which school they send their children.

According to latest accident statistics, the greatest number of fatal automobile accidents occur on Saturday.

A Room Within A Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Oh, to have a den, now that winter is here.

Dad isn't the only member of the family with such anti-social ideas. Mom and offspring have the same thoughts.

There are ways to achieve privacy if you want it, even in a small home.

Children's rooms could have screened - in areas that are off limits to others who share the room.

Mom might have a small corner of the kitchen organized for relaxation. Some people convert a pantry to an away-from-it-all abode.

THERE ARE many ways to achieve privacy when you want it without corralling additional space, says Ving Smith, member of the American Institute of Interior Designers.

"A small area of a room may be utilized for the purpose, and a contemporary arrangement can be offset by good planning if the area staked off is part of a traditional setting," he explains.

Smith has designed rooms-within - rooms to illustrate his point. The niche you select depends on the size of the room. You can screen in a tiny area if space is limited or you can make a temporary arrangement that looks permanent.

Smith did just that in an area of about 5 feet by 6 feet. One section was the room's narrow windows (he added shades), one section was the wall and two sections were window shades that ran down to the floor.

The shades were suspended from a valance at the ceiling, and brought up and down on nylon cords. Small screw eyes were attached to the bottom of the shades at each side. The nylon cord ran from the valance through the screw eyes to screw eyes on the floor.

Or use a 2-by-2 frame on the floor, Smith advises. Uprights were 2 by 2s.

THE MATERIALS may be found in any hardware store says Smith. "The nylon cord is really clothesline and it and the screw eyes are inexpensive."

Smith used tontine shades constructed of heavy canvas impregnated and coated with vinyl, one side white, the other turquoise.

Three shades were used at the windows with the middle shade dramatically raised to pointpoint a panel of stained glass windows below it. All the shades were cut to the size required.

"The colored glass windows help warm a contemporary area so it doesn't seem too stark or modern." Smith points out. "The old windows can be found in used-furniture shops."

He used an interesting washable wall fabric on the one wall against which a small table and chair were placed. A small Victorian clock was set on the table to enhance the traditional scene even more.

When planning a private retreat that is to be part of dual-purpose living, consider the needs of the individual Smith designed a private retreat for a mother or mother-in-law.

He turned a bedroom into a bedsitting room by putting the bed on a platform and enclosing it in an arrangement of accordion pleated leather panels. The bed may be closed off completely when not in use so that the room becomes a sitting room.

Both Kitchen And Bath Use Gloss Enamel

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The walls and ceilings in most rooms in a house usually are painted with a flat paint.

Whether it is a flat latex or a flat alkyd, or any other flat paint, the choice is made because there is none of the glare associated with a gloss finish.

There are two rooms, however, where a gloss or semi-gloss enamel still holds sway — the kitchen and the bathroom.

These coatings have a greater resistance to steam and water than the flat paints, even though new formulas have made the flat finishes more resistant to water than at any time in the past.

It is fairly well agreed that a gloss enamel will withstand more scrubbings than even the most scientifically advanced flat paints.

In selecting an enamel for the kitchen or bathroom, color is decidedly important.

The housewife has to take into consideration more than her personal likes, due to the particular functions of these two rooms. In the kitchen, for instance, a cool color should be selected.

Even a kitchen with air conditioning needs colors to counteract the warmth generated during the cooking chores. The selection should be made from the light and cheerful blues and greens, the pale yellows and the muted pinks.

The first place most of us look at ourselves in the morning is the bathroom mirror.

And the way we look is affected by the kind of light reflected from the walls. The peaches, pinks, roses and soft corals give a warm glow to the complexion and make us think we feel good, even though we didn't think so when we arose. Be especially wary of the yellow-green colors, which can make us appear ghastly.

Before painting the kitchen and bathroom, extra care must be taken in preparing the surfaces, since the walls and ceilings to these rooms are apt to be soiled quite a bit.

The surfaces must be absolutely free of oil, grease, dried soap and dirt before painting. Ordinary household cleaners are excellent for this purpose. They not only remove the foreign materials, but tend to reduce whatever gloss remains from the previous paint job.

It is a fundamental of painting that new paint will not adhere properly to a shiny surface.

If you are using a light colored enamel over a much darker hue, you should apply enamel undercoater. This is especially true if you are using yellow or pink, which have a low hiding power.

How To Paint Walls Minus Ceiling Dabs

AP Newsfeatures

Question: My next home project is painting the walls in our living room.

The ceiling does not need a painting at this time. How can I do the walls without getting paint on the ceiling?

Answer: There are several ways in which this can be done, but the easiest and least expensive is with the use of a metal shield known as a painter's time-saver.

Place the shield against the ceiling with its edge flush against the wall. Brush on a two or three-inch strip of paint with a narrow brush. Any overlap will be deposited on the guard, not on the ceiling.

If you are using a water-thinned paint, popularly known as latex, which does not show lap marks, brush the strip around the entire perimeter of the room. Be sure to wipe the metal shield with a damp cloth each time you move it.

If you are using an alkyd paint, make your strip only as long as the distance you can comfortably reach while standing on the ladder.

Then fill in the area from the strip to the baseboard with brush or roller, always starting in a dry area and painting toward a wet one.

The same general technique can be used if adjacent walls are to be of different colors, it being understood that the paint on one wall must be thoroughly dry before starting the next.

Incidentally, we know of one case where a home handyman, instead of using a metal shield, used pieces of the cardboard which laundries put in men's shirts.

The difference is that the cardboard can't be wiped off as easily as the metal and therefore must be discarded each time paint gets on it.

Cab Worker Kills Self With Police Pistol At Newark

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—A rookie Newark patrolman removed some bullets from his gun and handed the weapon to a cab company dispatcher. The dispatcher put it to his head and pulled the trigger, inflicting a fatal wound, police reported.

The dispatcher, Alfred Courson, 23, died Sunday in Newark Hospital.

Patrolman Richard Antritt, 22, off-duty at the time, said he thought his gun was empty before he handed it to Courson in the office of the Grey Top Cab Co. Saturday night.

Coroner Kenneth P. Scott did not rule immediately in the Newark man's death.

Police Chief L. L. Hall said he will recommend to Safety Director Frank Robison that Antritt be discharged. He joined the force Aug. 15. All rookie patrolmen are hired on probationary status for their first year.

Gunshot Claims Man Who Spurned Order

CLEVELAND (AP) — Verno Smith, ordered to get out of Cleveland for a year in 1960, might be alive today if he had obeyed the order. Smith, 32, was shot to death Sunday by a bartender in a dispute over serving a girl companion of Verno's brother, James Smith, 33, police reported.

Police were questioning Ira Bunch, the bartender, and his brother, Roy, who owns Ray's Tavern on West 25th Street.

Adequate Shutoff Valves Can Save Water Problem

CHICAGO — The importance of planning for an adequate number of shutoff valves in the plumbing system of a house when it is under construction is pointed out by the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

An expenditure of less than $10 when a house is being built can save the home owner many hours of irritation. Failure to include enough shutoff valves can result in having to go without water service all over the house just because repairs are being made at one fixture.

A minimum number of shutoff valves in the home would involve having one located by the water meter, one for the heating system, one for the water heater and one for each lawn faucet outside the house.

The minimum number of valves would result in an inadequately valved home because if it became necessary to shut off service to one bathroom faucet, or one kitchen sink faucet, it would be necessary to turn off the service to the entire house.

To avoid such inconvenience, the bureau suggests that a valve be installed on each line to each facility in the house. In most cases the best place to locate these valves would be in the basement as close as possible to the unit being supplied.

The bureau also points out that it is a good idea to tag every valve by indicating which facility it controls. A corresponding list should be kept in the basement. This makes it easy to turn off the water in emergencies.

'3-Dimensional' Walls Figure In Decorating

NEW YORK — Three-dimensional, rather than traditional, flat walls were one of the features of the recent Decorating & Design 1962 show in New York which was seen by thousands.

Many of the decorators who participated utilized paint in novel ways either on actual three-dimensional surfaces or to give the effect of depth.

A stately 19th-century dining room designed by Ellen Lehman McCluskey Associates had marbelized walls in various shades of blue from lapis lazuli to pale azure.

The effect of marble was achieved with paint applied in lines of varying widths imitating the veining of actual marble. At regular intervals the effect of panels was created by outlining areas in deep blue.

While not everyone has the patience or skill to simulate marble with paint, the panel effect can be easily achieved. The simplest way is to outline the molding with a light pencil and then attach masking tape to protect the adjacent area. With a narrow brush, apply the paint, taking care not to over-run the tape. When the paint is dry, remove the tape.

Another decorator used heavy bodied texture paint in an unusual way. Instead of creating a random pattern on the still-wet texture paint with a stippling roller, sponge, whisk broom or other device, this decorator drew stylized fish, birds and other animals on the impressionable surface.

The color best can be described as elephant gray and the lighting was dim, so for an extra touch, bits of glitter were placed at random over the surface while the paint was still wet. The glitter sparkled like a thousand stars of many colors.

This technique can be applied to the drawing of any design that strikes one's fancy. In a children's room, animals, clowns and toys can be outlined, for example. If desired, the outline of the animal can be filled in with a paint of another color after the texture paint has dried. Anatomical or other details can be painted with an artist's brush.

Still another example of a wall in depth was achieved by nailing three strips of one-half inch square wood to the wall so as to create a plaid-like pattern around its perimeter. The slats were painted with bright blue, red and yellow egg shell (low sheen) enamel.

In creating a living room with a country atmosphere, another designer violated the first principle of enamelling; she did not sand smooth the boards used to make a floor to ceiling book case wall. Instead, she applied gloss enamel to the rough utility grade boards, and the enamel dried to a textured film that clung to every imperfection in the surface. The effect was pleasing with the homespun fabrics used for draperies and the nubby upholstery and rustic furniture.

Death Takes Thomas, Canton Philanthropist

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Harold O. Thomas, 61, developer of the automobile front seat adjustor which was invented by his father, died at his home Sunday of a heart attack.

Thomas, his widow, Margaret, and mother-in-law, Mrs. Sara D. Kreig, had given Wittenberg University more than $3,100,000 since 1955. In 1950, when he suffered a heart attack, Thomas sold the Thomas Register and Manufacturing Co. here, of which he was president and treasurer.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Floor Sealer Will Serve As Final Finish

AP Newsfeatures

Question: We are getting ready to refinish a dining room floor on which we do not use any rugs or carpets.

A penetrating floor sealer has been recommended to us, but we know very little about it. Is this satisfactory as a final finish or must something else be applied over it?

Answer: A penetrating floor sealer is intended as the final finish, although a paste wax may be used over it if desired. This type of finish, as the name implies, penetrates into the wood and thus resists scratching or chipping.

One of its big advantages is that when a particular section of the floor begins to show wear it can be given a new coat of penetrating sealer. Unlike most other finishes, there will be no lap marks where the old and the new sealer come together.

It is important that the manufacturer's directions be followed closely on whether two coats are necessary and how much time should elapse between coats.

One thing must be remembered: a penetrating floor sealer must be applied only to bare wood or to wood which previously was finished with the same type of sealer.

Thus, if your present floor has a varnish, shellac or any other kind of finish, it must be thoroughly removed before applying the penetrating sealer.

Holdup Pair Held After Lancaster Man Foils Crime

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Two hold-up men found themselves in jail today five hours after their robbery of the Lancaster bus station was thwarted by a 68-year-old man's well-placed punch in the nose.

The would-be robbers, identified by Lancaster police as Raymond Lee Rollins, 25, and William Frederick Henrick, 21, both of Rt. 4, Logan, were captured at their homes early today by Hocking County sheriff's deputies. They were returned to Lancaster to await charges, police said.

According to officials, the two fled the Lake Shore System bus station here Sunday night after their robbery attempt failed.

Lancaster police gave this account of the incident:

While Henrick waited outside in a get-away car, Rollins went to the ticket office, showed a gun and demanded money from a woman clerk.

A Lancaster resident, Oather Sauerbrei, 68, came up, punched Rollins in the nose and grappled for the gun. During the scuffle, a shot was fired, but it went wild.

Rollins ran from the station, got into the get-away car and the two drove off.

They were arrested five hours later.

Sauerbrei suffered an injured right hand in punching the robber.

You Can Cut Fuel Bill By Weatherstripping

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Home Construction Expert

With the approach of winter weather, the seasoned home owner turns his attention to matters that save fuel or make for a more comfortable season.

Among the many small things that an amateur can do in this direction is to install weatherstripping around doors and windows

The best job of weatherstripping is done with metal double-lapping strip, but it requires an exceptionally good mechanic to install it because it calls for an accurate chisel and grooving - plane technique.

Wood weatherstrip with the rubber edge will produce practically the same results. It can be installed easily by an amateur and should last about 10 years.

The first step in weatherstripping a window is to measure the number of feet required and get the material in hand. The window is then closed and a length of strip cut which will accurately cover one side of the lower sash.

This is tacked with light brads to the inside of the window frame so that the rubber edge bears snugly against the lower sash frame. Both lower sides are fitted thus. The strips for the upper sash are nailed to the window frame on the outside.

Windows should be tested for easy operation as the work goes on. All strip should be painted to match the window, but the rubber edge should not be painted as it loses its flexibility when covered with dried paint.

If even less expensive weatherstripping is desired, the home owner can use felt strip. This comes in rolls about 25 feet long and is run around the windows in a few minutes and tacked in place with ordinary carpet tacks. It may be lifted off after the winter has passed.

How To Paint Walls Minus Ceiling Dabs

AP Newsfeatures

Question: My next home project is painting the walls in our living room.

The ceiling does not need a painting at this time. How can I do the walls without getting paint on the ceiling?

Answer: There are several ways in which this can be done, but the easiest and least expensive is with the use of a metal shield known as a painter's time-saver.

Place the shield against the ceiling with its edge flush against the wall. Brush on a two or three-inch strip of paint with a narrow brush. Any overlap will be deposited on the guard, not on the ceiling.

If you are using a water-thinned paint, popularly known as latex, which does not show lap marks, brush the strip around the entire perimeter of the room. Be sure to wipe the metal shield with a damp cloth each time you move it.

If you are using an alkyd paint, make your strip only as long as the distance you can comfortably reach while standing on the ladder.

Then fill in the area from the strip to the baseboard with brush or roller, always starting in a dry area and painting toward a wet one.

The same general technique can be used if adjacent walls are to be of different colors, it being understood that the paint on one wall must be thoroughly dry before starting the next.

Incidentally, we know of one case where a home handyman, instead of using a metal shield, used pieces of the cardboard which laundries put in men's shirts.

The difference is that the cardboard can't be wiped off as easily as the metal and therefore must be discarded each time paint gets on it.

Cab Worker Kills Self With Police Pistol At Newark

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—A rookie Newark patrolman removed some bullets from his gun and handed the weapon to a cab company dispatcher. The dispatcher put it to his head and pulled the trigger, inflicting a fatal wound, police reported.

The dispatcher, Alfred Courson, 23, died Sunday in Newark Hospital.

Patrolman Richard Antritt, 22, off-duty at the time, said he thought his gun was empty before he handed it to Courson in the office of the Grey Top Cab Co. Saturday night.

Coroner Kenneth P. Scott did not rule immediately in the Newark man's death.

Police Chief L. L. Hall said he will recommend to Safety Director Frank Robison that Antritt be discharged. He joined the force Aug. 15. All rookie patrolmen are hired on probationary status for their first year.

Gunshot Claims Man Who Spurned Order

CLEVELAND (AP) — Verno Smith, ordered to get out of Cleveland for a year in 1960, might be alive today if he had obeyed the order. Smith, 32, was shot to death Sunday by a bartender in a dispute over serving a girl companion of Verno's brother, James Smith, 33, police reported.

Police were questioning Ira Bunch, the bartender, and his brother, Roy, who owns Ray's Tavern on West 25th Street.

Adequate Shutoff Valves Can Save Water Problem

CHICAGO — The importance of planning for an adequate number of shutoff valves in the plumbing system of a house when it is under construction is pointed out by the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

An expenditure of less than $10 when a house is being built can save the home owner many hours of irritation. Failure to include enough shutoff valves can result in having to go without water service all over the house just because repairs are being made at one fixture.

A minimum number of shutoff valves in the home would involve having one located by the water meter, one for the heating system, one for the water heater and one for each lawn faucet outside the house.

The minimum number of valves would result in an inadequately valved home because if it became necessary to shut off service to one bathroom faucet, or one kitchen sink faucet, it would be necessary to turn off the service to the entire house.

To avoid such inconvenience, the bureau suggests that a valve be installed on each line to each facility in the house. In most cases the best place to locate these valves would be in the basement as close as possible to the unit being supplied.

The bureau also points out that it is a good idea to tag every valve by indicating which facility it controls. A corresponding list should be kept in the basement. This makes it easy to turn off the water in emergencies.

'3-Dimensional' Walls Figure In Decorating

NEW YORK — Three-dimensional, rather than traditional, flat walls were one of the features of the recent Decorating & Design 1962 show in New York which was seen by thousands.

Many of the decorators who participated utilized paint in novel ways either on actual three-dimensional surfaces or to give the effect of depth.

A stately 19th-century dining room designed by Ellen Lehman McCluskey Associates had marbelized walls in various shades of blue from lapis lazuli to pale azure.

The effect of marble was achieved with paint applied in lines of varying widths imitating the veining of actual marble. At regular intervals the effect of panels was created by outlining areas in deep blue.

While not everyone has the patience or skill to simulate marble with paint, the panel effect can be easily achieved. The simplest way is to outline the molding with a light pencil and then attach masking tape to protect the adjacent area. With a narrow brush, apply the paint, taking care not to over-run the tape. When the paint is dry, remove the tape.

Another decorator used heavy bodied texture paint in an unusual way. Instead of creating a random pattern on the still-wet texture paint with a stippling roller, sponge, whisk broom or other device, this decorator drew stylized fish, birds and other animals on the impressionable surface.

The color best can be described as elephant gray and the lighting was dim, so for an extra touch, bits of glitter were placed at random over the surface while the paint was still wet. The glitter sparkled like a thousand stars of many colors.

This technique can be applied to the drawing of any design that strikes one's fancy. In a children's room, animals, clowns and toys can be outlined, for example. If desired, the outline of the animal can be filled in with a paint of another color after the texture paint has dried. Anatomical or other details can be painted with an artist's brush.

Still another example of a wall in depth was achieved by nailing three strips of one-half inch square wood to the wall so as to create a plaid-like pattern around its perimeter. The slats were painted with bright blue, red and yellow egg shell (low sheen) enamel.

In creating a living room with a country atmosphere, another designer violated the first principle of enamelling; she did not sand smooth the boards used to make a floor to ceiling book case wall. Instead, she applied gloss enamel to the rough utility grade boards, and the enamel dried to a textured film that clung to every imperfection in the surface. The effect was pleasing with the homespun fabrics used for draperies and the nubby upholstery and rustic furniture.

Death Takes Thomas, Canton Philanthropist

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Harold O. Thomas, 61, developer of the automobile front seat adjustor which was invented by his father, died at his home Sunday of a heart attack.

Thomas, his widow, Margaret, and mother-in-law, Mrs. Sara D. Kreig, had given Wittenberg University more than $3,100,000 since 1955. In 1950, when he suffered a heart attack, Thomas sold the Thomas Register and Manufacturing Co. here, of which he was president and treasurer.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Floor Sealer Will Serve As Final Finish

AP Newsfeatures

Question: We are getting ready to refinish a dining room floor on which we do not use any rugs or carpets.

A penetrating floor sealer has been recommended to us, but we know very little about it. Is this satisfactory as a final finish or must something else be applied over it?

Answer: A penetrating floor sealer is intended as the final finish, although a paste wax may be used over it if desired. This type of finish, as the name implies, penetrates into the wood and thus resists scratching or chipping.

One of its big advantages is that when a particular section of the floor begins to show wear it can be given a new coat of penetrating sealer. Unlike most other finishes, there will be no lap marks where the old and the new sealer come together.

The Salem area mishap Sunday at 9:50 a. m. involved a truck operated by Charles E. Eichler, 46, of Salem and a station wagon driven by Robert L. Potter, 19, of Canton.

Eichler was attempting a right turn when Potter attempted to pass, the patrol said. There was minor damage.

Eichler was cited on a charge of making an improper turn and Potter was cited on a charge of improper passing.

There was moderate damage to a trailer that overturned on its side while the driver was backing the tractor east off of Route 30 near Lisbon Sunday.

The rig was operated by Jack B. Riddle 27, of Lisbon R. D. 5. The mishap occurred at 7:10 p. m., a tenth of a mile west of Lisbon.

French Deny Egyptian Spy Charges In Cairo

PARIS (AP)— French officials today denied as absurd and grotesque spy charges made in Cairo against a French commercial and cultural mission.

Other sources suggested that President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt is evidently setting the stage for spectacular propaganda trial in the hope of making his people forget the setback to his prestige in Syria.

Four members of the French mission and a woman secretary were arrested in Cairo along with four others and charged with espionage and subversion.

Union Urges Job Equality

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United Steelworkers of America announced today it is asking some 2,900 companies to join in an all-out effort to "stamp out the evils of discrimination in employment wherever it may exist."

A letter signed by union president David J. McDonald already has been sent to the 11 basic steel firms which comprise the steel industry coordinating committee and to the larger aluminum and can manufacturing companies under contract with the union.

McDonald said the proposal for joint action was made because the union feels further steps should be taken to implement President Kennedy's executive order establishing the Committee on Equal Opportunity. This committee is charged with ending discriminatory employment practices against minority groups.

Letters went out over the weekend to the following firms:

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Jones & Laughlin Steel, Inland Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Pittsburgh Steel, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Armco Steel, National Steel, Wheeling Steel, Kaiser Steel, Aluminum Co. of America, Reynolds Metals Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical, Continenjal Can and American Can.

Lisbon Court Begins Trial Of Title Cases

LISBON — Testimony started this morning in Common Pleas Court in the trial of James T. Johnson of East Palestine, indicted by the September Grand Jury on four counts of making false affidavits in securing titles for autos.

The state is expected to call five witnesses. The trial is not expected to be finished before Wednesday.

The jury seated late this morning by Judge Joel H. Sharp includes:

Sherman Rohr, Lula Durbin, Harriett Entriken and Geraldine Myler of East Liverpool; Joan Kornbau and Betty McCreedy of Wellsville; Clara Wheeler of Salem; Mabel Crook and Jayne Calhoun of Lisbon; Helen Lumley and Minnie Mohr of East Palestine and Rowland Smith of Rogers. Joseph Chestnut of Lisbon is alternate.

Ohio Firm Sets Move To Kankakee, Illinois

BRYAN, Ohio (AP)—The Swanson Manufacturing Co. will move to Kankakee, Ill. Dec. 16, after only 17 months of business here.

The firm, with 50 employes, manufactures metal fabricated reinforcing for use in concrete paving, including airport runways. The move will bring the firm closer to its supplier of steel and to its principal markets, according to John Swanson, operator of the company.

Tittle Maintains Hot Hand In Giants' Romp Over Browns

Eagles Win But Remain 1 Game Out

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yelverton Abraham Tittle, like the fabled Rumpelstilskin, has a name that's virtually impossible to remember. But his exploits are hard to forget.

Acquired in an Aug. 15 trade that caused little stir, Tittle has been the No. 1 offensive weapon for the New York Giants in a series of stunning triumphs, the latest a 37-21 walloping of the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

Tittle, 34 with 12 years experience in the National Football League, completed 18 of 27 passes for 253 yards against the Browns and kept the Giants rolling toward the Eastern Conference title with their fourth consecutive romp and ninth victory in their last 10 games.

Under the Bald Eagle's guidance, the revitalized New York offense has accounted for an amazing 170 points in the last four games as the Giants built and maintained a one-game lead over the defending league champion Philadelphia Eagles.

The Eagles (8-3) kept pace Sunday, whipping the Dallas Cowboys 35-13 behind Sonny Jurgensen's five touchdown passes. They still have three games left, including a Dec. 10th meeting with the Giants at Philadelphia.

In the Western Conference, Green Bay, 17-9 winner over Detroit Thursday, holds a commanding lead over the Lions and San Francisco 49ers, tied for the runner-up spot at 6-4-1. The Packers, at 9-2, can wrap it up with one more victory. They meet the Giants at Milwaukee next.

The 49ers remained in contention by beating Minnesota 38-28. In other games, Chicago edged Los Angeles 28-24. Baltimore thumped Washington 27-6 and Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 30-27.

Despite Tittle's prolific passing, the Giants scored all their touchdowns on the ground with Y. A. rambling five yards for one in the key clash that has just about eliminated the Browns (7-4) from title contention. Bobby Gaiters scored twice, on runs of 1 and 11 yards, Erich Barnes got the other on a 35-yard jaunt with an interception and Pat Summerall contributed three field goals.

Milt Plum got two scores for Cleveland with 43 and 15-yard tosses to Ray Renfro.

Jurgensen hit Ted Dean for a 60-yard scoring play to overcome a 3-0 Dallas lead, then connected with Pete Retzlaff on a 40-yard payoff pitch and wound up with TD strikes to Tommy McDonald on plays covering 46, 40 and 27 yards. The lone Cowboy (4-6-1) touchdown came on a 21-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron to Amos Marsh.

The 49ers abandoned the shotgun completely for the T formation and beat the Vikings (2-9) on the running of J. D. Smith and John Brodie's passing. Smith scored a pair on 6 and 15-yard runs while Brodie pitched a 40-yard TD toss to R. C. Owens and scored on a 16-yard dash.

The Bears (6-5), with fullback Rick Casares scoring three times, needed a 55-yard touchdown pass from Billy Wade to Willie Galimore with two minutes left to win it. Zeke Bratkowski passed for three Rams (3-8) scores, including an 84-yarder to Ollie Matson.

Johnny Unitas connected with Jim Mutscheller for a 10-yard touchdown flip in the first period and when Steve Mhyra added the conversion the Colts (6-5) had all they needed to extend the inept Redskins (0-10-1) winless streak to 21 games.

Sub quarterback Rudy Bukich took over for Bobby Layne, engineered a 44-yard drive that spelled success for the Steelers (5-6) when Lou Michaels kicked an 18-year field goal with 17 seconds left to beat the Cards (4-7). It was Michaels' third of the day.

3 Bouts Set Tuesday At Beaver Local

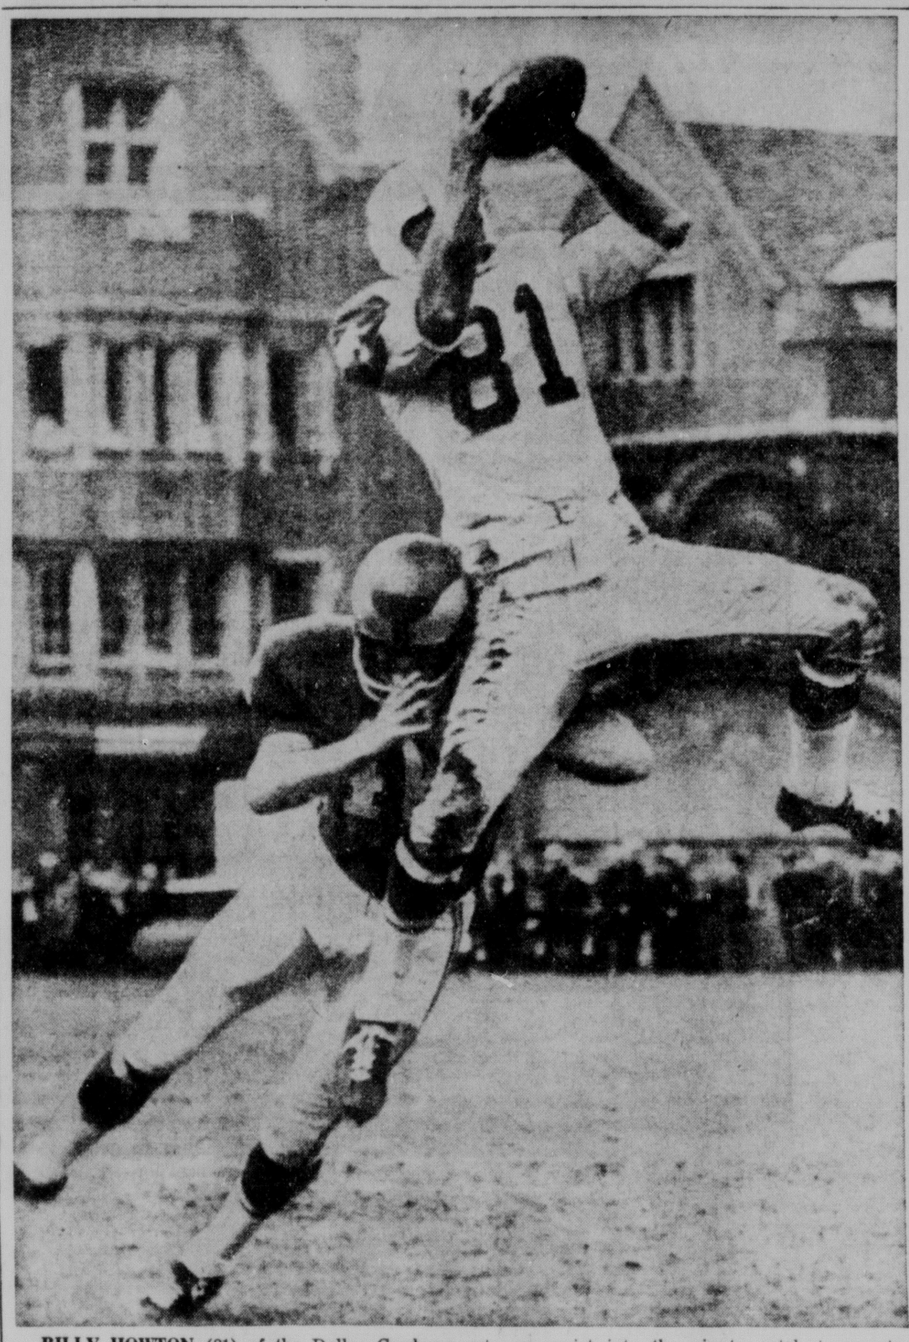

Three bouts of professional wrestling are on tap Tuesday night at the Beaver Local High School gymnasium.

The show is a project of the Boosters Club, which will use proceeds for a number of projects to benefit the school's athletic program.

The main bout pits Mickey Sharp against Zivko Kovicic.

Billy Fox and Ace Freeman will meet the "Sicilians" in a tag-team match.

Competing in a ladies match will be Barbara Calender and Karen Kellogg.

BILLY HOWTON (81) of the Dallas Cowboys gets an assist into the air to catch teammate Eddie Lebaron's pass in the fourth quarter Sunday at Philadelphia. Giving the assist is Eagle Glen Amerson who didn't intend to help and proved it by dropping Howton on the spot. (UPI Telephoto)

Oilers Can Sew Up Division

Houston, San Diego Meet Sunday In Big AFL Clash

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Houston's point-made Oilers get the San Diego Chargers on the home lot this week and it's the big game in more ways than one for Wally Lemm's hard-bitten crew.

Houston can kill two birds with one George Blanda — just about sew up the Eastern Division championship of the American Football League and show that San Diego is human after all. By so doing the Oilers could become favorites to repeat as champion, too.

San Diego hasn't yet lost a game and already is Western Division king. Things have come pretty easy for the Chargers. Houston, on the other hand, had to dig out of a terrifying early season slump. If a team profits more from mistakes, the Oilers ought to be just about perfect.

They have won six games in a row and averaged 40 points per contest. They beat New York 49-13, which is a point better than San Diego could do.

Houston has only three games to go and the first is San Diego. If it wins this one it can expect to cop the Eastern Division title and clash with San Diego in the league playoff. Only New York and Oakland remain and Houston should have no worries about those outfits.

Houston walloped Denver 45-14 Sunday and showed San Diego that, while it holds the AFL record for pass-interceptions with 43, it has no corner on this statistic. Houston gobbled up six Denver passes Sunday and, like San Diego does, turned some of them into scores.

Blanda was in his usual fine fettle, passing for a touchdown, kicking a field goal and booting six extra points. He also engineered long drives for touchdowns.

Dallas and Oakland played a meaningless game Sunday but it was the occasion for Abner Haynes, the versatile Dallas halfback, to put on his biggest show.

Li'l Abner scored five touchdowns and rushed for 158 yards as Dallas beat Oakland 43-11. He set one-game league records for touchdowns, points, rushing and making the most touchdowns by rushing, four. Haynes bettered the 26-point day Blanda had last year.

Carl Hamill Is Named To W. Va. Hall Of Fame

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Carl Hamill, who guided Weirton High School's football team to two state championships and through six unbeaten seasons, was named today to the West Virginia Sports Hall of Fame.

The one-time fiery coach, who has mellowed through the years, was named on 33 of 50 ballots cast by members of the West Virginia Sports Writers Association. He edged out Nate Rohrbough, famed basketball mentor at Glenville State, for the honor of becoming the 19th member of the Hall of Fame.

Rohrbough received 30 votes. Others mentioned in the final balloting were the late Bill Fugitt of Beckley, first executive secretary of the State Secondary School Activities Commission, 11 votes; former Long Island U. basketball coach Clair Bee, a native of Grafton, 10; former West Virginia U. Basketball coach Dyke Raese, eight, and Marshall Biggie Goldberg Elkins native who went on to win football All-America honors at Pitt, seven.

Hamill, 58, coached 22 years at Weirton before retiring in 1951. He still helps Weirton Coach Jim Carey with plotting defensive alignments and is credtied by Carey with a big assist for the Red Riders' back-to-back state gridiron titles this year and last. Hamill's teams won championships in 1942 and 1949.

Hamill compiled a 22-year football record of 169 victories, 34 losses and 13 ties for a 812 winning percentage. He also coached baseball and basketball at Weirton and compiled almost as impressive records in those two sports.

Hamill, now dean of boys at Weirton, will be honored at the annual Victory Awards Dinner in Wheeling Dec. 4. Hamill's onetime great rival, former Wheeling Coach Everett Brinkman, will present the Hall of Fame plaque to him.

This is the 13th National Football League campaign for Chuck Bednarik, center and linebacker with the Philadelphia Eagles. He's a former Penn All-America.

Pipers Deal Pittsburgh 137-94 Loss

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Pipers who seem to run hot and cold, were definitely hot Sunday night and piled up a whopping 137-94 victory over Pittsburgh, one of the biggest scores so far in the freshman American Basketball League.

The victory, a complete reversal of form from Saturday's 97-91 loss to the same team, pulled the Pipers to within a half game of leading Pittsburgh.

In the other games, player-coach Bill Sharman came off the bench and sparked Los Angeles to a 91-72 verdict over western division leader Kansas City and Hawaii beat Chicago, 99-90.

Lanky Jack Adams and John Barnhill led the Cleveland fast break that rolled up a 30-2; first quarter advantage and took it from there. Adams threw in 34 points and Barnhill contributed 30.

Hal Lear scored 20 points, but it was Sharman who directed floor play and tossed in 10 points during the last half as the Jets overcame a 44-33 Kansas City lead at halftime.

Frank Burgess and Dave Mills, both with 23 points, paced Hawaii's victory, though Jackie Fitzpatrick scored 24 to lead the Majors.

Banquet Set For Dec. 12

Youngstown's Dike Beede To Speak At EL Grid Fete

Dwight V. (Dike) Beede, a prominent figure in small college football for more than a quarter century, will be the principal speaker for East Liverpool High School's grid banquet Dec. 12.

An address by the popular Youngstown University football coach will co-feature the program during the event at 6:30 p. m. in the auditorium of St. Aloysius School

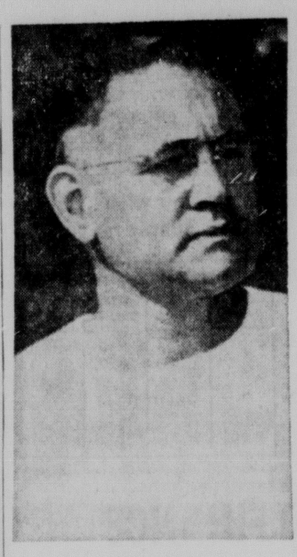

The Bill Booth Memorial Award will be presented for the 24th year to a Potter senior.

The award was established in 1937 in memory of the Potter immortal, rated by collegiate mentors as the greatest freshman prospect since "Red" Grange.

Other awards will be presented at the event, sponsored by the Blue and White Nonpareil Club. Frank C. Dawson, chairman, has promised a "few surprises" for the program.

Beede was honored in 1957 when he was chosen by the Football Writers of America as "Small College Coach of the Year."

The honor was bestowed for his contributions to football, a sport in which he has found much success in a career that began at Carnegie Tech in the 1920's.

DIKE BEEDE
To Appear At EL Banquet.

"Dike" starred at fullback for Judge Wally Steffan's Tech teams and is credited with introducing the famous "spinner" play into the game.

The play is still used by Beede in his deceptive single-wing offensive formation at Youngstown University.

Beede also introduced the now customary practice of officials for using red flags rather than horns to denote fouls during game proceedings.

The flags were made by his wife and were first used in 1941 in a game between Youngstown and Oklahoma City. The flags were an immediate success and are now standard equipment of grid officials.

Beede has a lifetime coaching mark of 132 victories, 97 defeats and 15 ties.

His Westminster College teams from 1926 to 1930 won 14, lost 21 and tied three. Beede - coached Geneva College teams won 14, lost 7 and tied three between 1934 and 1936.

Beede has compiled a record of 104-69-9 in 23 years at Youngstown University. The Penguins were 4-4-1 the past season.

The speaker resides on a 120-acre tree farm near Elkton.

Tickets for the banquet are now on sale at Burbick's Hardware and sports shop and from any Nonpareil officer. They are $2.50 each.

Weirton Puts 2 Gridders On All-State

CHARLESTON (AP) — State champion Weirton and Huntington each placed two players on the 1961 All-West Virginia Class AAA high school football team.

Halfback Bill Tucker and end Tony Jeter were the Red Riders honored on the team announced by Dick Hudson of the Charleston Daily Mail, chairman of the All-State selection board.

Halfback Paul Allen, the state's leading scholastic scorer, and center Bob Dennison were Huntington's representatives.

In the backfield with Tucker and Allen are John Gilmore of Logan and Bill Karbonit of Beckley. Karbonit was the only junior selected.

The line, which averages 198 pounds, is made up of Jeter and Bluefield's John Brooks at the ends, John McNabb of Charleston and Tom Tucker of East Bank at the tackles, Jerry Johnson of Morgantown and Hoye Muncy of Big Creek at the guards, and Dennison at center.

Orange Bowl Set, Other New Year Classics Pending

Ohio State Waits Word From Rose Bowl Group

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The battle for the postseason bowl spots comes off the gridiron and into eight committee conference rooms at as many sites today, with Alabama's final bid for a flock of honors and the annual war between Army and Navy this weekend temporarily sidetracked.

Only the Orange Bowl committee has finished its work, having Colorado and Louisiana State set for its Jan. 1, 1962 extravaganza.

Now it remains for the Rose Bowl committee to tap Ohio State as an opponent for UCLA n the Rose Bowl; for the Cotton Bowl committee to select Mississippi to face Texas, and for the Sugar Bowl committee to sweat out 'Bama's game against Auburn before inviting it to play Southwest Conference co-champ Arkansas in New Orleans.

Georgia Tech is already in the Gator Bowl, but that committee must pick between Miami (Fla), a Friday night winner over Northwestern, and Penn State, which beat Pitt 47-26. The Hurricanes wind up against Florida this week and may get the nod, having beaten Penn State 25-8 earlier in the season.

With Missouri having eliminated itself from any bowl consideration after a 10-7 loss to Kansas' Jayhawks and with Syracuse already in the Liberty Bowl, there remains a pool of bowl eligibles that must fill both spots in the Bluebonnet, Gotham and National Trophy bowls, and the other spot in Philadelphia's Dec. 16 Liberty affair.

These include: Auburn, Kansas, Utah State, Wyoming, Rice, Duke and Maryland, in addition to Penn State and Miami.

Kansas has a blanket invitation to the Gotham, Dec. 9 in New York, and is also a Liberty favorite, along with Duke. Auburn has been given the nod by Washington's Dec. 30 National Trophy affair. Neither has accepted.

Ohio State jumped to the head of the Rose Bowl line with a crashing 50-20 victory over Michigan which wrapped up the Big Ten title as Minnesota lost to Wisconsin 23-21. UCLA won the Big Five title and the host spot with a 10-7 victory over Southern California.

Arkansas' 28-0 victory over Texas Tech tied it with Texas for the SWC crown and sent the Razorbacks into the Sugar Bowl. 'Bama was idle while Auburn beat Florida 32-15.

Texas nailed down the Cotton Bowl and co-SWC title on Thanksgiving Day. Ole Miss will probably give its answer to a bid after its game this week against Mississippi State. The Rebels also had last weekend off.

Colorado nailed down the Big Eight title with a 35-0 victory over Iowa State, in addition to its Orange Bowl trip. Virginia's 28-16 upset of Maryland killed the Terps' chances for the Gator Bowl.

Wagman Waits Trial In Basketball Scandal

NEW YORK (AP) — Trial of Aaron Wagman, 29-year-old convicted football fixer accused of bribery and attempted bribery in the college basketball scandal, is scheduled to begin in General Sessions Court today.

The grand jury investigating the basketball scandal, that numbers 37 players from 22 colleges, returned an indictment April 27 naming Wagman on 37 counts of conspiracy, bribery and attempted bribery.

If convicted, Wagman could receive a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison or be fined $10,000 on each count. He is accused of paying bribes totaling $14,250 to various college players in an attempt to fix basketball games.

One Trade Kicks Off Major League Baseball Meetings Today In Tampa

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An exchange of shortstops between Boston and the new Houston club, sending Don Buddin to the Colts and Eddie Bressoud to the Red Sox, marked the first player trade of the baseball convention which gets under way officially today.

The deal, although not of great magnitude, and the rejection of the spitball stole the advance spotlight from the major league draft starting at 11 a.m. (EST). Washington, which finished in a ninth-place tie with Kansas City in the expanded American League last season, was expected to take shortstop Ken Hamlin from Toronto as its first pick. The standard draft price is $25,000.

The Red Sox-Colts swap was expected to spur further trades brewing since hte three-week inter-league trading period began Nov. 21. The only other inter-league deal made so far was Washington's sale of shortstop Coot Veal to Pittsburgh last Tuesday.

A transaction which may be consummated before the major league moguls leave for Miami Thursday to hold their own conclave involves Milwaukee and the Chicago Cubs. The trade would send Bob Buhl, 33-year-old Braves right-hander, to the Cubs for relief pitcher Don Eiston and infielder Jerry Kindall.

Based on their records, there isn't much to choose between Buddin and Bressoud. Both came up to the majors in 1956 and both have a lifetime batting average of under .250. Buddin has spent all his time in the big leagues with the Red Sox. Bressoud put in his six years with the New York and San Francisco Giants.

Sunday's legislative spotlight was centered on the rules committee which rejected a proposal to legalize the spitball. The vote of the nine-man committee was eight against the spitter's return and one for it. The lone favorable vote was cast by Cal Hubbard, supervisor of the American League umpires. Hubbard was acting on behalf of league President Joe Cronin, who sponsored the proposal. Cronin was supported by Commissioner Ford Frick.

ROOKIE BOB GAITERS gets the game football from the Giants for his part in New York's 37-21 victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday at Cleveland. Making the presentation is Y. A. Tittle, Giants quarterback (right). Gaiters scored twice as the Giants increased their lead in the Eastern Division over the Browns. (UPI Telephoto)

Ex-Nazi's Trial Due To Resume In Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — The trial of Adolf Eichmann will resume Dec. 11, the Israeli government announced today.

The former Nazi official is accused of major responsibility in the death of millions of Jews in Hitler's extermination camps.

The final phase in the lengthy trial will include the reading of the 300-page judgment which the three judges have drawn up, pleas by Israeli Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner and German defense counsel Robert Servatius, Eichmann's final statement and the pronouncement of sentence. This is expected to take about 10 days.

Carter Wins Bowling Title Aided By Movies

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Carter isn't a movie star, he's a bowler, but movies helped him win his fourth World's Invitational bowling title in five years Sunday.

"I'd been having quite a bit of trouble in the qualifying rounds," Carter said, "and I was throwing several bad balls each game although I couldn't figure out why."

"However, on the morning of the semi-finals," he continued, "my wife, Laverne, had some movies developed and I could see that I wasn't bending my left knee enough and consequently was throwing the ball from too high a position. I corrected this in the semi-finals and finals and you know the rest."

The women's division was won by Marge Merrick of Columbus, Ohio, who won two out of three games from Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., the defending champion, in the final position round. First place was worth $4,000.

Syracuse and Penn State played 15 football games before the Lions were able to hit double-figures in the scoring columns against the Orangemen.

Orange Bowl Set, Other New Year Classics Pending

Ohio State Waits Word From Rose Bowl Group

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The battle for the postseason bowl spots comes off the gridiron and into eight committee conference rooms at as many sites today, with Alabama's final bid for a flock of honors and the annual war between Army and Navy this weekend temporarily sidetracked.

Only the Orange Bowl committee has finished its work, having Colorado and Louisiana State set for its Jan. 1, 1962 extravaganza.

Now it remains for the Rose Bowl committee to tap Ohio State as an opponent for UCLA n the Rose Bowl; for the Cotton Bowl committee to select Mississippi to face Texas, and for the Sugar Bowl committee to sweat out 'Bama's game against Auburn before inviting it to play Southwest Conference co-champ Arkansas in New Orleans.

Georgia Tech is already in the Gator Bowl, but that committee must pick between Miami (Fla), a Friday night winner over Northwestern, and Penn State, which beat Pitt 47-26. The Hurricanes wind up against Florida this week and may get the nod, having beaten Penn State 25-8 earlier in the season.

With Missouri having eliminated itself from any bowl consideration after a 10-7 loss to Kansas' Jayhawks and with Syracuse already in the Liberty Bowl, there remains a pool of bowl eligibles that must fill both spots in the Bluebonnet, Gotham and National Trophy bowls, and the other spot in Philadelphia's Dec. 16 Liberty affair.

These include: Auburn, Kansas, Utah State, Wyoming, Rice, Duke and Maryland, in addition to Penn State and Miami.

Kansas has a blanket invitation to the Gotham, Dec. 9 in New York, and is also a Liberty favorite, along with Duke. Auburn has been given the nod by Washington's Dec. 30 National Trophy affair. Neither has accepted.

Ohio State jumped to the head of the Rose Bowl line with a crashing 50-20 victory over Michigan which wrapped up the Big Ten title as Minnesota lost to Wisconsin 23-21. UCLA won the Big Five title and the host spot with a 10-7 victory over Southern California.

Arkansas' 28-0 victory over Texas Tech tied it with Texas for the SWC crown and sent the Razorbacks into the Sugar Bowl. 'Bama was idle while Auburn beat Florida 32-15.

Texas nailed down the Cotton Bowl and co-SWC title on Thanksgiving Day. Ole Miss will probably give its answer to a bid after its game this week against Mississippi State. The Rebels also had last weekend off.

Colorado nailed down the Big Eight title with a 35-0 victory over Iowa State, in addition to its Orange Bowl trip. Virginia's 28-16 upset of Maryland killed the Terps' chances for the Gator Bowl.

One Trade Kicks Off Major League Baseball Meetings Today In Tampa

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An exchange of shortstops between Boston and the new Houston club, sending Don Buddin to the Colts and Eddie Bressoud to the Red Sox, marked the first player trade of the baseball convention which gets under way officially today.

The deal, although not of great magnitude, and the rejection of the spitball stole the advance spotlight from the major league draft starting at 11 a.m. (EST). Washington, which finished in a ninth-place tie with Kansas City in the expanded American League last season, was expected to take shortstop Ken Hamlin from Toronto as its first pick. The standard draft price is $25,000.

The Red Sox-Colts swap was expected to spur further trades brewing since hte three-week inter-league trading period began Nov. 21. The only other inter-league deal made so far was Washington's sale of shortstop Coot Veal to Pittsburgh last Tuesday.

A transaction which may be consummated before the major league moguls leave for Miami Thursday to hold their own conclave involves Milwaukee and the Chicago Cubs. The trade would send Bob Buhl, 33-year-old Braves right-hander, to the Cubs for relief pitcher Don Eiston and infielder Jerry Kindall.

Based on their records, there isn't much to choose between Buddin and Bressoud. Both came up to the majors in 1956 and both have a lifetime batting average of under .250. Buddin has spent all his time in the big leagues with the Red Sox. Bressoud put in his six years with the New York and San Francisco Giants.

Sunday's legislative spotlight was centered on the rules committee which rejected a proposal to legalize the spitball. The vote of the nine-man committee was eight against the spitter's return and one for it. The lone favorable vote was cast by Cal Hubbard, supervisor of the American League umpires. Hubbard was acting on behalf of league President Joe Cronin, who sponsored the proposal. Cronin was supported by Commissioner Ford Frick.

Wagman Waits Trial In Basketball Scandal

NEW YORK (AP) — Trial of Aaron Wagman, 29-year-old convicted football fixer accused of bribery and attempted bribery in the college basketball scandal, is scheduled to begin in General Sessions Court today.

The grand jury investigating the basketball scandal, that numbers 37 players from 22 colleges, returned an indictment April 27 naming Wagman on 37 counts of conspiracy, bribery and attempted bribery.

If convicted, Wagman could receive a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison or be fined $10,000 on each count. He is accused of paying bribes totaling $14,250 to various college players in an attempt to fix basketball games.

Ex-Nazi's Trial Due To Resume In Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — The trial of Adolf Eichmann will resume Dec. 11, the Israeli government announced today.

The former Nazi official is accused of major responsibility in the death of millions of Jews in Hitler's extermination camps.

The final phase in the lengthy trial will include the reading of the 300-page judgment which the three judges have drawn up, pleas by Israeli Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner and German defense counsel Robert Servatius, Eichmann's final statement and the pronouncement of sentence. This is expected to take about 10 days.

Carter Wins Bowling Title Aided By Movies

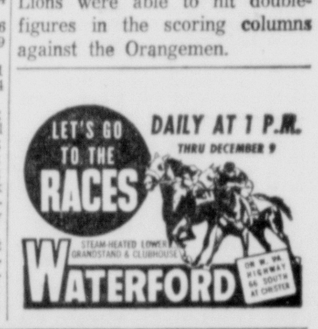

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Carter isn't a movie star, he's a bowler, but movies helped him win his fourth World's Invitational bowling title in five years Sunday.

"I'd been having quite a bit of trouble in the qualifying rounds," Carter said, "and I was throwing several bad balls each game although I couldn't figure out why."

"However, on the morning of the semi-finals," he continued, "my wife, Laverne, had some movies developed and I could see that I wasn't bending my left knee enough and consequently was throwing the ball from too high a position. I corrected this in the semi-finals and finals and you know the rest."

The women's division was won by Marge Merrick of Columbus, Ohio, who won two out of three games from Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., the defending champion, in the final position round. First place was worth $4,000.

Syracuse and Penn State played 15 football games before the Lions were able to hit double-figures in the scoring columns against the Orangemen.

Doctor Files Fee Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A former Marion radiologist charges in a suit filed here that partners in the Frederick C. Smith Clinic in Marion are violating an Ohio law against fee-splitting among doctors.

The plaintiff, Dr. Henry C. Bount Jr., formerly was a partner in the clinic. He asked Franklin County Common Pleas Court for a declaratory judgment on the rights of the clinic partners. He named 11 partners as co-defendants.

James P. Jones of Columbus, Blount's attorney, said the declaratory judgment would help the doctor recover a substantial sum from the clinic.

In papers filed with the court, Dr. Blount said the clinic partnership agreement under which he worked provides that partners who leave must also leave behind their accounts receivable. He contended this means that his former partners will get part of his fees.

E. L. (Ted) Mitchell of Marion, attorney for the clinic, said his clients "deny emphatically" the claims of Dr. Blount.

"We do not think the (fee-splitting) statute has any application to a partnership agreement," Mitchell said.

Attorney Jones said the action was filed here because the legal climate is "more likely to be neutral." He said it was permissible to file it here because one of the defendants was in Columbus at the time.

Dr. Blount, who withdrew from the clinic partnership this month, now has a position at a Des Moines, Iowa, hospital.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Pre-Schooler Can Learn To Read

Your child only two, three or four is interested in the sounds of words. For "dog", he may say "bow wow"; for "clock", "tick tock"; for "cow", "moo moo", and so on. As you read nursery rhymes to him, he likes the sounds and may, if you pause after saying a rhyme several times, supply the rhyming word. Long before he enters school, his familiarity with many basic sounds may enable him to recognize a few words at sight. Capitalize on this early interest and experience by calling to his attention the initial letters and sounds of some of these words as he looks carefully at each one. Draw or cut out from old magazines or newspapers some pictures of familiar things that begin with the same sound. Under each picture, print clearly or type the name of the thing pictured, for example, bird, book or box. Have him look carefully at each word connected with the picture.

HELP HIM PASTE a number of such pictures and their naming words together on a sheet of strong paper, cardboard or on a page of a scrapbook. As he looks at this group of pictures, have him say the word which names each picture and listen for its beginning sound.

After his practice with pictured words beginning with the sound of "b", for example, have him do the same thing with a group of pictured words beginning with another letter. He can spend profitable hours, practicing on initial sounds made by various single letters, especially consonants.

Later, introduce him to initial sounds of words made by two letters, like "ch", as in chain, chair and child; "sh", as in shoe, ship, sheep; "pl", as in plane and plow, plum; "cl", as in clown, clip and clash.

Then you might interest him in the sounds made by two letters at the end of a word, as "ck", in the words clock, lock and rock. You might say a number of such rhymed words ending with the same sound in a group.

AS YOU NAME one word — go, for example — have him say as many words as he can that rhyme with it. Later, you could have him see pictured words that rhyme, such as box, fox, ox; hat, rat, cat; man, pan, can.

In the early stages of his learning to get sounds of letters or groups of letters, it is wise to dwell only on consonants. Most consonants have only one sound, whereas each vowel has two or more different sounds.

One of the children's magazines regularly runs a page on "Fun with Phonics," in which pictured words are used to help the child learn the basic sounds in familiar words. Also, some paper-back booklets with similar exercises may be found at newsstands or bookstores.

My bulletins, "Home Fun with Phonics" and "Helping Child at Home in Early Steps of Reading," may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Burglars Fail In Attempt On Store's Safe

Amateurish burglars failed in an attempt to open a safe in a W. 6th St. grocery Saturday night or early Sunday, but escaped with about $15 in change, 10 to 15 cartons of cigarettes and a quantity of soda pop, police reported.

The entry occurred at the Gerace Market, 221 W. 6th St., operated by James G. Gerace, 2811 St. Clair Ave. It was timed between 5:30 p. m. Saturday and 10:54 a. m. Sunday.

Entry was gained by breaking a 28-x-36-inch transom over a rear door, police said. The intruders ransacked a desk in the rear of the store, then used a screwdriver to pry open a cash register and remove the change.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to open a safe by battering at the hinges, officers said.

The intruders also took the contents of a Salvation Army "Christmas kettle," a coin container on the counter near the register. The basement was entered by breaking the padlock on an outside cellar door. The soft drinks were stolen from the cellar, police said.

Three cases of vandalism also were reported to police over the weekend.

A member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post on Minerva St. nabbed three boys Saturday night at 8:58 after a BB was fired through a "one - way" pane of glass in the front door of the post home. Two of the boys are 14 and the other is 13.

The post member turned over the three boys to police after the 24-x-36-inch pane of glass was broken.

Charles Hicks, 1091 Mapletree St., told police at 6:02 Saturday night a stone was thrown through a 28-x-12-inch window in the east side of his house.

James Cunningham, 945 Dresden Ave., reported at 3:20 p. m. Sunday that a 12-x-22-inch pane of glass in a storm door on the rear of his home was broken by a stone hurled by youngsters.

District Masons Pick New Heads

LISBON — Edgar Moser of Columbiana was named president and John Barber of Youngstown was elected vice president at a meeting of the Past Masters' Association of the 24th Masonic District here Saturday.

Other officers are Frank Feeley of Youngstown, secretary, and Charles Mangus of Salem, treasurer. The election highlighted the 26th annual dinner meeting of the association.

The group is made up of Masonic members who have served as masters of their respective symbolic lodges. The district includes Mahoning and Columbiana counties.

Probe Starts In Base Fire

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Investigation opens today into the cause of the second million-dollar fire at Wright - Patterson Air Force Base within a week.

A board of officers will try to determine what started Saturday's fire that leveled three buildings and damaged a fourth.

A base spokesman, estimating damage at upwards of $1 million, said officials are checking as a routine matter for arson or sabotage.

But he commented: "This would not be the sort of thing that a trained saboteur would go after."

Another spokesman, Maj. Ronald Greene, Wright-Patterson public information officer, said there are no indications of anything other than ordinary cause of either Saturday's fire or Wednesday's $2 million blaze that killed two firemen.

He said arson is not actively suspected but that it's always considered while probing a fire on a military establishment.

Burned to the ground in Saturday's conflagration were three buildings housing equipment of the orientation unit that makes and exhibits Air Force displays throughout the nation.

A fourth building, housing a bowling alley and personnel testing center, was damaged by smoke and water.

175 See Dance Show Of 'Buckskin' Group

An estimated 175 attended a dancing show presented by the "Buckskin Belles and Bows" of Lexington, Ky., Saturday night at Westgate Auditorium.

The appearance of the national folk dancing champions from Explorer Post 4 was sponsored by Columbiana Explorer Council.

The group of 50 boys and girls left Sunday at 4 a. m. for the return trip by bus and auto, according to Robert W. Gray, Cherokee District Boy Scout chairman.

Space Agency Seeks Engineers, Scientists

CINCINNATI (AP)—A National Aeronautics and Space Administration recruiting team was to begin interviews of scientists here today.

NASA is hoping to recruit 2,000 scientists and engineers for work on critical space projects. The team will move on to other eastern cities after finishing in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati Man Held For Shotgun Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held Frank Newsome Jr., 24, today for questioning about the fatal shooting of Fred Hubbard, 44.

Police said Hubbard got out of his car Sunday night with a butcher knife in his hand after Newsome teased him about his wife. Newsome ran to his home for a shotgun. Hubbard was found dead in the hall, shot in the stomach, police said.

The famed American merchant and financier, John Jacob Astor, spent his early years in hardship and privation. He first became successful as a fur dealer in 1786, later added pianos, becoming the first regular dealer in musical instruments in New York. The bulk of his great fortune, however, came from investments, chiefly real estate.

Coffin Scheduled For Transfer In Elyria Squabble

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Sally Ely, embroiled in a squabble over the coffin of her husband, Arthur, has had the coffin taken from Ridgelawn Mausoleum to a funeral home for possible removal to Cleveland.

Ely, who died in 1958, was the last of the family that founded the city of Elyria.

After a protest was raised concerning the coffin, Mrs. Ely said she would sell her home in the fashionable Washington area and move to Cleveland, taking the coffin with her.

The coffin had been on a pair of sawhorses in an anteroom at the muncipally-owned mausoleum. Mrs. Ely said she hasn't buried her husband because he wanted to be above ground. She said she hoped to build a $31,000 stone mausoleum, but her husband's estate is tied up in a trust.

A protest was raised by Gerald Martin, who contended it was illegal not to bury a body or seal it in a vault. Authorities had refused Martin permission to keep the coffin of his mother, who died 18 years ago, in his living room. Martin said he promised his mother he would not have her sealed up in a vault, and he has asked that the coffin be stored in space in the mausoleum.

Iowa is the leading popcorn-producing state in the U.S.

Ohio BUC Lists Claims Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Initial claims filed with the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation during October totaled 66,235, the BUC reported today. This was an increase of 19.5 per cent over the previous month but a decrease of 22.4 per cent from October 1960.

Continued claims during October totaled 345,282. This represented only a fractional decrease from September and a 28.9 per cent decrease from October 1960.

Under the federal temporary extended Unemployment Compensation Act, 14,387 initial and 135,184 continued claims were received last month. This was up 3.1 per cent and down 5.3 per cent, respectively, from September claims.

Bus And Auto Collide, 14 Hurt In Kentucky

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP) — At least 14 people were injured Sunday night when a southbound Greyhound bus collided with an automobile on Ky. 42 four miles south of Florence, police reported.

The bus left the road and went 100 feet down an embankment, but stayed on its wheels. Police said several soldiers were aboard.

Eight injured were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington. One was reported in critical condition; the others in serious condition.

Six others were taken to Booth Hospital, also in Covington.

Coffin Scheduled For Transfer In Elyria Squabble

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Sally Ely, embroiled in a squabble over the coffin of her husband, Arthur, has had the coffin taken from Ridgelawn Mausoleum to a funeral home for possible removal to Cleveland.

Ely, who died in 1958, was the last of the family that founded the city of Elyria.

After a protest was raised concerning the coffin, Mrs. Ely said she would sell her home in the fashionable Washington area and move to Cleveland, taking the coffin with her.

The coffin had been on a pair of sawhorses in an anteroom at the muncipally-owned mausoleum. Mrs. Ely said she hasn't buried her husband because he wanted to be above ground. She said she hoped to build a $31,000 stone mausoleum, but her husband's estate is tied up in a trust.

A protest was raised by Gerald Martin, who contended it was illegal not to bury a body or seal it in a vault. Authorities had refused Martin permission to keep the coffin of his mother, who died 18 years ago, in his living room. Martin said he promised his mother he would not have her sealed up in a vault, and he has asked that the coffin be stored in space in the mausoleum.

Ohio BUC Lists Claims Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Initial claims filed with the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation during October totaled 66,235, the BUC reported today. This was an increase of 19.5 per cent over the previous month but a decrease of 22.4 per cent from October 1960.

Continued claims during October totaled 345,282. This represented only a fractional decrease from September and a 28.9 per cent decrease from October 1960.

Under the federal temporary extended Unemployment Compensation Act, 14,387 initial and 135,184 continued claims were received last month. This was up 3.1 per cent and down 5.3 per cent, respectively, from September claims.

Bus And Auto Collide, 14 Hurt In Kentucky

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP) — At least 14 people were injured Sunday night when a southbound Greyhound bus collided with an automobile on Ky. 42 four miles south of Florence, police reported.

The bus left the road and went 100 feet down an embankment, but stayed on its wheels. Police said several soldiers were aboard.

Eight injured were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington. One was reported in critical condition; the others in serious condition.

Six others were taken to Booth Hospital, also in Covington.

Doctor Files Fee Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A former Marion radiologist charges in a suit filed here that partners in the Frederick C. Smith Clinic in Marion are violating an Ohio law against fee-splitting among doctors.

The plaintiff, Dr. Henry C. Bount Jr., formerly was a partner in the clinic. He asked Franklin County Common Pleas Court for a declaratory judgment on the rights of the clinic partners. He named 11 partners as co-defendants.

James P. Jones of Columbus, Blount's attorney, said the declaratory judgment would help the doctor recover a substantial sum from the clinic.

In papers filed with the court, Dr. Blount said the clinic partnership agreement under which he worked provides that partners who leave must also leave behind their accounts receivable. He contended this means that his former partners will get part of his fees.

E. L. (Ted) Mitchell of Marion, attorney for the clinic, said his clients "deny emphatically" the claims of Dr. Blount.

"We do not think the (fee-splitting) statute has any application to a partnership agreement," Mitchell said.

Attorney Jones said the action was filed here because the legal climate is "more likely to be neutral." He said it was permissible to file it here because one of the defendants was in Columbus at the time.

Dr. Blount, who withdrew from the clinic partnership this month, now has a position at a Des Moines, Iowa, hospital.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Pre-Schooler Can Learn To Read

Your child only two, three or four is interested in the sounds of words. For "dog", he may say "bow wow"; for "clock", "tick tock"; for "cow", "moo moo", and so on. As you read nursery rhymes to him, he likes the sounds and may, if you pause after saying a rhyme several times, supply the rhyming word. Long before he enters school, his familiarity with many basic sounds may enable him to recognize a few words at sight. Capitalize on this early interest and experience by calling to his attention the initial letters and sounds of some of these words as he looks carefully at each one. Draw or cut out from old magazines or newspapers some pictures of familiar things that begin with the same sound. Under each picture, print clearly or type the name of the thing pictured, for example, bird, book or box. Have him look carefully at each word connected with the picture.

HELP HIM PASTE a number of such pictures and their naming words together on a sheet of strong paper, cardboard or on a page of a scrapbook. As he looks at this group of pictures, have him say the word which names each picture and listen for its beginning sound.

After his practice with pictured words beginning with the sound of "b", for example, have him do the same thing with a group of pictured words beginning with another letter. He can spend profitable hours, practicing on initial sounds made by various single letters, especially consonants.

Later, introduce him to initial sounds of words made by two letters, like "ch", as in chain, chair and child; "sh", as in shoe, ship, sheep; "pl", as in plane and plow, plum; "cl", as in clown, clip and clash.

Then you might interest him in the sounds made by two letters at the end of a word, as "ck", in the words clock, lock and rock. You might say a number of such rhymed words ending with the same sound in a group.

AS YOU NAME one word — go, for example — have him say as many words as he can that rhyme with it. Later, you could have him see pictured words that rhyme, such as box, fox, ox; hat, rat, cat; man, pan, can.

In the early stages of his learning to get sounds of letters or groups of letters, it is wise to dwell only on consonants. Most consonants have only one sound, whereas each vowel has two or more different sounds.

One of the children's magazines regularly runs a page on "Fun with Phonics," in which pictured words are used to help the child learn the basic sounds in familiar words. Also, some paper-back booklets with similar exercises may be found at newsstands or bookstores.

My bulletins, "Home Fun with Phonics" and "Helping Child at Home in Early Steps of Reading," may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Burglars Fail In Attempt On Store's Safe

Amateurish burglars failed in an attempt to open a safe in a W. 6th St. grocery Saturday night or early Sunday, but escaped with about $15 in change, 10 to 15 cartons of cigarettes and a quantity of soda pop, police reported.

The entry occurred at the Gerace Market, 221 W. 6th St., operated by James G. Gerace, 2811 St. Clair Ave. It was timed between 5:30 p. m. Saturday and 10:54 a. m. Sunday.

Entry was gained by breaking a 28-x-36-inch transom over a rear door, police said. The intruders ransacked a desk in the rear of the store, then used a screwdriver to pry open a cash register and remove the change.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to open a safe by battering at the hinges, officers said.

The intruders also took the contents of a Salvation Army "Christmas kettle," a coin container on the counter near the register. The basement was entered by breaking the padlock on an outside cellar door. The soft drinks were stolen from the cellar, police said.

Three cases of vandalism also were reported to police over the weekend.

A member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post on Minerva St. nabbed three boys Saturday night at 8:58 after a BB was fired through a "one - way" pane of glass in the front door of the post home. Two of the boys are 14 and the other is 13.

The post member turned over the three boys to police after the 24-x-36-inch pane of glass was broken.

Charles Hicks, 1091 Mapletree St., told police at 6:02 Saturday night a stone was thrown through a 28-x-12-inch window in the east side of his house.

James Cunningham, 945 Dresden Ave., reported at 3:20 p. m. Sunday that a 12-x-22-inch pane of glass in a storm door on the rear of his home was broken by a stone hurled by youngsters.

District Masons Pick New Heads

LISBON — Edgar Moser of Columbiana was named president and John Barber of Youngstown was elected vice president at a meeting of the Past Masters' Association of the 24th Masonic District here Saturday.

Other officers are Frank Feeley of Youngstown, secretary, and Charles Mangus of Salem, treasurer. The election highlighted the 26th annual dinner meeting of the association.

The group is made up of Masonic members who have served as masters of their respective symbolic lodges. The district includes Mahoning and Columbiana counties.

Probe Starts In Base Fire

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Investigation opens today into the cause of the second million-dollar fire at Wright - Patterson Air Force Base within a week.

A board of officers will try to determine what started Saturday's fire that leveled three buildings and damaged a fourth.

A base spokesman, estimating damage at upwards of $1 million, said officials are checking as a routine matter for arson or sabotage.

But he commented: "This would not be the sort of thing that a trained saboteur would go after."

Another spokesman, Maj. Ronald Greene, Wright-Patterson public information officer, said there are no indications of anything other than ordinary cause of either Saturday's fire or Wednesday's $2 million blaze that killed two firemen.

He said arson is not actively suspected but that it's always considered while probing a fire on a military establishment.

Burned to the ground in Saturday's conflagration were three buildings housing equipment of the orientation unit that makes and exhibits Air Force displays throughout the nation.

A fourth building, housing a bowling alley and personnel testing center, was damaged by smoke and water.

175 See Dance Show Of 'Buckskin' Group

An estimated 175 attended a dancing show presented by the "Buckskin Belles and Bows" of Lexington, Ky., Saturday night at Westgate Auditorium.

The appearance of the national folk dancing champions from Explorer Post 4 was sponsored by Columbiana Explorer Council.

The group of 50 boys and girls left Sunday at 4 a. m. for the return trip by bus and auto, according to Robert W. Gray, Cherokee District Boy Scout chairman.

Space Agency Seeks Engineers, Scientists

CINCINNATI (AP)—A National Aeronautics and Space Administration recruiting team was to begin interviews of scientists here today.

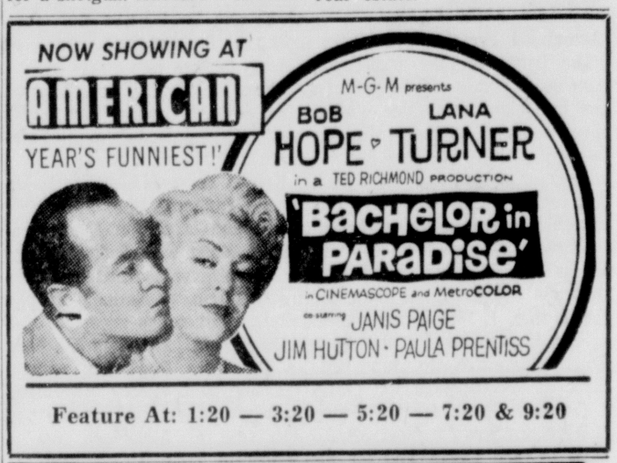

NASA is hoping to recruit 2,000 scientists and engineers for work on critical space projects. The team will move on to other eastern cities after finishing in Cincinnati.

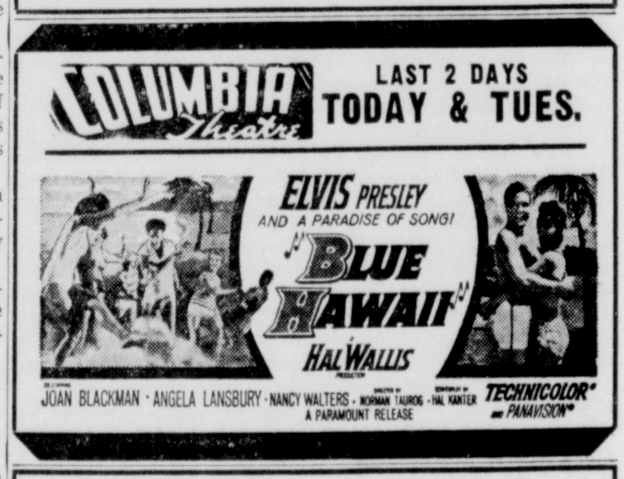

Cincinnati Man Held For Shotgun Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held Frank Newsome Jr., 24, today for questioning about the fatal shooting of Fred Hubbard, 44.

Police said Hubbard got out of his car Sunday night with a butcher knife in his hand after Newsome teased him about his wife. Newsome ran to his home for a shotgun. Hubbard was found dead in the hall, shot in the stomach, police said.

The famed American merchant and financier, John Jacob Astor, spent his early years in hardship and privation. He first became successful as a fur dealer in 1786, later added pianos, becoming the first regular dealer in musical instruments in New York. The bulk of his great fortune, however, came from investments, chiefly real estate.

Worker Missing In River Mishap

CINCINNATI (AP) — One man was missing after a 100-foot long derrick boat capsized Sunday night in the Ohio River near the Fernbank Dam several miles below here.

Capt. John Beatty, owner of the boat, said Jack Williams, 47, a combination cook and watchman, was aboard when Beatty left the boat late Sunday.

No trace of Williams was found after the boat capsized.

First word of trouble came when a passing towboat notified another that the derrick boat appeared to be sinking. By the time the second towboat arrived at the scene the derrick boat had sunk.

Capt. Beatty could give no immediate explanation for the sinking.

The derrick boat came here last week after raising some sunken barges in the Ohio. Since then it has been unloading scrap iron near the Fernbank Dam.

Airlifting Electric Power Towers

...another new way AEP keeps your electric costs low

Power towers that bring electricity to your home, or business, are now being flown to their foundations by helicopter.

Helicopters are working on American Electric Power System lines as go-anywhere trucks...as flying cranes...as high-speed cable stringers.

Doing things in new ways to improve service and efficiency is one big reason why the average unit price of electricity, for customers of Ohio Power Company, has not gone up during twenty years of inflation.

Your service is better, your rates are lower because Ohio Power Company is a part of the American Electric Power System. Supplying more electricity than any other investor-owned utility, AEP aids the economic growth of 2,350 communities in seven states. Through integrated operations, progressive engineering, research and coordinated management, the six member companies of AEP bring you low-cost power with greatest dependability.

25th Wedding Anniversary Of Lisbon Couple Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Prudner of E. Washington St., Lisbon, were surprised Saturday evening when 50 relatives and friends gathered in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The affair was planned and given by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wolfe of Dayton, at the home of Mrs. Prudner's sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lewis of Sunset Dr.

The honored guests received gifts, which were displayed in the living room of the Lewis home with a cornucopia of mums centering the table.

In the dinning room, a buffet table laid in white was marked with a tiered anniversary cake, topped with the numerals "25" in silver and decorated with white rosebuds and silver beads.

Aides Listed

Mrs. Wolfe was assisted in serving by her aunts, Mrs. Lewis, Miss Grace Miller, Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. Thomas Miller.

The former F. Betty Miller and Harry G. Prudner were married in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, at Wellsville on Nov. 26, 1936, by the Rev. J. Frank Stewart, then pastor of the Methodist Church there. They were attended by Miss Grayce Miller, sister of the bride, and Howard Crosser of Lisbon, who also were present at the anniversary party.

Guests were present from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Minerva, Cleveland, Youngstown and Lisbon.

Club Honors Guest

A bon voyage party for Miss Ethel Harris of Youngstown was the feature Friday night when Mrs. Bruno Pezzano of E. Lincoln Way entertained members of the Toc-L Club at her home.

Miss Harris, a sister of Mrs. Charles Senanefes of N. Beaver St. and a frequent guest of the club, will leave Dec. 8 for a three-month vacation trip to Athens, Greece, where she will visit relatives. A decorated cake was included in the lunch served by the hostess. The honoree also was showered with gifts.

The evening was spent in Canasta, with prizes going to Miss Harris and Mrs. Senanefes.

The next meeting will be the club's Christmas party Dec. 14 with dinner in Youngstown and a gift exchange.

Cards Feature Meeting

The Double Four Club was entertained Friday night by Miss Helene Prudner at her home on W. Chestnut St. Mrs. P. J. Brennan and Mrs. Betty Kodrich were guests.

Cards were the diversion and lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. J. R. Forbes of W. Lincoln Way will receive the club Dec. 9.

The annual roll call was the feature Friday night when the Pythian Sisters met at the Pythian Temple. Mrs. Bessie Lipe presided.

The first nomination of officers was held. Cards followed.

The next meeting will be Dec. 8 when a social and lunch will follow business.

Couple Has Twins

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bunting of Zanesville are the parents of twins born Nov. 10. They have been named Larry Lee and Sharri Ann. Mrs. Bunting is the granddaughter of Mrs. Lester Pribble of Wellsville Ave., who has returned from Zanesville, where she spent two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Berdine of E. Washington St. are parents of a son born Nov. 22 at Salem City Hospital. He has been named Douglas Eric. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hiscox of Lisbon - Leetonia Rd. are the maternal grandparents and Mrs. Anna V. Berdine of New Freeport, Pa., is the paternal grandmother.

Guests End Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Libby of Canton and Miss Annabelle Libby, librarian with the elementary school system in Shaker Heights, returned to their homes Sunday afternoon after spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Libby of W. Lincoln Way. The Earl Libbys also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Foster Shattuck of E. Pine St.

Mrs. A. E. Christopher has returned to her home on Vine St. after spending the holiday in Cleveland with Mrs. Malcolm Janes and Mr. and Mrs. James Stephen and children.

Woman Returns Home

Mrs. Robert Stacey of N. Jefferson St. returned home Saturday after visiting last week in the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John King in Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Timmerman of Lincoln Highway, East, visited over Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McCullough, in Mingo Junction.

Holiday guests in the home of Atty. and Mrs. Richard Kennedy and daughters were Mrs. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myron White and Mrs. Charles Jenkins of Alliance, Mrs. Iva Dixon of Canton and Mrs. Hazel Lambert of Lisbon.

Visit At Salem

Mrs. Ruth McKee and daughters, Misses Catherine and Laura, and Verne Tenzek of W. Chestnut St. spent Thanksgiving with another daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith and family in Salem.

Thanksgiving holiday guests in the home of Mrs. Raymond Wilhelm of Blocksom St. were Bob Pike of Salem and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Webber and family of Columbiana.

Misses Elizabeth and Olive John and Ernest John of Chester spent Thanksgiving with Miss Esther Stackhouse of E. Chestnut St.

Mrs. Erma Staats and daughter, Miss Eva Mae, of Cream Ridge Rd. had as holiday guests for a family party Mrs. William Foden and daughter, Peggy, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wolfe and daughter, Nancy, and Mrs. Jane Hyatt and children, all of East Liverpool, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Capehart of Chester.

Couple Visits Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pribble of Wellsville Ave. spent Thanksgiving with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Satterfield, and sons, Ricky and Claude Jr., in Fairmont, W. Va.

Miss Ruth Anne Gerrard, student at Wooster College, spent the holidays with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul T. Gerrard of E. Chestnut St.

The five circles of the Womens Association of the First Presbyterian Church will meet Tuesday for the annual Thank-offering program.

The recipient of the 1961 offering will be named and their needs explained. Spiritual life leaders and world service chairmen will be in charge of the programs.

Meeting Times Given

Meeting at 1:30 in the afternoon will be Naomi Circle, with Mrs. A. H. Timmerman, and Martha Circle, with Mrs. George Lafferty.

The evening circles will meet at 8. Ruth Circle at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Hult; Esther Circle with Mrs. Don Lepley and Mary Circle with Miss Helene Prudner.

The Daughters of America Council, Pride of Center 190, will meet Thursday night at 7:30 at the lodge hall. November birthday anniversaries will be honored during the social hour.

Elm Grove Man Waits Hearing For Kidnap

WHEELING (AP)—A hearing was set Tuesday for James Hoffman, 21-year-old Elm Grove youth accused of kidnapping a Bridgeport, Ohio, girl.

Hoffman was named in a warrant sworn out by the girl's father, Frank Krenzel. However, the girl, 18-year-old Diana Krenzel, denied that she was abducted.

Miss Krenzel said she and Hoffman had gone on a shopping trip to Pittsburgh. They returned Friday. Hoffman was released under $5,000 bond pending the hearing on a kidnaping charge.

Parked Car Struck

LISBON — A parked car owned by Laverne Allisnon, 60, of near Salem and an auto driven by Oliver Powell, 52, of Lisbon R. D. 5 were damaged in a mishap Saturday at 2:05 p. m. on Exchange St., police said. Pulling out of a parking lot at a doctor's office, Powell's auto hit the Allison auto, police said. Damage was estimated at $100 to each car.

2 New Members Installed As Cub Group Convenes

John Prokop and Michael Ludovici were inducted as new members of Cub Scout Pack 7 at a meeting Friday night at St. Aloysius School auditorium.

The ceremony was conducted by Matthew Kuzmich, cubmaster. The boys were presented wolf books. Kuzmich presented bear badges to Richard King and George Eskra and one-year pins to John Bryan, John Capraruolo and Frank Youst.

Mrs. Mary King, a den mother, received a one-year pin. Mrs. John Prokop was introduced as a new den mother.

The meeting opened with prayer and the flag ceremony. Frank Youst led group singing. James Sherwood, committeeman, was in charge of the handicraft display. Receiving handicraft awards were James Sherwood, Michael Purton and Jeffrey Buckley. The presentations were made by Fr. John Cunningham, assistant pastor of St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

James Purton, pack chairman, thanked Phillip Chronister for a hayride and wiener roast held at his home. Mr. and Mrs. Chronister were guests. Den 1 presented a skit on magic. Members of Troop 19, with Jack Glover, as scoutmaster, presented Indian dances.

Communion Sunday will be observed at the 9 a. m. Mass Sunday.

The pack will visit a local pottery Dec. 8. A Christmas party will be held Dec. 22 at the school auditorium.

Refreshments were served.

Nitro Girl, 18, Named Winner Of 4-H Award

CHICAGO (AP) — Joyce Lee of Nitro, W. Va. today was chosen one of six national winners in the 4-H club foods-nutrition program.

The award, a $400 scholarship, was given by the Federal Foods Corp. and presented today during the 40th National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Miss Lee, 18, has been in 4-H club work for nine years and is now a sophomore at Morris Harvey College in Charleston, W. Va.

Worker Missing In River Mishap

CINCINNATI (AP) — One man was missing after a 100-foot long derrick boat capsized Sunday night in the Ohio River near the Fernbank Dam several miles below here.

Capt. John Beatty, owner of the boat, said Jack Williams, 47, a combination cook and watchman, was aboard when Beatty left the boat late Sunday.

No trace of Williams was found after the boat capsized.

First word of trouble came when a passing towboat notified another that the derrick boat appeared to be sinking. By the time the second towboat arrived at the scene the derrick boat had sunk.

Capt. Beatty could give no immediate explanation for the sinking.

The derrick boat came here last week after raising some sunken barges in the Ohio. Since then it has been unloading scrap iron near the Fernbank Dam.

ORDINANCE NUMBER 38, 1961

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR ISSUANCE OF DANCE HALL LICENSE, POSTING THEREOF AND FEES CHARGED AND AMENDING SECTION 155 OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF EAST LIVERPOOL, 1951.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio:

SECTION 1. That present Section 155 of the Code of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio, 1951, be amended, which amended section is hereby ordained to read as follows:

Section 155. Public Dance Halls-Issuance of License; fees; posting of license.

The Mayor is hereby authorized to issue, for a period of one year, a license to any suitable person applying for the same, authorizing such person to maintain, keep and conduct a public dance hall upon payment for such license the sum of fifty dollars, provided that for a public dance hall in which minors between the age of 14 and 18 years inclusive only are admitted the annual license fee shall be five dollars.

In lieu of the fifty dollar yearly license, the mayor is authorized to grant a daily license for the daily operation of public dances to any such person under the terms and conditions herein contained for the sum of five dollars for one day. Such daily license shall be in full force and effect for one day only and such day is hereby declared to be the date of issuance of the license or the date specified therein. The license so granted shall at all times, while such hall is in use, be posted in a conspicuous place in the dance hall, open to public inspection.

SECTION 2. That existing Section 155 of said Code be, and the same is, hereby repealed effective upon the date the amended section becomes effective.

SECTION 3. That this Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Airlifting Electric Power Towers

...another new way AEP keeps your electric costs low

Power towers that bring electricity to your home, or business, are now being flown to their foundations by helicopter.

Helicopters are working on American Electric Power System lines as go-anywhere trucks...as flying cranes...as high-speed cable stringers.

Doing things in new ways to improve service and efficiency is one big reason why the average unit price of electricity, for customers of Ohio Power Company, has not gone up during twenty years of inflation.

Your service is better, your rates are lower because Ohio Power Company is a part of the American Electric Power System. Supplying more electricity than any other investor-owned utility, AEP aids the economic growth of 2,350 communities in seven states. Through integrated operations, progressive engineering, research and coordinated management, the six member companies of AEP bring you low-cost power with greatest dependability.

RESOLUTION NUMBER 26, 1961
RESOLUTION DECLARING IT NECESSARY TO IMPROVE PARTS OF FISHER PARK SUBDIVISION FRONTING ON NORTH SURREY ROAD AND SOUTH SURREY ROAD BY CONSTRUCTING THEREIN A SANITARY SEWER OF HARD BURNED VITRIFIED SEWER PIPE.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio, three-fourths of all its members elected thereto concurring:

SECTION 1. That it is necessary to improve parts of North Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 14, Block I, Third Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to the intersection with South Surrey Road, and South Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 29, Block G, Third Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to the intersection with North Surrey Road and a ten foot strip of land running from Lot 10, Block F, Third Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to Lot 29, Block J, Fourth Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, upon which an easement has been duly dedicated to the public use for the purpose of the improvement recited herein by constructing therein a sanitary sewer of hard burned vitrified sewer pipe, together with all necessary manholes, flush tanks, branch connections, and doing everything else necessary or essential for the proper completion of said improvement in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles hereinafter mentioned.

SECTION 2. That it is hereby determined that the streets and easement above set forth in Section 1 to be so improved are so situated in relation to each other than in order to complete the improvement thereof in the most practical and economical manner the same should be improved at the same time, with the same kind of materials and in the same manner.

SECTION 3. That the grade of said sewer shall be shown on said plans, specifications and profiles, which are by reference made a part hereof.

SECTION 4. That the plans, specifications, profiles and estimates of said proposed improvements, heretofore prepared by the City Engineer and now on file in the office of the Director of Public Service, where the same are open for public inspection be, and the same are hereby approved.

SECTION 5. That the whole cost of said improvement, less one-fiftieth thereof and the cost of intersections, shall be assessed in proportion to the benefits which may result from the improvement upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit: Fisher Park Subdivision:

Lots 10 to 17, inclusive, Block F, Third Addition,

Lots 18 and 19, Block F, Fourth Addition,

Lots 10 to 15, inclusive, and lots 22 to 29, inclusive, Block G, Third Addition,

Lots 16 to 21, inclusive, Block G, Fourth Addition,

Lots 8 to 14, inclusive, Block I, Third Addition, and

which said lots are hereby determined to be specially benefitted by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the expense of the preliminary and other surveys and of printing and publishing the notices, resolutions and ordinances required, and the serving of said notices, the cost of construction, together with interest on notes and bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments and all other necessary expenditures.

SECTION 6. That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in five annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection thereof; provided, that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty days after the passage of the assessing ordinance.

SECTION 7. That bonds of the City of East Liverpool shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amout equal thereto; and notes of said City shall be issued in anticipation of the issue of such bonds.

SECTION 8. That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvements, not specially assessed, including the cost of intersections, together with the cost of any real estate or interest therein, purchased or appropriated, and the costs and expenses of any appropriation proceeding therefor, and the damages awarded any owner of adjoining lands and interest therein, and the costs and expenses of any such award, shall be paid by the issuance of bonds in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 9. That said improvement has been found by Council to be, and is hereby declared to be, conducive to and necessary for the public health, convenience and welfare.

SECTION 10. That this Resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

LEGAL NOTICES

RESOLUTION NUMBER 26, 1961
RESOLUTION DECLARING IT NECESSARY TO IMPROVE PARTS OF FISHER PARK SUBDIVISION FRONTING ON NORTH SURREY ROAD AND SOUTH SURREY ROAD BY CONSTRUCTING THEREIN A SANITARY SEWER OF HARD BURNED VITRIFIED SEWER PIPE.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio, three-fourths of all its members elected thereto concurring:

SECTION 1. That it is necessary to improve parts of North Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 14, Block I, Third Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to the intersection with South Surrey Road, and South Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 29, Block G, Third Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to the intersection with North Surrey Road and a ten foot strip of land running from Lot 10, Block F, Third Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to Lot 29, Block J, Fourth Addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, upon which an easement has been duly dedicated to the public use for the purpose of the improvement recited nerein by constructing therein a sanitary sewer of hard burned vitrified sewer pipe, together with all necessary manholes, flush tanks, branch connections, and doing everything else necessary or essential for the proper completion of said improvement in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles hereinafter mentioned.

SECTION 2. That it is nereby determined that the streets and easement above set forth in Section 1 to be so improved are so situated in relation to each other than in order to complete the improvement thereof in the most practical and economical manner the same should be improved at the same time, with the same kind of materials and in the same manner.

SECTION 3. That the grade of said sewer shall be shown on said plans, specifications and profiles, which are by reference made a part hereof.

SECTION 4. That the plans, specifications, profiles and estimates of said proposed improvements, heretofore prepared by the City Engineer and now on file in the office of the Director of Public Service, where the same are open for public inspection be, and the same are hereby approved.

SECTION 5. That the whole cost of said improvement, less one-fiftieth thereof and the cost of intersections, shall be assessed in proportion to the benefits which may result from the improvement upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit: Fisher Park Subdivision:

Lots 10 to 17, inclusive, Block F, Third Addition,

Lots 18 and 19, Block F, Fourth Addition,

Lots 10 to 15, inclusive, and lots 22 to 29, inclusive, Block G, Third Addition,

Lots 16 to 21, inclusive, Block G, Fourth Addition,

Lots 8 to 14, inclusive, Block I, Third Addition, and

Lots 29 to 40, inclusive, Block J, Fourth Addition,

which said lots are hereby determined to be specially benefitted by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the expense of the preliminary and other surveys and of printing and publishing the notices, resolutions and ordinances required, and the serving of said notices, the cost of construction, together with interest on notes and bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments and all other necessary expenditures.

SECTION 6. That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in five annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection thereof; provided, that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty days after the passage of the assessing ordinance.

SECTION 7. That bonds of the City of East Liverpool shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amout equal thereto; and notes of said City shall be issued in anticipation of the issue of such bonds.

SECTION 8. That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvements, not specially assessed, including the cost of intersections, together with the cost of any real estate or interest therein, purchased or appropriated, and the costs and expenses of any appropriation proceeding therefor, and the damages awarded any owner of adjoining lands and interest therein, and the costs and expenses of any such award, shall be paid by the issuance of bonds in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 9. That said improvement has been found by Council to be, and is hereby declared to be, conducive to and necessary for the public health, convenience and welfare.

SECTION 10. That this Resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed this 6th day of November, 1961.

LETTERS TO SANTA

DEAR ST. NICK: Would you please put the key to this new 3 bedroom 1 story home on Croft St., off Westfield Rd. in our Christmas stocking? It has 1500 sq. ft. of living space, and the most beautiful plaster and hardwood floors. The large kitchen-dining area has tiled floor, and the built-in cabinets are so pretty. We also like the basement garage and the attached garage. It has everything we want, including a big bath, lot 100 x 200, gas furnace, and it's only $15,000. Sincerely, MR. & MRS. HOME HUNTER.

DEAR SANTA CLAUS: My parents have been very good this year. For Christmas, please give my Mommy a 5 room house with 3 bedrooms, heavenly custom kitchen with range, wall oven, disposal, and power mixer, a tiled bath, floors completely carpeted and drapes hung. My Daddy wants a tiled recreation room, an attached double garage, gas furnace and a 75x176 lot. Please will you get it for them? The owner is sick and has to move. Mommy and Daddy would love to have it, and so would we kids. It's on Densmore Avenue and it's only $17,350.00. Thank you, KATHY AND KRIS.

TOPS

Nearly new ranch type brick veneer home in Calcutta Acres that is for sale much below replacement cost and is in better than new condition. Beautifully landscaped lot that can only come with the 5 years of care, and many additions such as cedar closets in basement, partially finished recreation room and wall to wall carpeting, that are added on the price and are your gain. Owner has been transferred and this three bedroom is priced to sell. Will compete with any home on the market in the very low twenty thousand dollar bracket.

LETTERS TO SANTA

DEAR ST. NICK: Would you please put the key to this new 3 bedroom 1 story home on Croft St., off Westfield Rd. in our Christmas stocking? It has 1500 sq. ft. of living space, and the most beautiful plaster and hardwood floors. The large kitchen-dining area has tiled floor, and the built-in cabinets are so pretty. We also like the basement garage and the attached garage. It has everything we want, including a big bath, lot 100 x 200, gas furnace, and it's only $15,000. Sincerely, MR. & MRS. HOME HUNTER.

DEAR SANTA CLAUS: My parents have been very good this year. For Christmas, please give my Mommy a 5 room house with 3 bedrooms, heavenly custom kitchen with range, wall oven, disposal, and power mixer, a tiled bath, floors completely carpeted and drapes hung. My Daddy wants a tiled recreation room, an attached double garage, gas furnace and a 75x176 lot. Please will you get it for them? The owner is sick and has to move. Mommy and Daddy would love to have it, and so would we kids. It's on Densmore Avenue and it's only $17,350.00. Thank you, KATHY AND KRIS.

TOPS

Nearly new ranch type brick veneer home in Calcutta Acres that is for sale much below replacement cost and is in better than new condition. Beautifully landscaped lot that can only come with the 5 years of care, and many additions such as cedar closets in basement, partially finished recreation room and wall to wall carpeting, that are added on the price and are your gain. Owner has been transferred and this three bedroom is priced to sell. Will compete with any home on the market in the very low twenty thousand dollar bracket.

INVENTORY CLEARANCE

LITTENS used car lot is overcrowded with trade ins. We must drastically reduce our inventory for three good reasons. Number 1. We must pay an inventory tax on every car in stock at the end of the year. Number 2. We would rather offer these cars to the buying public at a low price than wholesale them to used car dealers. Number 3. We must have space for additional trades.

Because we need the space so badly we are offering these useful cars at extremely low prices and on a no trade basis. We will help you dispose of your old car and can arrange no down payment financing if you have good credit. Come in early for the best selection.

INVENTORY CLEARANCE

LITTENS used car lot is overcrowded with trade ins. We must drastically reduce our inventory for three good reasons. Number 1. We must pay an inventory tax on every car in stock at the end of the year. Number 2. We would rather offer these cars to the buying public at a low price than wholesale them to used car dealers. Number 3. We must have space for additional trades.

Because we need the space so badly we are offering these useful cars at extremely low prices and on a no trade basis. We will help you dispose of your old car and can arrange no down payment financing if you have good credit. Come in early for the best selection.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Have you any advice on the use of a star drill for making holes in concrete?

A. You can make the job of pounding a star drill into the concrete much easier if you'll provide a firm, shock - resistant grip on your drill. To do this, cut a hole through a solid rubber ball and force your drill through it. The shock of your hammer blows will then be absorbed by the ball, and you'll reduce hand-fatigue considerably.

Q. How can I flatten the edge or corner of a linoleum rug that persists in bulging or curling up?

A. Place a hot-water bottle filled with hot water over the bulged or curled area. When the linoleum is thoroughly warm, remove the bottle and place a large book or flat weight over the spot until it has cooled. A stubborn spot will usually respond to this treatment.

Q. How can I remedy a pair of gloves when some of the fingers are a bit too tight for comfortable wearing?

A. Insert a clean, cold curling iron into each finger. Open the iron slightly to stretch gently, pulling the iron out slowly at the same time to avoid "fan" shaping of the fingertips of the gloves.

Q. How can I remove mascara stains from some of my towels?

A. Since mascara is soluble in water, most of such stains will come out during the regular session in the washing machine.

Q. How can I make a dry shampoo to clean the hair of a person who is suffering from a severe cold?

A. Massage some dry cornmeal thoroughly into the scalp, then brush it out. This treatment will invigorate the scalp and at the same time give the hair a natural gloss, besides a much cleaner feeling.
